FIVE KILLED IN EXPLOSION ON RAILWAY GRADE

One Man Blown to Pieces When Hidden Dynamite Is Struck.

THREE MORE ARE SERIOUSLY HURT

Man Starts to Dig Out Cases of Explosive and Drives Pick Into It.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Oct. 21.—One man was blown to pieces, four others were instantly killed and three more were seriously injured by a dynamite explosion today on the Bellingham and Skagit interurban railway grade, about seven miles west of Bellingham.

The men were working in a small cut where a steam shovel was about to begin work. It was discovered that two cases, or 200 pounds of dynamite placed there a month before and supposed to have been exploded, was still intact. The men started to dig it out and one of them struck the explosive with a pick. The explosion followed.

NO CHANGE IN SHOP STRIKE

Union Men and Railways Each Claim to Be Pleased With Situation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Three weeks have passed since the federated shopmen employed by the Harriman lines walked out and the situation tonight is practically the same as it was at the time the walkout was ordered.

There has been virtually no violence. The shops in this city, in Portland, Sacramento and Los Angeles have been carefully picketed but the clashes between union men and strike breakers have been few.

Both sides claim victory. The strikers claim that the rolling stock of the Southern Pacific Company is in bad shape, but the railroad company says that it has sufficient non-union mechanics to make all necessary repairs. The strikers assert that trains are not running on schedule time but the railroad officials state that no serious delays have resulted from the strike.

From Portland it is reported that 65 per cent of the normal force has been replaced and that by increasing the working hours all necessary repair work can be handled.

The Southern Pacific Company, according to officials, has experienced little inconvenience as a result of the strike. Company officials here when asked regarding conditions, declare that the strike is over.

Strikers and company officials alike are agreed that this has been the most orderly strike in years. Were it not for the picketing it would be difficult to discover that a strike was in progress.

CONFIDENT.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—After three weeks of being out on strike the leaders of the shopmen who walked out of the Southern Pacific and Salt Lake railroad shops here September 80 today declared themselves as still confident that they would win in their efforts to force the railroads to recognize their federation.

Strike leaders declared that the shopmen were remaining firm in their determination to remain out until they had accomplished the desired recognition of their organization. They have been holding frequent meetings for the receiving of reports and the planning of their strike campaign.

On the other hand the railroad assert they have experienced no difficulty in maintaining in their shops a force sufficient for all necessary work.

No violence has resulted in Los Angeles because of the walk out. The union men have entirely discountenanced anything approaching force and have merely kept themselves posted through lookouts, so they said, of the findings of the railroad officials.

NO CHANGE AT SACRAMENTO.

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21.—There has been little change in the situation at the Sacramento shops of the Southern Pacific, the most important in the system since the beginning of the strike three weeks ago today. The men appear to be standing firm, while the railroad has crossed their names out of its books and claims to have enough help to do the work. The normal force here is about 2400 and the best information obtainable is that about 1800 men are still working. The strike leaders gave out a detailed statement at the beginning, showing more than 500 names signed to the strike rolls. There have been some accessions since, but not large. Last week about 100 Union foremen were ordered to quit, but they failed to obey the command.

The strikers claim that the rolling stock, particularly the engines of the road, are suffering that trains are delayed and that these conditions are steadily growing worse. The assertions are denied by the railroad. The men have been talking from the first of sympathetic strikes of other railroad unions and it was declared that something of this sort would develop by Oct. 15 but they have as yet received no such assistance.

The shops are closely picketed by the strikers and heavily guarded by the road. But there has been no sign of violence of any kind. It is the most quiet and orderly strike ever seen here.

BEAN GROWERS IN ORGANIZATION TO FIGHT MIDDLEMEN

(Special to the Republican.)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21—The Lima Bean Growers' Association of Southern California today declared war against the middlemen, and the fight is to be carried to the last ditch, according to President Charles Dunlap, who came from the headquarters at Oxnard to reconnoiter. The organization produces 1,150,000 sacks of beans yearly, and its head asserts that as soon as the brokers can buy a sufficient part of the crop they will make a corner, squeezing both grower and consumer.

To make themselves a power and break the solidity of the organization, the brokers today offered 25 cents per hundredweight more to the growers than to the association, but the members are pledged to stand together and appear ready to forego the added profit obtainable.

The brokers accuse the association of being a trust in restraint of trade. It's business is $2,000,000 a year.

POSSIBLY NO JURY TILL END OF YEAR

Very Difficult to Secure Unbiased Minds in L. A. Murder Case.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—A jury in the McNamara murder trial by January 1, 1912, was the prediction made today by Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense. Today opposing counsel for the defense took opportunity to clear up the tag ends of the first complete court week in the trial of James B. McNamara for the murder of Charles J. Haggerty in the Los Angeles Times explosion.

Attorney Darrow's statement was based, he said, partly upon the progress made thus far, which shows three talesmen in the jury subject to peremptory challenge but more upon the opposition manifested by talesmen to infliction of the death penalty on circumstantial evidence, or in some instances, upon any conditions.

"It's getting harder all the time to get a jury in murder cases, according to my experience," said Darrow. "The defense expects that this sentiment will form a considerable obstacle.

"The state already has made public some of the direct evidence in the case including the statement made by Ortie E. McManigal implicating the defendant, and is known not to be dependent upon circumstantial evidence altogether, but District Attorney John D. Fredericks has taken the position that the people are entitled to a jury which will convict entirely upon circumstantial evidence, if a case beyond reasonable doubt is made that way, and this position was sustained by Judge Walter Bordwell.

Next week probably will elicit a ruling as to whether a talesman having no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, but believing the Los Angeles Times was dynamited, may serve as a juror. The defense holds that he cannot be of unprejudiced mind if this is his views.

Mrs. Mary T. McNamara, mother of the defendant, and his brother John J., did not arrive here this week as was expected. It was learned that there is a new arrival in the home of her daughter, with whom she is staying in the Middle West, at a place not disclosed by the defense, and for this reason Mrs. McNamara's trip here has been postponed.

Ortie E. McManigal talked willingly to visitors today without shedding any new light on the case. He admitted being depressed by suit for divorce filed against him a week ago by his wife, but said everything else was all right.

Attaches of the court commented today upon the fact that a new crowd appears in the court room every day to listen to the case. Persons who return day after day are as yet noticeably absent, although when the trial proper begin, these "repenters" are expected to appear.

FOWLER MAKES SIXTY MILES

Hopes to Fly to Yuma Today Across Great Desert.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 21.—Aviator Robert G. Fowler made sixty miles today on his second day's trip of his transcontinental flight. Starting at Pasadena at 10:20 a. m. he announced that he hoped to reach Yuma, Arizona, more than 100 miles away by nightfall.

But as it turned out Fowler was unlucky. Going over Pomona, 30 miles from here, at an altitude of 2500 feet, Fowler gradually raised his planes until he had reached a height of about 4000 feet. Then suddenly his engine stopped. A sheer drop of 400 feet ensued before the aviator was able to turn and get his machinery in motion again. This accomplished he steered directly for the ground and made a good landing here at 11:28 a. m. While flying Fowler made nearly a mile a minute.

The aviator said he would start again at 6 o'clock in the morning and go straight across the desert for Yuma.

WOMAN FOUND ASPHYXIATED

SANTA CRUZ, Oct. 21.—Mrs. O. Frank Lappo, wife of a wealthy real estate man of this city was found dead in the kitchen of her home today. Jets on the gas range were open and the doors and windows of the room closed. Death was caused by asphyxiation.

SECOND BATTLE IS EXPECTED IN CHINA TOMORROW

Some Skirmishing Near Hankow; Insurgents Are Active.

SHAN TUNG MAY HAVE GONE OVER

Rebel Leaders Order All Chinese in Sympathy to Cut Off Queues.

HANKOW, Oct. 21—The situation here at present is quiet. The imperialists are awaiting an engagement with the revolutionists, which is expected on Monday. There was some skirmishing today.

The revolutionists are active. Innumerable guns have been mounted and the surrounding hills are strongly entrenched.

There is a report here that General Yin Tchang, in command of the government troops had arrived at his headquarters.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21—Sun Fo, son of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of the Chinese revolutionists, received a cablegram today announcing that the province of Shan Tung had fallen into the hands of the revolutionists.

Shan Tung is a province on the Yellow Sea about 65,000 square miles in extent and containing 30,000,000 inhabitants. It adjoins the province of Chili, in which Peking is situated.

Cables issued today by local Chinese newspapers stated that revolutionary troops were mobilizing for attacks on Canton and Peking.

U. L. HE FIGHT?

PEKING, Oct. 21. — General Yin Tching, the war minister, who is in the neighborhood of Sin Yang Chau, in Hunan province, has completed the mobilization of 20,000 men, but the opinion is held here that he has no intention for the present to begin an advance against the revolutionaries holding the towns of Wu Chang, Hun Yang and Hankow. The provinces of Hunan and Hu Peh are divided by a high range of hills, through which the only pass for many miles is traversed by the railway. It is reported that this pass is held by the rebels, who have posted many guns. They are supposed to have cut off 3,000 imperial troops, which were going northward from Hankow.

The government first mentioned Kwang Shui, which is on the south slope of the hills, as the place of Yin Tchang's mobilization, but evidently the war minister has been content to assemble his forces on the north side of the hills. The pass is believed to be impassable by the troops under Yin Tchang. Whether he will reinforce them is questioned because the growing feeling makes it necessary to maintain as many troops around Peking as possible. It is stated officially that Yin Tchang intends to perfect his organization before advancing on the rebels holding Hang chow, which is some miles below Hankow, which is Tse Kiang.

TROOPS RUN AWAY.

A reliable report has reached here that on the morning of October 18th the third brigade of government troops arriving at the Liu Cha Miao station were fired upon by rebels with thirty-six field guns, whereupon the whole brigade stampeded for the north. The provincial troops hastened to their aid, but without avail as the rout could not be checked.

The same advices state that the division has no option to do anything but return and await reinforcements. It is evident—if the report of the rout is true—that the government does not hold Kwang Shui.

The American consul at Che Foo reports to the legation that he Shang Tung cities are quiet. The coasts, however, are swarming with pirates. The Che Foo bank failed yesterday.

The Chinese government is so short of money that it is believed it will be unable to pay salaries of the metropolitan officials next month. The government has withdrawn all its customs receipts, amounting to 700,000 taels, from Tsing Tao.

Advices from Kaifening, Hunan, say that recruiting is going actively on. Most of the Manchu troops have left for the south and there appears to be no dissatisfaction among the men. Bandits are getting active in some provinces. Troops attacked and killed several of them in Lashu province.

MUST CUT QUEUES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—All Chinese wearing queues after midnight, October 21, will be adjudged Manchu sympathizers, according to a proclamation issued by Li Yung Huen, commander of the revolutionary forces in China today. A cablegram to this effect was received by Young China, a local newspaper, tonight from Kai Fung.

Bulletins announcing the edict were posted in the Chinese quarter here.

AMERICANS PREPARING.

MANILA, Oct. 21.—Local merchants received advances from the naval authorities today to deliver at once all food supplies which have been contracted for in behalf of the marines stationed here. It was announced that this assembling of supplies was a precautionary measure in view of the possibility that the entire force would be despatched for emergency duty in the foreign concessions at Hankow.

That naval authorities regarded the present disturbance in China as likely to be of long duration is indicated by the fact that the collier Abarenda, which sails this week for Shanghai, took ammunition for a long campaign.

STRUCK BY TRAIN; DIES.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 21.—Charles Kraus of 2610 Mission street, San Francisco, died at the county hospital this morning from a fractured skull. Kraus was found unconscious beside the railroad track near Santa Clara last evening. Whether he fell from a train or was walking on the track and struck by a passing train is not known.

FRUIT PACKERS LACK CARS; PRICES ARE STATIONARY

SAN JOSE, Oct. 21.—Fruit prices were reported stationary at top figures at the meeting of the San Jose grange today. The packers are said to be facing a car shortage which it tying up shipments to a considerable degree. A marked activity in the prune market is noted, according to reports, while the demand for apricots and peaches is declared to be comparatively quiet, although prices are maintained.

A report of K. G. Keesling from the recent conference of the Farmers' Educational Association at Davis grilled the school system of the state as responsible for a low mental and physical condition of the children. This brought on a spirited discussion in which it was proposed to reorganize the school system.

FRUIT SHIPMENTS NEARLY AS GREAT AS LAST SEASON

(Special to the Republican.)

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21—Despite the supposed great shortage of fruit this season, the total shipments to date are less than 400 carloads short of those of last season, being now 10,767, as against 11,148 on the same date last season. Yesterday's shipments were ninety-three carloads, or 60 percent greater than on the same date a year ago, the number being thirty-one carloads. Of this output, peaches formed five and a half carloads, pears one and a half carloads, grapes eighty-six and one-fourth carloads.

Last year nothing but grapes was shipped on this date. The grapes will continue to go forward for several days, and prices are rapidly going up on account of the curtailment of shipments during the present depressed condition of the market.

WEST MEXICAN STORM CAUSES MUCH SUFFERING

Eggs Sell for Twenty Cents Apiece and Other Food in Proportion.

TUCSON, Oct. 21—Eggs are selling at 20 cents each in Guaymas and other foods are correspondingly high, according to delayed mail advices from that city which reached Tucson today.

The high price of eggs is caused by the drowning of many chickens in the recent floods and because of damage to transportation facilities.

The transport Sampson, owned by the Sierra Pinta Mining Company at San Jorge Bay, left that port October 15th with a cargo of general supplies for Menlo Blanco where many storm sufferers are reported in a destitute condition.

SAYS HEARST IS AFTER DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION

Underwood Credits California to the Newspaperman's Column.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 21—Wm. R. Hearst's expressed intention of realigning himself with the Democratic party presages presentation of the publisher's name to the New York delegation as candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, according to Oscar W. Underwood, Democratic floor leader of the house of representatives.

Underwood made the forecast in an interview here today and declared he thought the Hearst following in the California delegation to the next Democratic convention would support Hearst for the presidential nomination.

RAILWAY BUILDER DIES AT DENVER

Henry Strong Was Once Presiednt of Santa Fe Railway.

DENVER, Oct. 21.—Henry Strong, pioneer Western railroad builder and for many years president of the Atchison, Tokepa and Santa Fe railroad, died tonight after an illness of more than a year. Neuritis is given as the cause of death.

Strong was born in Scotland, May 2, 1529. In the late sixties he gained international fame by taking active charge of the construction of the Santa Fe railway between Topeka, Kan., and the capital of what is now New Mexico, through a country overrun with Indians and outlaws.

The construction of the line was carried on under military guard.

Elected President of the Santa Fe soon afterward Strong remained at the head of that road until 1874, when he resigned to give his entire attention to personal business affairs in Lake Geneva, Wis., Santa Barbara, Cal., and Denver.

6-STORY BUILDING TO BE ERECTED ON ROWELL CORNER

Will be of Class-A Construction for Offices; Rowell-Chandler Company to Build

Fresno's first class A office building is to be erected by Dr. Chester Rowell and a number of associates on the doctor's property, corner of Tulare and K streets. The building will be six stories, with basement, of steel frame and brick construction, with pressed brick surface, and will cover the entire property area, 150 feet on Tulare street and 75 feet on K street. The building will front on both streets. The main entrance will be at the mid-Tulare frontage. It is estimated that the structure will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Articles of incorporation of the company have been prepared in the office of M. B. Harris, and are ready for filing in a few days. The company will be known as the Rowell-Chandler Co., and will consist of Dr. Chester Rowell, W. P. Chandler, Milo L. Rowell, Dr. W. T. Barr, E. F. Mitchell, M. B. Harris, and others. A final meeting of the incorporators is set for next Tuesday, when the articles will be signed and sent to the secretary of state.

Already considerable has been done toward the projected building and preliminary sketches are being made in San Francisco. The idea of the projectors is a building of massive and substantial tone, and at the same time not devoid of exterior grace and ornament. The walls will not be of sheer, unbroken appearance, but will in all probability follow something of the artistic lines of the new Palace hotel of San Francisco.

The first floor, of course, will be for stores, or commercial offices. The upper floors will be for offices, one probably being especially arranged for physicians and will be known as the Doctor's Floor. The others will be for general offices, while the top floor will, according to present plans, be devoted to a Commercial Club, and if this idea is carried out will be designed to especially meet the requirements of such an institution, which is admittedly needed in Fresno. The outlook upon the park would make the building an ideal site for such a club.

It is the intention of the builders to make the building modern in every respect and to look also somewhat into the future in its design and general arrangement. The elevator equipment especially will be ample, so that there need be no waits. The elevator system will be in the center of the building, just off the main Tulare street entrance. The building will be fire-proof and the office arrangement will embody the very latest ideas. The size of the site and the large frontage, 225 feet, lend themselves admirably to an ideal utilization of the floor space.

It is expected that it will be well toward the first of the year when plans are approved and the contract let. It is estimated that the construction will take nearly a year.

This building will take the place of Dr. Rowell's house, which has been his home for 37 years. The property was bought directly from the railroad, which laid out the town, and has not since figured on the recorder's records in any way. It is one of the few pieces of Fresno business property of which the abstract will be so simple.

TURKS SURPRISE ITALIAN FORCE

Reports Differ as to the Number Killed in Fight Near Tripoli.

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—A special dispatch from Tripoli reports a sanguinary fight on Thursday night near the town. The Turks surprised the Italians, who were caught between two fires. The warships were unable to give assistance. Fifteen Italian soldiers were found dead in the trenches. Many dead and wounded were transported to the warship. The authorities, however, assert that only one man is missing.

Another dispatch says the Turkish garrison at Benghazi is offering vigorous resistance to the Italian troops and is being aided by Senius tribesmen.

STRONG BACKING FOR ACCUSED CLERGYMAN

Evidence Said to Have Been Found to Connect Him With Girl's Death.

BOSTON, Oct. 21.—To strengthen the chain of circumstantial evidence on which Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson was arrested yesterday for the alleged murder of Miss Avis Linnell, the police today concentrated their efforts on ascertaining whether it was Richeson or another person who dined with the young music student last Saturday afternoon a few hours before she took the fatal cyanide of potassium.

The police say they have evidence that Richeson was her companion. They have worked on the theory that the man with whom Miss Linnell dined was the person who gave her the poison powder which she took believing it would remedy her physical condition.

Police attempts to obtain from the room in Cambridge occupied by Richeson some article which might further connect him with the charge were frustrated unexpectedly today. Inspectors who went to the pastor's rooms reported everything in a state of chaos, the result of a general ransacking prior to the police visit.

It is not known who did this but it has been given out that a newspaper reporter impersonated an officer and gained entrance to the apartment.

WITNESS FOUND.

That the police have discovered the restaurant at which Miss Linnell ate luncheon Saturday and that Richeson was the man who accompanied her, was reported from headquarters late today. It was said that a young woman at the Young Women's Christian Association building had been furnished this information. This witness, who is believed to have been the last person to talk with Miss Linnell before she took the poison, says the girl declared:

"I dined with Mr. Richeson."

In pursuing this line of investigation, the police say they have learned from a Cambridge man that on Thursday of last week, the minister was overheard to make an appointment by telephone for luncheon on Saturday with some person at the Young Women's Christian Association. John F. Donnakin, the informant, said Richeson

HILL FAVORS CENTRAL BANK

In Favor of Giving It Even Greater Power Than Aldrich Proposes.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 21.—James J. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern Railway, was the principal speaker today before the sub-committee of the National Monetary Commission. Tonight at an informal dinner Hill again gave his ideas regarding the proposed financial legislation. He commended the Aldrich plan highly, but said there were a few minor points in the bill that might be changed. He said that proposed central reserve association should be kept entirely out of politics with bankers to run the association and a limit of 5 per cent on the investment. He considered it a safe plan, but he differed with the commission on the turning of the surplus over to the government.

Instead of limiting the surplus to 20 to accumulate up to 150 per cent if need to accumulate up to 150 per cent if need be, and use this money for the benefit of the people and not for the benefit of the government which did not contribute a cent.

Hill said that there are plenty of safeguards to keep the proposed system from becoming a competitor with the banks.

NO ACTION TAKEN AT AVLLEY CONFERENCE

Fresno, Tulare, Kings and Kern Counties Absence; Another Meeting.

(Special to the Republican.)

STOCKTON, Oct. 21—At the meeting of the various San Joaquin valley counties' representatives this afternoon, held for the purpose of discussing ways and means for the construction of a San Joaquin valley building at the Panama exposition, only eight of the thirteen counties concerned were represented. As there was not a full representation, a committee consisting of E. C. Doller of the Stanislaus board of trade, C. A. Ribn of Contra Costa and Supervisor A. A. Clark of Madera were appointed for the purpose of obtaining delegates from the five counties not represented and to have another meeting within the next four weeks, possibly at San Francisco.

Those counties represented at today's meeting were Contra Costa, San Joaquin, Calaveras, Tuolumne, Mariposa, Stanislaus, Merced and Madera. Those counties which did not have a delegates present were Fresno, Kings, Tulare, Kern and Amador.

It is the intention of those interested in the matter to work together for an all-San Joaquin valley building, and because the southern counties were not represented no definite action was taken, pending a meeting when all the counties will send representatives.

CIVIL GOVERNMENT IS RESTORED IN SPAIN

MADRID, Oct. 21.—King Alfonso today issued a decree re-establishing the constitutional guarantees throughout Spain, which were suspended September 19, at the height of the recent strike disorders.

MISERY AT SEA ENDS IN ARREST OF SECT LEADER

Terrible Suffering Experienced By Holy Ghost and Us Society.

WORKED AT PUMPS UNTIL SKELETONS

Woman Has Sanford Arrested on Charge of Unlawful Detention.

PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 21.—As a climax to months of hardships, during which he and his followers suffered from hunger and thirst as their yacht Coronet was buffeted about by the seas and wind, Frank Sanford, leader of the Holy Ghost and Us Society of Shiloh was brought here tonight in the custody of officers.

His arrest was made on a writ in a civil suit brought by Mrs. Florence N. Whittaker, wife of one of the Sanford leaders who alleges that she had been illegally detained aboard the Kingdom, formerly one of the Sanford fleet. She was released on habeas corpus proceedings in June 1910.

When Sanford was brought ashore, Rev. A. W. Whittaker, husband of the woman who caused his arrest assisted Sanford in arranging bail; and he was released shortly after midnight. Damage in Mrs. Whittaker's suit is set at $5000.

Tonight the yacht Coronet swings at anchor off quarantine a wrecked and disabled craft while the story of hardship told by those on the boat ranks with some of the most terrible of sea tales.

Two of her men were taken to a hospital suffering with scurvy. Seven others, six men and one child, died of the same disease and were buried at sea according to statements of the crew. Many others have touches of scurvy.

So exhausted and weakened were the crew and passengers that it is doubtful if they could have kept their craft afloat for many days.

The Coronet had been at sea since June 27th, when she sailed from a Haitian port and was last reported on September 27th when she was sighted by the steamer Lapland flying signals which indicated that she was short of provisions. The Lapland sent relief and proceeded.

On board were 55 persons, including Rev. Sanford and his wife and five children. Besides the thirty one survivors of the bark Kingdom, which was wrecked off the coast of Africa, there were twenty-four persons who were on the Coronet when she left Maine waters. The party includes eleven children ranging in age from 5 to 16 yeares, and nineteen able bodied men.

For seven days the men and women had been working incessantly at the pumps in reliefs of three watches and this labor in their weakened condition had reduced even the strongest men to mere skeletons.

SYNOD VOTES AGAINST DAY

Demand Made That He Resign From Church Position.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 21—The members of the California and Nevada synod of the Presbyterian church, now in session in this city, were very much divided tonight as to whether Professor Thomas F. Day, teacher of Hebrew and higher criticism in the theological seminary at San Anselmo, should be retained in his present position. The synod will close its sessions tomorrow.

Today the synod voted to ask Professor Day to resign; if he did not, the directors of the theological seminary were instructed to depose him by January 1 next. This action followed a vote of 141 to 97 taken late yesterday in which the synod refused to pass a recommendation of the directors of the seminary requesting Professor Day to confine his teachings to the last course of the regular four years' term.

As on yesterday, friends of Professor Day late today rallied to his support and announced, though the synod had voted to demand his resignation, the directors of the seminary would now "even up" by refusing to depose Professor Day in case he refused to resign, which his friends announce he will not do.

CASE OF OPIUM WORTH $4000 HAS BEEN STOLEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21—A case of opium valued at $4000, which had been shipped from China under bond and en route to Central American ports, was stolen from the storeroom of the steamer City of Panama early today.

As the drug was under seal, the Pacific Mail steamship company is made liable for its loss. The ship was to sail for the south tomorrow.

MOBERLY, Mo., Oct. 21—R. H. Lamb, 52, a tailor, arrived in Moberly last night having walked from San Francisco. His destination is his old home in Princeton, Ind. He has been six months and twenty-one days on the road and says his health has been improved greatly by the long jaunt. Lamb is not walking on a wager or for a prize. He is compelled to walk for financial reasons.

Professor Crosby of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, who is an inspector of agricultural education, Professor W. T. Clarke of the Department of Agriculture in the University of California, and W. G. Hummel, an instructor in that department, and formerly a teacher in the Fresno high school, were in Fresno yesterday on a trip of inspection through the vineyards and wineries. They were taken by Dr. Rowell on an auto trip to the Kearney estate, Roeding's, the Minnewawa and the Barton vineyards.

Professor Crosby after his visit to the University Farm, declared that the Kearney property is the finest piece of agricultural and horticultural development that he has ever seen.

Professor Clarke came to Fresno to meet Professor Crosby after conducting farmers's institutes at Kingsburg. After staying here over Sunday, he goes to Tulare tonight, where he will conduct an institute during tomorrow and Tuesday. In this work he will be assisted by Dr. C. L. Roadhouse of Berkeley, an authority on veterinary surgery, and by J. I. Thompson of the University Farm at Davis, who will judge cattle for the stock raisers of that vicinity. Miss L. D. Clark will also assist at the institute with instruction in home economics and domestic science

STRATHMORE CLAIMS SAFETY RAZOR KING

Editor Republican—I notice in your issue of the 20th inst., an article under the heading "Pays Record Price for Orange Land," in which you state the Morey grove, recently sold to King C. Gillette is located in the "Lindsay district."

The fact is, Mr. Gillette does not own an acre of land in the "Lindsay district," every foot of his holdings is in the Strathmore district and tributary to this market. Furthermore, Mr. Morey purchased today a 72-acre tract adjacent to the town site of Strathmore and will immediately begin preparing it for planting in the spring.

RECOVERS MIND AFTER 14 YEARS

Surgical Operation Restores Seattle Man to New York Identity.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 21—S. Chandler Rogers who was attacked by three ruffians at the corner of Eighth avenue and sixteenth street, New York City, on the night of May 1, 1879 and thrown into the Hudson river after his skull had been fractured, wandered about the world for fourteen years under the name of George Kelly and was restored to himself in this city yesterday as the result of a surgical operation that removed pressure upon his skull.

Under the name of George Kelly, he served eleven years in the U. S. navy and was discharged at Bremerton July 1, 1910. Then he went to work in a saw mill at Port Blakeley and was married there two months ago.

On Oct. 10 he disappeared from his home and was found three days later in the dense forest, crawling on his hands and knees and snapping like a dog. On Oct. 13 he was brought to a hospital in Seattle. He was unable to speak or see and apparently was paralyzed. Last Sunday an operation was performed to remove a portion of the skull that pressed upon the brain. Yesterday Kelly asked for pen and paper and wrote a concise and intelligent letter to his half sister, Miss Florence Douels, 418 West Thirty Second street, New York City, closing his letter by stating that he was in a hospital. He signed the name S. Chandler Rogers.

Rodgers then asked for a newspaper and was dumfounded when a paper dater Seattle, Oct. 20 was handed to him. He asked where he was and when told he broke down and wept On recovering his composure he told this story:

"I do not know where I have been or what I have been doing for fourteen years. I was born in New York City in 1859. I lived with my grand mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Douels, 418 West Thirty second street New York.

"I was first a newsboy in New York and then a messenger with a big trust company. I used to box in a theater to earn a little side money.

"May 1, 1897, I took a vacation. With a friend I went to a theater accompanied by two girls. Took my girl home and then started to walk to my own home. At the corner of sixteenth street and Eighty-Eighth avenue I met three men who asked me for a match. I told them "I am no match factory" then one made a pass at me.

"I struck at him with my brass knuckles on my right hand—I always wore them at night—it was then near midnight. Another man of the three struck me with a black jack and I fell to my knees. The next I knew I was swimming in the river almost stark naked. I remember catching hold of a pile and yelling for help. I can remember being drugged from the river and that is the last I know, except that I woke up here in this hospital in Seattle Tuesday morning."

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Gen Toutee, commander of the Algerian forces in Morocco, has sent a telegram to the minister of war, saying he has caused the arrest of Destuilleur, the French commander who has been in charge of the regulation and control of the Algerian-Moroccan frontier because of his refusal to permit an investigation of his accounts. Destuilleur and several other men are charged with illegal collusion.

had called Miss Linnell on the telephone from the Danskin home on several occasions, and Mrs. Danskin heard this conversation.

RESIGNS AS PASTOR.

It is understood that Richeson wrote out in his cell his resignation as pastor of the Emmanuel Baptist church, Cambridge. His parishioners were given to understand last night that this resignation would be forthcoming tomorrow.

The minister was visited today by Moses Grant Edmands, father of Miss Violett Edmands, his fiancee, at whose home in Brookline Richeson was arrested.

When Edmands left the jail, he told the newspapermen that the prisoner was confident of acquittal and looked forward to the time when his name might be cleared of the charge which stands in the way of his intended marriage.

He added:

"Mr. Richeson will have as good defense as money can buy."

This statement, together with a further one that Edmands, with the members of his family, retains confidence in Richeson, was taken to indicate that the wealth of the Edmands family would be placed in defense of the pastor. It was announced tonight that the firm headed by Louis D. Brandeis already has been retained.

PROPOSE FEDERATION OF MERCHANTS' ASS'NS

Valley Representatives to Meet in Bakersfield November 20.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 21—The Merchants' Association at its meeting last evening instructed Secretary H. C. Kutze to write to the different commercial organizations in the San Joaquin Valley, inviting them to send representatives to a meeting to be held in this city on November 20th for the purpose of forming a federation of all these organizations throughout the valley.

The scope and purpose of the proposed organization is to be similar to that of the local Merchants' Association, except that it is to have the whole valley for its sphere. It is not to encroach in any way upon the work of the boards of trade or similar organizations, but is to be solely for the purpose of protecting and advancing the interests of the merchants.

Further details of the meeting and of the proposed organization will be discussed when answers are received from the different bodies addressed. The secretary will write to organizations of merchants in every town where such organizations exist all the way to Stockton. Probably there will be fifteen or twenty all told.

KERMAN DEMANDS FRUIT PACK HOUSE

Growers Would Thereby Eliminate the Long Haul Cost to Fresno City.

KERMAN, Oct. 21—J. A. Johnson, F. H. Snyder and T. F. Saunders of the Commercial Association have been named as a committee to formulate a plan for the establishment of a dried fruit packing house at Kerman before the opening of the next fruit season. Many orchards and vineyards will be in bearing for the first time next season and there will be many tons of peaches and raisins ready for market.

The interest of the growers demands that, if possible, packing houses nearer than Fresno be available, in order to eliminate the long haul. It is to further this interest that the Commercial Association has taken the matter up. The committee will investigate the possibility inducing established concerns to locate here and will consider whether or not the establishment of a local concern would be advisable or possible.

The building, erected by the Kerman Packing Company, several seasons ago for the packing of cantaloupes is available for a dried fruit plant and is ample for present needs. Although dormant, the Kerman Packing Company could be rejuvenated, if deemed advisable, as it is an incorporated concern.

Suggestions will be welcomed by the association committee which, after making its conclusions, will call a mass meeting and will report directly to the persons most interested in the establishment of a local dried fruit market, the growers. In its campaign for a packing house, the association has been assured of the hearty support of the recently organized fruit growers' association.

MAKES HIS BED IN STREET OF SELMA

This Man Named Kelly Is Being Held to Be Watched as to His Sanity.

SELMA, Oct. 21.—The residents of B street, near Arrants, were amazed about sundown at seeing a man stop in the middle of the street, unroll blankets, prepare a neat bed, undress as though he were in his private bedroom and turn in with apparent satisfaction for the night. The officers were phoned for, and found the stranger to be surprised to learn that they thought he was doing anything out of the ordinary, and for which he should be taken before a court. Marshal W. O. Ingram and Constable Harry Staley took him before City Recorder J. L. Mitchell, where the man gave his name as Kelley. He seemed to have very little concern of the proceeding before the corder, and accepted them in a matter of fact way. He gave no utterances that seemed to indicate particular dementia, and when asked by the officers why he chose to do what he had done, Kelley told them that he was tired and wanted to go to sleep. As the street is a much-traveled one, it is strange that he should have selected the middle of the thoroughfare for a bed. The officers are keeping him in detention until they can learn something of his history and his sanity.

'ECZEMA ITCHED SO I COULDN'T STAND IT'

Began by Little Pimples. Scratched Until Blood Came. Kept Getting Worse. Could Not Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the First Day They Relieved Itching. In 3 Weeks Eczema Cured.

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more. I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.

"My brother got his face burned with gunpowder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies [Soap and Ointment] cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrki, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910.

Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on the skin and hair, will be sent, post-free, on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 17B, Boston.

ENTERTAIN TEACHERS AT INDIAN POW WOW

Tulare Dairymen Invite State Farm Professor to Stock Show.

TULARE, Oct. 21.—The Tulare school teachers were entertained last night by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Walton. The party was informed with the invitations sent out as calls to an Indian Pow Wow. The guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Walton in Indian costumes and every guest was also bedecked as an Indian. The large living room was decorated with corn stalks and the lights arranged to represent harvest moons. There was a totem pole an da wigwam. In the fire place blazed a roaring fire and around this the guests seated themselves upon the floor in Indian fashion.

The guests were asked to show their proficiency in archery, which most of them did. Dominoes was the game of the evening. The prize, which was a scalping knife, was won by Miss Zelmas Wilson. The Dairymen's Association has sent an invitation to Prof. Leroy Anderson of the state farm at Davis, and some other professor from the same institution, to come on the 23rd and 24th and deliver a lecture on dairying and to judge the stock which will be exhibition on those dates.

Rev. Smith of the Christian church of this city has resigned as pastor, to take effect on the first of November. He has been in Tulare for over a year and a half and will return to Hanford, his former home, to take up some secular occupation. So far no action has been taken by the church members.

About thirty-four members of the B. Y. P. U. met at the parsonage of the Baptist church last night and after the business session spent the balance of the evening in playing guessing games. This lasted until about 11 o'clock, after which light refreshments were served.

A class initiation will be held by the Eagles next Friday night, October 27th. A good attendance is looked for by the entertainment committee.

CARBOLIC SPRAY KILLS MEALY BUG

There Is No Need to Defoliate or Root Up Affected Citrus Trees.

Prof. W. T. Clark of the experiment station of the State University was in Fresno yesterday, and had his attention called to efforts being made to rid citrus and foliating trees of the mealy bug by defoliating the branches, cutting down the trunks and washing them with tobacco liquid, and failing to master the pest in this wise that the orders are to uproot the tree.

Prof. Clark declared there is no need to subject the trees to this radical treatment or to destroy them, because a well known formula for a spray to control the mealy bug is the following:

One gallon crude carbolic acid, eight pounds whale oil soap, 170 gallons water; dissolve soap in water and then add carbolic acid.

This formula was developed by Mr. Essig, commissioner of horticulture of Ventura, Cal. Further information is contained in University of California, College of Agriculture, Bulletin No. 214, which will be sent free on application to the Director of Experiment Station at Berkeley, Cal.

THE DANGER OF RHEUMATISM

The danger of Rheumatism is in temporizing in the treatment, or in failing to realize the powerful nature of the trouble. If the blood is allowed to remain infected with uric acid, Rheumatism soon becomes chronic, and then if not checked it sometimes makes complete physical wrecks of its victims by permanently stiffening the joints and seriously interfering with the bodily nerve force. External applications will often temporarily relieve Rheumatic pains, but do not reach the blood, where the cause is located, and to depend entirely upon such treatment is a very dangerous thing to do. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism by removing every particle of the cause and purifying the blood. It filters out of the circulation every trace of the sour, inflammatory matter, cools the acid-heated nerves, causes a natural and healthy nourishment through the blood to all muscles, joints and bones, and perfectly cures Rheumatism in all its forms. S. S. S. does this great work because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers, acting directly on the source of the disease. Our special book on Rheumatism and any medical advice will be sent free to all. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

WEDDED IN AUTO, KEEP THEIR SECRET FOR THREE WEEKS

MADERA, Oct. 21.—The many friends of Dr. C. L. A. Rinker and Mrs. Mary Nesbit will be surprised to learn that that couple has been married for three weeks, unknown to their most intimate friends. The story came out when Dr. and Mrs. Rinker left for a honeymoon to Porterville, where they will visit a sister of the doctor, who lives there. The wedding of the couple took place in the later part of last month on the Skaggs bridge in Fresno county and was performed while they were seated in their auto.

SELMA NOTES

SELMA, Oct. 21.—The Selma Native Sons and Daughters netted almost $100 at their entertainment given last night for the benefit of the state society's fund for finding homes for orphans. Much pleasure was given by a screaming farce, given by local talent, which anticipated all boquets by a running fire of hits on the principal people of the town.

Mrs. Pearl Brown, mother of Louis Carle, arrived from Chicago yesterday, and expects to reside in Selma permanently.

J. B. Byrne has sold his residence at Lee and Arrants streets to T. W. Mitchell and will rent the Bales property on B street until she can make arrangements for a new home.

J. D. Jones, who lately returned to Selma from Missouri, after giving the East one more trial, has bought residence property on Kieth street.

KERMAN WILL HOLD FALL FLOWER SHOW

Woman's Improvement Club Has Charge of This Affair on the 11th Prox.

KERMAN, Oct. 21—A chrysanthemum show will be given in Kerman on the afternoon and evening of November 11th, under the direction of the Woman's Improvement Club, assisted by members of the Commercial Association and local flower fanciers.

The large number of chrysanthemums grown in town and in the colonies has prompted the affair which, while bearing the name of chrysanthemum show, will be a general fall flower display. Entries of all varieties of blossoms have been invited. In addition to the flowers, there will be a table where the growers of garden vegetables may exhibit in competition.

The arrangements, as far as made, provide that the Saturday afternoon and evening exhibit close with a public dance to be given in the hall in the new Snyder building, the flower displays to be made in the Jung-Kressman building, with music as a feature.

Professional gardeners will be barred from competition, but all competitors must have residence in the land of Kerman. Although barred from competition by the rule governing professionals, Conrad Pfauenhauer, head gardener for the Fresno Irrigated Farms Company and formerly of the Pasadena park system, is taking great interest in the show and promises an elaborate display from the gardens of the company and his private nurseries.

No entry fees will be charged, no cash prizes will be awarded, but first, second and third sweepstake ribbons will be given by the judges. In the effort to interest the children, special classes will be arranged in which they may exhibit flowers or vegetables grown by them.

PAYS EVEN $32,000 FOR EIGHTY ACRES

SELMA, Oct. 21.—With the harvesting of crops slackened up, realty transfers have taken on a new spurt around Selma and there have been many transfers of small property during the week. Most of the trading has been on small farms, but the big transfer of the week was the sale of the J. P. Boyd place, two miles north of town. The Boyd place, consisting of eighty acres of trees and vines, brought an even price of $400 per acre, or $32,000. The purchaser is C. W. Adams, a recent arrival from Port Huron, Mich., who has been looking around the San Joaquin valley for about three weeks and decided to cast his lot in Selma. Mr. Adams will go east at once and make arrangements to move his family to Selma.

LEGAL POINTS ARGUED IN CIGAR MAN'S CASE

Police Judge Takes Demurrer to Complaint Under Consideration.

Arguments to the demurrer filed by Attorney Sutherland in the case of B. Madsen, a cigar merchant, charged with violating a city ordinance by allowing a customer to shake dice in his place of business for things of value, were heard yesterday morning by Police Judge Briggs and the case was taken under advisement. City Attorney Kauke, who drew up the complaint, argued that it was against the law to shake dice for any articles of value and that the city trustees passed the ordinance with the intentions of stopping dice shaking for cigars.

Sutherland based his argument on the fact that the offense did not constitute a public crime and that the ordinance was passed with the intentions of prohibiting gambling in resorts and not to stop the act of shaking dice for cigars. Many legal points were raised by the attorneys on both sides and the police magistrate stated that he wished to ponder over the question before rendering his decision.

Madsen was arrested by prearrangement, so that a test case could be made of the ordinance. He conducts a cigar store and employment agency on I street.

POLICE ARREST TWO MEN FOR VAGRANCY

Authorities to Investigate Past Record While Men Serve Term.

James Murray and Frank Lee, thought to be ex-convicts, were arrested yesterday morning in Chinatown by Police Detectives Farnam and Goehring while they were attempting to sell fake jewelry to a Chinaman, and were haled into police court on a charge of vagrancy. Both pleaded guilty and were sentenced to thirty days in jail. While the men are serving their sentences the members of the police department will make an attempt to trace their past actions here.

Information has been placed in the hands of the authorities that Murray and Lee are ex-convicts and acting upon this information the police are certain that they are guilty of many crimes which have been committed in this vicinity in the past few weeks.

Murray became ugly in the police court and twice made a threatening move toward the officers. He remarked that he would like to meet Farnam in a six-foot ring and he would show him something about fighting. The two prisoners were handcuffed and taken to the jail by Detective Goehring.

A WANTON LIE

Yesterday's "Fresno Labor News" contained an attack on the virtue of the Fresno telephone girls too outrageous to be passed over in silence. At the close of an article attacking the telephone company, with the general merits of which we are not concerned, the Labor News said:

"The amount received by the bulk of their female help in this city makes it almost necessary that they have a 'gentleman friend' in order to exist."

Every one at all acquainted with the Fresno telephone girls knows that this is a wanton lie. Whatever may be their wages, their standard of character is very high. Some of the best girls in Fresno—including the daughters of many of the union men who support the Labor News—work in the telephone office, and the telephone company is exceptionally careful that they shall not find associations there inconsistent with the high character of the homes from which they come. There is no large employer of women's labor more punctilious—we know of none so punctilious—in safeguarding the moral conditions among their working force. Most of the telephone girls need no discipline in this respect, and if one of them does, she gets it from the telephone company more quickly than she would from almost any other employer. This is a matter of business as well as principle with the telephone company. Employing large numbers of girls, many of them for comparatively short times, the telephone service has found it an absolute necessity to prevent conditions which would cause any good girl from a good home to hesitate to accept employment there. The telephone company expects its employes to be ladies. Most of them are, by nature and preference. If there are any others, they must conduct themselves as such by compulsion, or their connection with the service is promptly terminated. The very knowledge that these conditions prevail has attracted into the telephone work many girls who would hesitate to go into some other less protected forms of employment. To make such an insinuation as the Labor News makes against any class of working girls is a serious matter, and would be sure to provoke a just resentment. In the case of the telephone girls it is so absolutely outrageous and so wholly without foundation that it becomes simply a wanton indecency, hardly worth disproving, and at the same time not to be tolerated.

TOO LONG

Clarence Darrow thinks a McNamara jury may be secured by the beginning of 1912. The jurors will then be incarcerated, as prisoners of state, for a considerable part of that year, to hear testimony to show whether or not James J. McNamara blew up the Times building.

It is to be hoped this record will be shortened, and under an intelligent and decisive judge like Judge Bordwell, there is ground for the hope. But at the very best it will be many months before this trial is decided—and the sole reason for the delay is that this particular defendant has been enabled to secure for himself all the rights which the law assumes to give every defendant. Obviously, if all defendants got all these rights, there could not be enough courts and juries in existence to try them.

The situation is ridiculous, though legal. This is a case, to be sure, which has been much discussed, and there are therefore serious difficulties in securing an open-minded jury. But actually, almost any intelligent man ought to be competent to sit on that jury. The assumption of the lawyers is that the population is divided into two classes of people, one of whom would convict and the other of whom would acquit the defendant because he belongs to a labor union. Members of either of such classes are obviously unfit for jury duty. But they are also unfit for citizenship, and for the ordinary respect of fair men. Instead of assuming that most men belong to one or the other of these classes, we ought to hold it a shame if any do. This man either blew up the Times building or he did not. If he did, there is nothing to palliate it. If he did not, or if the evidence leaves any reasonable doubt whether he did or not, he should be acquitted, and any man fiendish enough to convict him without conclusive evidence of guilt ought to be in prison himself. But also any man vicious enough to acquit him against conclusive evidence of guilt ought to be locked up as a dangerous character. On this basis, if we assume Los Angeles to contain a fair portion of sound minded men, a jury ought to be procurable in a day.

In the same way, the evidence ought all to be presentable in a week. The burden of proof is on the prosecution. They must prove, beyond a reasonable doubt, that McNamara blew up that building, or else he must be acquitted. Statements have been given out claiming that conclusive proof exists and specifying what it is. If these statements are true, all testimony bearing on this point (and there is no other) could be given in a few days. If there are any facts in refutation, these could be given as quickly. Then the simple question, Did he do it? would be submitted and decided, and everything would be over. That anything else must be done is simply a confession of the hopeless incapacity of our judicial system in the few cases in which it is put to the full test.

A REVOLUTION

It will probably be a long time before most of us really wake up to the fundamental character of the political revolution through which California has just gone.

There is, for instance, the fact to which we have already called attention, that no politician or legislator can now seriously discuss the question of "shelving" legislation for which there is any general popular demand. If the legislature does not pass it, the people will. Therefore, in most cases, the legislature will pass the needed laws, and the cumbersome initiative and referendum will not be used. Their value will be as reserved powers. But that value will be more and more evident, especially if we some time get careless again and elect a weak legislature. The evil of the old machine was not so much in passing bad laws as in preventing good ones. Most of our laws were good, and therefore the machine's apologists pretended that it governed us well. But there was a silent conspiracy of suppression which prevented much needed legislation from ever seeing the light of day. The last legislature, being a good one, well led, with a concrete platform to live up to, supplied part of the lack. But the main thing it did was to guarantee that no matter what personal reactions may come, and no matter what sort of men may constitute succeeding legislatures, the old conspiracy of suppression will never be revived. With the initiative to compel good laws, the referendum to prevent bad ones, and the recall to compel obedience, we may be confident that every succeeding legislature will do the best it knows how. Our responsibility will be to elect legislatures that know how. For these new reforms guarantee only freedom and honesty. Intelligence also is needed, and that can only be supplied by electing intelligent men.

Women suffrage also has made a fundamental change, not merely in the political organization of the state, but also in the personal way in which women are regarded. An intelligent woman has always been an admirable person. Now she is a civic asset, also. And that difference affects, almost subconsciously, our attitude. Just analyze your own feelings, as you look at a group of exceptionally capable women now, contrasted with the way you looked at them a month ago. Then you admired an intelligent woman, as you do a pretty woman, just as a fine human specimen. But the admiration was something objective, impersonal, disinterested. The woman's ability was her own, and of no concern to any one but herself, her husband perhaps, and her immediate friends. For yourself, whether you preferred good looks, good manners or good brains in a woman was a mere mater of taste. All were admirable qualities, and the important one to you was whichever one you happened to like best. But now, without even stopping to think about it, you instinctively congratulate yourself and the state, whenever you see a woman of exceptional intelligence and personality, that the new electorate has among it such leaders. Impulsively, you value a woman, not merely for her feminine qualities, but also for her human qualities; not merely for her appeal to you, but for her worth in herself. It is a change of attitude almost revolutionary—and two weeks without a single overt act, either of women suffrage or of direct legislation, have worked it.

SACRAMENTO CELEBRATES SUBURBAN ANNEXATION

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 21. — Sacramento today celebrated the recent annexation of its suburban districts with an unprecedented industrial parade and barbecue this afternoon and a second street parade and fireworks display tonight. Thousands of visitors from many points in the Sacramento valley attended the jubilee, several valley towns entering bands and delegations in the street parades.

NEW BRITISH TORPEDO.

American Officer by Accident Obtains an Important Naval Secret.

It was learned that an American navy expert who has recently been abroad has brought back details of a remarkable new British torpedo which is effective at 10,000 yards, or at nearly three times the range of most effective American Whiteheads now in use. The existence of the powerful British weapon has been kept secret, and only by chance was the information obtained.

According to the story told in the small small circle of naval ordnance expert, who are particularly interested in the torpedo, the American officer who obtained the information was aboard the ship with some British experts discussing developments in gunnery, torpedo craft, and relative methods of target practice in the British and American navies.

In a moment of inadvertence one of the British officers remarked that the British had no torpedo practice in the bay, where formerly such practice was held, because the bay only allowed a range of 5000 yards.

"Our newest torpedoes have a range of 10,000 yards," he added, without realizing the astonishment that the simple statement would cause.

Ordnance experts at the Navy Department are of course keenly interested in the new torpedo. It is not known whether any of these weapons could be purchased for any other than the British navy.

NOVELIST'S WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Booth Tarkington Alleges Cruelty; A Writer Herself.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 21—Mrs. Booth Tarkington, wife of the novelist and playwright, today filed suit for divorce in the superior court of this county. She charges the defendant with cruelty and asks for the custody of their five year old child.

"That she always has been a dutiful wife, but that the defendant has treated her with great cruelty," is the principal allegation in the complaint, which is brief and does not relate any instances in the alleged cruelty. No mention of demand for alimony is made. It is set out that Mr. and Mrs. Tarkington have not lived together since last July. Tarkington is in New York City having returned recently from a trip to Europe. Prior to last July, Mr. and Mrs. Tarkington maintained a house in a fashionable residence district of this city, but they had spent a great deal of time at Paris, Capri and New York. Mrs. Tarkington before her marriage was Laurel Louisa Fletcher, daughter of Stoughton J. Fletcher, a millionaire banker and capitalist of the city. At his death he left her a large fortune.

She is a writer of verse and has contributed to magazines under the name of Louise Fletcher Tarkington.

DENY BEING BRIBED FOR STEPHENSON

Democratic Assemblymen Go on Stand in Wisconsin Case.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 21. — John T. Farrell and Silas A. Towne, two of the three Democratic assemblymen who absented themselves from the legislature on March 4, 1909, and thus gave Senator Isaac Stephenson a majority sufficient to elect him, denied to the senatorial investigation committee today that they were influenced by money. One of the three members died since the election.

After the election, Assemblyman F. R. Zimmerman testified, he talked of the absentees to Assemblyman J. A. Domachowski.

Domachowski told me he was offered $500 for his vote," said Zimmerman. "I asked him what he meant by that. He said that if he was offered that I could guess about the rest. Afterwards, I understand, he testified he intended the whole thing to be a joke."

It was announced that Edward Hines, the lumberman, would be summoned, and probably would be called upon to testify early next week.

STATEHOOD JUBILEE CLOSES AT EL PASO

EL PASO, Oct. 21.—The three days' statehood jubilee given to welcome Arizona and New Mexico into the Union closed here tonight with the famous Osahie Parade, a civic and military pageant, four miles in length, upon which thousands of dollars had been expended. It is estimated that 40,000 people reviewed the procession.

Governors Colquitt of Texas, Mills of New Mexico and Sloan of Arizona, returned to their respective state capital today. Governor Gonzales of Chihuahua and Vice Governor Gayou to Sonora, will return home tomorrow. With the close of the sport features tomorrow, including of the steer roping in Juarez, the statehood jubilee will close.

ENCOURAGEMENT SHOULD BE GIVEN COUNTY LIBRARIES

Nothing in recent years has been more popular in the foothills and mountains of Fresno, Madera and adjacent counties than the new system of county libraries. It ought to be very strongly supported by all intelligent supervisors, and liberal appropriations made for its support. As winter approaches, and men begin to come in from the back country to their homes, one notices that the books go out much faster in all these mountain towns from Kaweah to the Merced and along the line everywhere, as I suppose.

Now the further and more effective development of this county library scheme involves, I believe, more legislation. Each com. nity should be able to have a small working committee to read and sift the books sent, to read and sift possible book lists, to consult with the county librarian, the board of supervisors and the local custodian. The way should be made very easy, too, for the giving of books by private individuals, and it is possible that the very fragmentary and often badly kept school libraries might be wisely added to the county traveling libraries.

Perhaps it is too much to hope at present that such local library advisory boards could collect much local historical material and turn it over to the county, but in time this might become one of the most important functions of such groups. Old letters, pictures and newspapers of every sort are constantly turning up in unexpected places which "belong in the permanent files." The fast-passing pioneers can be encouraged to write down their recollections, and they will often do it quicker for near at hand friends than for any agent of the state archives.

But, all in all, the present county library beginnings are most excellent, and so far as one can observe the results, the librarians are taking very great interest in their work and are well supported by the local custodians and by the communities. The scheme has evidently "come to stay."

SENATOR CULLOM PUTS ESTIMATE ON ROOSEVELT AND PRESIDENT TAFT

CHICAGO, Oct. 21—The first number of Senator Cullom's book of personal reminiscences appeared here today and has aroused considerable interest because of the viewpoint from which it regards men and issues that have been a part of the political life in which he has been engaged in the last fifty years.

Roosevelt is regarded by Senator Cullom's book as the "Master Law Enforcer."

President Taft is characterized as good material for Supreme Court justice—as to his presidential caliber, the book intimates that probably President Taft has not enjoyed the position.

La Follette and what he terms insurgency is described as the creation of a third party, and he can see no leader of the Republican party in the Senate since Senator Aldrich's withdrawal.

Of the Roosevelt administration, Senator Cullom says:

"Colonel Roosevelt accomplished more in his second term than any of his predecessors; more laws were enacted, laws of more general benefit to the people, and, above all, his administration enforced all laws on the statute books as they never had been enforced before. The Sherman anti-trust law was a dead letter until Roosevelt instructed the attorney-general to prosecute its violators. He will go down in the history of his country as the most remarkable man of his day."

The senator in saying that he doubts that Mr. Taft is enjoying his presidency, adds:

"I, myself, always have thought he would have made one of our greatest chief justices had he been appointed to that position."

He denies that President Taft was responsible for the setback his party received in 1910, charging that misfortune to a weariness on the part of the people to Republican prosperity and the agitation of the newspapers over the Aldrich-Payne tariff bill.

Senator John C. Spooner's resignation he attributes to Spooner's embarrassment at the growth in his state of what the writer calls "La Follette-ism."

"A new era in the customs of the Senate followed the entry to that chamber of Senator La Follette, says the book. This is pointed out in more ways than one. Besides marking the birth of insurgency, it was the opening of a new day for the young man in the Senate, Senator Cullom thinks.

"Indeed," relates the book, "where formerly the spectacle of a young senator rising to make a speech before the close of his second year in the Senate was unusual, it recently has come to be remarked upon if a new man remains two months without enlightening the Senate as to its duty toward the world."

[illegible] there is high [illegible] over the Mississippi valley and [illegible] to the Atlantic [illegible] cloudiness and weather conditions are generally unsettled with rains continuing this morning along the middle Atlantic and New England coast. It continues cold over the Rocky mountains and plains with temperatures at or below 20 degrees over Wyoming, Colorado and Northern Utah. A disturbance [illegible] far southeast [illegible] over the Canadian Northwest is causing much warmer weather in Montana and the "provinces" east of the Rockies.

The distribution of pressure on the Pacific coast has remained practically unchanged during the last [illegible] hours and generally fair weather may be looked for in Fresno and vicinity tonight and Sunday.

NATIVE SONS

The last of the benefit performances which have been given at Teal's theater every evening of the week past, under the auspices of the local parlor of Native Sons, will be held tonight. The proceeds will be turned into a fund for the benefit of homeless orphans. The grand organizer of the N. S. G. W. will be in town within the next few days to open a spirited membership campaign. The Fresno parlor hopes to have a greatly augmented lodge when it welcomes the grand parlor of the order in April.

INTERESTS CAPITAL IN OIL DEVELOPMENT

George H. Smith Boosts Coalinga Field in London and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smith are back from their four months' trip to the continent of Europe, the British Islands and the large Eastern cities of this country. Both are looking well and happy, having enjoyed the trip immensely. Mr. Smith united business with pleasure, making some investments in promising New York enterprises and at the same time interesting his English and New York friends in California developmental propositions. "There is plenty of capital to be had for good enterprises," says Mr. Smith, "and of course we old time Fresno county people do not need to be told where the good enterprises are."

Besides his Coalinga real estate and oil properties, Mr. Smith is interested in forty-two leading corporations in different parts of the country, but especially in California.

HAS JACKSON PENNY.

Editor Republican:—In your issue of last Saturday you have a news item from New York World (page 4, second column), that a Jackson penny had been found near Logansport, Ind. It may be that you would like to know that at least one of these rare coins is in Fresno county. I have had one of them for a number of years. It is in good condition and exactly as described in your paper.

Yours truly,
C.

SOCIETY

Mrs. B. F. Shepherd, who returns to Fresno shortly, after several months' sojourn abroad.

Indian summer is upon us, distilling an almost contented lazliness in even the most strenuous members of the social set. Hence the fewness and far-between-ness of things formal on last week's calendar. But life is really worth the struggle for those of us at least that are not immune to the beauties of nature at this season of the year. Perhaps the leaves are not as vivid as in the Eastern states, or in Canada, but where could you find any more vivid sunsets than right here in Fresno? A short walk will take the nature lover far enough away from the buildings to obtain a splendid view of the sunset, each day a different one patterned on none that have gone before. Gorgeous contrasts and blending of color in cloud and sky positively challenge an artist's palette, and gradually the daylight fades with the coloring as the ball of fire drops over the horizon line to make a dawn for another people. And you trail home along the country road, feeling very insignificant perhaps, with the sound of dry leaves crackling their protest at being trampled under foot, as an accompaniment to your thoughts.

A recent decision of interest to the feminine readers, was recently made by the United Cloak and Suit Designers' Association of America now in session in New York in the, length of the coats for next spring. If you are quite tall, your coat should measure twenty-six inches, and if you are not quite tall, your coat will be two inches shorter. Good-bye to the twenty-three, twenty-five and twenty-seven inch lengths, for after next spring they will not be tolerated, and only the twenty-four and twenty-six inch models will be found on the market.

The Home Department of the Parlor Lecture Club is anticipating a real play day on next Thursday when the first of their "health afternoons" is to assume the form of a kindergarten party. The members are to come in costume, and some genuine fun will successfully drive dull care away for several hours. The guests on this occasion include only the members of this department, though later in the season the entire membership of the club will be entertained at a very elaborate affair, which will be called an Oriental Day. Mrs. H. H. Alexander is the chairman of this department, with Mrs. W. T. Knowles as a valuable assistant.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Shepherd are expected in San Francisco on Monday night and will stay at the St. Francis hotel for a few days, before returning to Fresno.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Cochrane and son, Eric, left for San Francisco last evening, and are staying at the Palace hotel.

* * * *

Mrs. Frank Pettus was a bridge hostess on Thursday afternoon, at her pretty suburban home near Kerman. The affair was informal and all the more enjoyable on that account. Among the Fresno guests were Mrs. O. L. Everts, Mrs. H. H. Alexander, Mrs. J. S. Jones and Mrs. T. M. Hayden. They went out by train, but came back to town in the Pettus' big machine. Mrs. O. L. Everts and Mrs. T. M. Hayden were fortunate in winning the dainty trophies for high score.

* * * *

Game dinners are becoming quite the thing these days and the return from a successful hunt is usually the incentive for several invitations being issued for an informal dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pulliam were among the latest entertainers of this sort, having a few friends in for a jolly little dinner of six covers on Friday evening, with perfectly browned duck as the piece de resistance.

With Mr. and Mrs. Pulliam were Mr and Mrs. J. D. Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Knowles.

* * * *

Miss Marjorie Kenyon has as her guest Miss Doris Whipple of San Jose, who will be a week-end visitor.

* * * *

The Craycroft party which left Fresno over a week ago, are expected to arrive at Plymouth, England, either today or tomorrow. Mr. and Mrs. Crayeroft, together with Miss Ethel Shaver and Miss Jenny Wishon, will remain in England for a time, but Miss Edith Hayden will land at Bremen, in Germany, from where she will go on to Weimar, for a sojourn of several months.

* * * *

Among the most delightful affairs of the week will be the luncheon on next Saturday, presided over by Miss Gertrude Swift, at her home on L and San Joaquin streets. The invitation list includes sixteen very congenial friends.

* * * *

November 22nd is the date set for the first of the delightful assemblies, which have been so heartily enjoyed during the last two seasons. The date was decided upon at a meeting of the patronesses held last week, and cards have been posted to the membership. The list has been somewhat increased this season, more of the younger set having been included.

The patronesses who have so successfully managed these smart affairs are Mesdames T. W. Patterson, DeWitt H. Gray, F. M. Romain, F. H. Short, George C. Roeding, B. F. Shepherd.

* * * *

It has been generally conceded that the hats this season have shown less eccentricity but they are in unprecedented variety. Choice often depends on the style and amount of trimming it is proposed to put upon them, especially as regards the height and importance of the crown. There are broad-brimmed hats of different heights, some being low, when they are wide at the base, and others more or less high and straight-up at the sides or sloping inward from a narrow base. The high ones are principally selected because they provide a convenient support for trimming.

The large Breton is the only shape with a fairly high crown that is considered to need very little trimming; moreover, the edge of the brim rolls up, which diminishes its importance.

Blocked felts, velvet and plush hats are made in this shape as well as soft felts.

Extra large hats are frequently oval, but seldom irregular in shape, that is to say, with one side wider than the other, or developing a floating point, as they were made this Summer.

Some of the round ones curve even a little at the back or at the side, but none as yet turn up frankly Gainsborough fashion and it is only in medium-sized hats that the brims roll back in front.

Undoubtedly it is among the latter and the smaller hats and toques that the greatest divergence of shape is to be found, i. e. flat-topped and Tyrolian crowns, wedge-shaped crowns broadside on, blocked Dranon and peaked crowns, or brims coming down over the ears, and gable-shaped in front, coronet brims describing a semicircle from ear to ear, turbans, cabriolets and bonnets de police, not to mention others.

Almost any of these may be transformed into an elegant hat by means of trimmings or by covering the shape by hand instead of using one with the velvet or plush ready blocked upon it, or a felt; whereas the large hat is always more or less heavy looking, however simply it is trimmed.

* * * *

An interesting suburban affair which is attracting attention in local circles is the Hallowe'en dance to be given next Friday evening by the Fowler Social Club. A number of Fresnans will probably motor out for the evening.

* * * *

Mrs. W. W. Cross will be a Tuesday hostess, entertaining the members of the Birthday Club at her pretty home on U street. As is customary at the Birthday Club meetings, a luncheon followed by an afternoon of bridge playing is the order of the day.

* * * *

On Tuesday morning, at half past 9, a meeting of the active membership of the Fresno Musical Club will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Montgomery Thomas on L street. The club has fully decided upon three of its artists for the artist nights, and it is possible that Miss Lilly Dorn, will make a return engagement some time in the Spring. Miss Dorn will be accompanied by Harriet Ware on her appearance here, and it is probable that the program will be a "Ware" program. Miss Dorn has been singing Miss Ware's compositions through the East during the summer, and the composer-accompanist is thoroughly delighted with her interpretation.

David Bispham, who is the first to appear, is not a stranger to the club, this also being a return engagement. Curiosity and interest are evinced in the coming of Pepito Ariola, the boy prodigy. Though but a lad of 12 years, he has performed for crowned heads, been "decorated," and had experiences which musicians of riper years have sought for in vain, or finally gotten after many seasons' efforts.

The Flonzaley Quartette is the last of the series, and makes its first appearance on the Pacific Coast this winter, though well known in Vienna and other foreign cities, as one of the best chamber organizations.

* * * *

Mrs. Truman G. Hart and Miss Cora Trowbridge were hostesses yesterday, entertaining a number of friends at the Hart residence on Blackstone avenue at a delightful luncheon. Mrs. Jno. Sturk of Omaha, Nebraska, who is the house guest of Miss Trowbridge was the complimented guest on this occasion. The attractive rooms were ornamented with floral furniture, roses being arranged in the library, while long stemmed chrysanthemums in tones of cream and yellow were placed in tall jars in the living room. After a tempting buffet luncheon, the afternoon was pleasantly spent, Mrs. Sturk, contributing several enjoyable vocal numbers.

* * * *

Mrs. Walter Shoemaker will be the hostess tomorrow afternoon, at the meeting of the Query Club, when the reading of Monna Vanna will be continued with Mrs. Thomas W. Patterson and Mrs. H. Z. Austin as leaders.

* * * *

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller have as their guests for a short while, Mr. and Mrs. J. Myers of Honolulu.

* * * *

Miss Doris Zieske will leave early in November for Sleepy-Eye, Minnesota, where she will visit for a short while. Upon her return to California, she will be accompanied by her grandmother.

* * * *

Mrs. W. P. Miller spent yesterday in Bakersfield where she is acting as tutor for the Woman's Club of that city.

* * * *

Mrs. Katherine Fenstermacher and daughter, Dorcas, will leave tomorrow for their home in Berkeley, after a delightful visit as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller.

* * * *

Grover Whitt is out from Nevada for a visit of some duration, and while in Fresno will be a guest in the Carey Cox household on T street.

* * * *

The Art Department of the Parlor Lecture Club will meet on Monday afternoon at half past 2. All members of the class are urged to be present as well as all members of the club who wish to enter this department. For a few weeks the study will be devoted to lace, as an industry, and as an art. There is a decided awakening among women to acknowledge this subject. The class will begin with the study of the resource or ground work of both needlepoint and pillow laces, and also a little of the history of the industry, its origin and developments. Their ambition is not to become experts in lace but to be fairly good judges of real lace.

Later the department will devote its time and energy to the study of painting, building upon the good foundation already laid by this section.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Smith, who recently returned from an extensive trip on the continent, were rendered a most successful surprise party on Friday evening at their home on J street. Misses Bessie Gwens and Ethel Barbour and Mrs. Frances Barbour were instrumental in making the clever arrangements for the affair. After a short automobile ride, Mr. and Mrs. Smith returned to their home to find it ablaze with light, prettily decked with chrysanthemums and greenery, and host of all a jolly crowd of intimate friends there to welcome them home again.

A very clever game was played called a "European trip" and arranged similar to the always amusing game of "Consequences." In the party were Dr. and Mrs. Ingram, Rev. and Mrs. Conley, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Connelly, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Turner, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Will Percer, Mr. and Mrs. Eby, Mr. and Mrs. Hart Tener, Mr. and Mrs. Maupoe, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, Louis Boise and his mother from Iowa, Mrs. Frances Barbour, Misses Ethel Barbour and Bessie Owens and Bert H. Beckwith.

The many admirers of Miss Gail Laughlin in Fresno will be interested to know of the delightful compliment paid her recently by the women of San Francisco, in appreciation of her efforts in behalf of the suffrage campaign. Yesterday's issue of the Examiner gives an account of the affair:

Suffragists of this city paid their tribute yesterday to the band of women, headed by Miss Gail Laughlin of Denver, who have labored in California most effectively during the six months' suffrage campaign just ended. The tribute took the form of an al fresco luncheon at the Women's Outdoor Club, Nineteenth avenue and Sloat boulevard, and a series of talks following the luncheon hour.

Mrs. John F. Swift, one of the pioneers in equal suffrage work in California, presided. More than 125 women who aided in the campaign work were there.

Miss Laughlin, who, as chairman of the City Election Committee, directed the work in San Francisco, after having spoken throughout the State, was the first speaker called on by Mrs. Swift.

Miss Laughlin had for her subject "The Ballot: How Will You Use It?" She urged the women "to stand for the expression, work and policies of women, not because you believe in woman's rights particularly, but because you believe in equality, and the expression, work and policies of men have dominated the country for decades. You will be simply restoring the balance. You have an exposition here in 1915 to celebrate the glory of California and the completion of a world achievement. So far, there is not a woman member of the Exposition Board. Surely women have helped to make the glory of California with the rest.

"Don't try to do too many things at once," urged Miss Laughlin. "If you do all of your work will remain undone. Do one thing at a time, and know nothing else until that is secured."

Miss Laughlin thanked the California women for allowing her a part in the campaign which resulted in victory. She leaves for Colorado today.

DEVELOPMENT OF BULLARD TRACT IS TO BE STARTED IMMEDIATELY

Irrigation System, Suburban Town and Electric Car Line to River Are Planned; To Plant Five Demonstration Farms.

E. J. BULLARD.

J. C. FORKNER.

Having taken up the option for the Bullard tract of 7200 acres, lying immediately north of Fresno, and having completed arrangements for the establishment of an irrigation system on the tract, announcement is made by J. C. Forkner of this city that the development of this property will be started at once. Forkner is associated in this deal with two men of Los Angeles. The project represents an investment of approximately $600,000.

Among the developments planned is first the placing of five demonstration farms on the tract, to show just what it will produce with profit. These farms will be located in different parts of the property and on them will be grown oranges, lemons, figs, alfalfa and all other products that are grown in other parts of this valley.

A townsite will be laid out at once in the center of the tract with the idea of making it a suburb of Fresno. Inducements will be offered to get Fresno people to make their homes here.

The third project planned is the building of an electric car line from the center of the city of Fresno to the San Joaquin river. This car line will pass through the Bullard tract and through the townsite, and on to the river, where a resort is to be established. Forkner announces that this electric car line will be in operation within two years. It is said that property owners contiguous to the proposed line will lend their assistance to have it built. Among the largest property owners in that section who will assist in the building of the road is W. R. Holland of this city, who owns between 400 and 500 acres there.

The promoters believe such a line would be a great success, particularly in the summer time, because of the experience of David Ash of Riverview, who has a summer place on the river. Ash kept a count of the people who visited his place this last summer, and he says that during the summer he had between 50,000 and 60,000 pleasure-seekers.

The Bullard tract has a frontage of a mile and a half on the river, and it is believed that this will make an ideal spot for summer homes. E. J. Bullard has had a home on the bluffs of the river for several years. He says that he gets more enjoyment out of this summer home than any other place around Fresno.

The Santa Fe railroad runs diagonally across the Bullard tract, and as this property is developed this road will give transportation service in proportion.

In addition to the car line, a magnificent boulevard, 120 feet in width, is to be built through the tract. The car line will run in the center of the boulevard. This road will also run to the San Joaquin river.

IRRIGATION SYSTEM

The contract just closed with the Fresno Canal and Irrigation Company to construct an irrigation system on the tract, calls for a system that will be equal to anything of the kind in this part of the state.

In the first place, the contract marks a new departure in the building of irrigation systems in Fresno county. In the past the irrigation company has built a main canal through a tract and the property owners have built and maintained the laterals. As a result there has been a great deal of quarreling. People living near the ditch have very often received all the water, leaving none for those further away.

To do away with this difficulty, Forkner and his associates have made a contract with the Fresno Canal and Irrigation Company whereby the latter will not only construct a main canal through the tract, but will also construct, own and maintain the laterals. Laterals will be laid for every twenty-acre piece in the tract. The irrigation company also takes all responsibility.

For the extra cost of distribution the company will receive a rental of $1 an acre instead of 62½ cents. Although the water cost is a little more, it is pointed out that the placing of the system and its operation by the irrigation company will result in the abolishment of difficulties frequently arising under the old methods.

The irrigation cost of the construction of the main canal and the laterals will be approximately $90,000.

The purchase price of the land purchased by Forkner and his associates was about $500,000. The exact figure has not yet been determined, because the land is being paid for by the acre and the exact acreage has not yet been determined.

This tract will be put on the market in blocks of 1000 acres. The farm unit will be ten acres, although the water unit will be twenty acres. Because of the small unit, it is predicted that this tract will be more intensely cultivated than any tract of land in the San Joaquin valley. In the irrigation of these smaller farms, the water will be taken from the Enterprise canal, which the Fresno Canal and Irrigation Company, under its contract, has agreed to extend for a distance of nine miles. The capacity of the canal will also be greatly enlarged to be able to care for the volume of water that will be necessary to irrigate all the land through which it passes.

The water in the Enterprise canal is taken from the Kings river.

The first subdivision will be put on the market at once, and the work on the extension of the enterprise canal and the building of the laterals will also be started immediately.

Within the next few years, it is predicted that there will be 4000 people residing on this land. Forkner announces that he has already had an application for 1000 acres from a man who has fifty families which he says he can place on the land within twelve months.

Agents will be placed in every city and town in the San Joaquin valley and general agencies will be established in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

HELD FOR YEARS

The tract of land now being prepared for development by Forkner and his associates is the last tract of undeveloped land in the immediate vicinity of Fresno. This land, about 8,000 acres, was bought by Francis Bullard, father of E. J. Bullard, who has just sold it, in 1885. Mr. Bullard, Sr., came from Yolo county. E. J. Bullard added to the tract until today there is approximately 7,200 acres. This land has never before been offered for sale.

No attempts were made to develop for other than stock and grain raising, but it has proved to be extremely profitable in this respect. E. J. Bullard has farmed the land for twenty years and in no instance has he recorded a failure.

In the subdivision and sale of the property in smaller tracts, a company is to be formed at once, of which J. C. Forkner will be president and general manager.

J. C. Forkner formerly lived in Los Angeles, but has been a resident of Fresno for the past year. He has dealt in San Joaquin valley land for the past seven years and in that time has bought, subdivided and sold more than 50,000 acres. The most of this land has been located in Fresno, Kings and Tulare counties.

Forkner's associates in this enterprise are two Los Angeles men, one a banker and a multi-millionaire. Both men are large property owners in Southern California and also in this section of the state.

E. J. Bullard, former owner of the land, has been a Fresno resident for many years and is well known here. He was at one time a member of the board of supervisors and is now a director of the Fresno Savings Bank and the San Joaquin Abstract Company. Only recently Mr. Bullard purchased the Silva stock ranch of 1600 acres, lying northwest of the Bullard tract, for $100,000.

Forkner has done a great deal of subdivision work about Caruthers.

It is asserted that in the development of the lands no efforts will be spared to make them equal to any in the state, and desirable places for smaller farmers. In the creation of a townsite, it is expected that a suburban residence town to Fresno will grow up and with the construction of an electric car line to this townsite, easy means of transportation backwards and forwards will be afforded to all who live there.

The project just launched is one of the largest that has been inaugurated in the immediate vicinity of Fresno for several years. It is also one of the last of its kind that will be inaugurated in the immediate vicinity of this city, for the rest of the surrounding country has all been subdivided and is now or has been developed.

Attorney General Says Fibbing Would Be Cause for Challenging of Vote.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21—In a letter to Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, head of one of the suffrage clubs that conducted the recent campaign, Attorney General Webb declares that women must tell their real ages when they register to vote.

Merely saying they are more than 21 will not do, Webb asserts, and according to Mrs. Foltz, if a woman does not tell her real age when she registers her vote can be challenged and the voter subjected to criminal proceedings.

"IMPROVE FOR PERMANENCE," SAYS FRANK H. SHORT IN ADDRESSING THE FRESNO COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Co-operative Effort of Fresno Citizens Must Build for the Future; Raisin Exchange Worthy Line of Effort; Water Power Will Support Millions.

"Improvement for permanence" was the topic of Frank H. Short's address at the weekly luncheon of the Commonwealth Club at the Hughes yesterday noon. Mr. Short's talk succinctly pointed out to the two score of business and professional men present the need of developing the material side of life in Central California in such a way as will call for no destructive readjustment hereafter. He glowingly sketched the Fresno county and San Joaquin valley of the future declaring that fifty years from now its ideal climate, farming facilities, abundance of water and electric power and proximity to ocean traffic will give it a population of millions, with unparalleled social and economic advantages.

Mr. Short humorously referred to the recent constitutional election, in opening saying that while he had been asked to make some political comment, he would not do so. Everything is good after it is accomplished he opined. For instance while there has in the past been some difference of sentiment as to woman's suffrage, it will be a daring politician who in the future will express any doubt as to the wisdom of the action taken by the voters.

Our building, both private and public, said the speaker, should not be for temporary advantage but for permanent development. This is both of importance to the future generation, but is now of material advantage to us. Residences and business buildings should not be flimsily constructed so as to call for rebuilding in twenty years but should be put up to last for a century or more. Roads and streets and parks ought to be laid with a view to lasting use.

PUBLIC ENTERPRISE

In this connection, Short pointed out that the city had lost much in failing to take advantage of the Roeding park offer when it was first made, and that later in accepting, it had saved to the public a beauty spot which would soon be irreplaceable. The court house park, he criticized, as being a good thing improperly developed. The same principle of criticism he extended to all the construction work. Railroads and canals and highways should all have a permanent character, so as to have the growth of the community and of the state as well go along lines that would not have to be undone.

The speaker took the opportunity to declare that he was among a rapidly decreasing minority that opposes public ownership except along lines that are shown to be absolutely necessary, favoring the use of private enterprise wherever possible, and confining the activities of the government to those things which the private citizen will not do.

The spirit of co-operation is very necessary, and often difficult to cultivate. We, in the west, he held, have been so independent that we have yet to feel the need of acting together, which they instinctively feel in the East where weather conditions compel co-operation. But in California, co-operation is just as needful in preparing our vast public resources to the greatest use.

REASONABLE RESTRAINT

Here the speaker again reverted to humor to say that most of the people of the country seem to disagree with the Supreme Court of the United States on the trust question and to favor an unreasonable rather than a reasonable interpretation of the Sherman law. He pointed out, in rebuke of this popular attitude, that the lives and fortunes of most of us in California depend upon a reasonable interpretation of the law against restraint of trade. All those connected with the raisin, orange, lemon, and other industries, he held, desire and require the imposition of restraint on trade in order that they may set certain standards for products, and secure living prices for them. Without such restrictions, through law and co-operation of producers, production will be either impossible, or it will be done with the limitation that the middlemen take all the profits, leaving to the producer but a bare living.

In speaking of the valley and need of co-operation, Mr. Short took occasion to refer to the movement for the establishment of a raisin exchange, commonly referred to as the "Nutting plan." He commended it highly, as an evidence of the continuing spirit of communal enterprise and invoked the assistance of the business men of Fresno in making it a success.

The work of permanent development of Central California, Mr. Short said, will be of almost unlimited scope, at least from the point of view of those who first settled this valley. At one time it was thought that but a quarter of the area of these plains were irrigable and so productive. Now capital is developing water power opportunities of the mountains. The level of the plains meet peaks that are almost precipitous, so that with a comparatively small expenditure of capital a drop of a mile or more is obtained for the development of electric power as is instanced in the Big Creek project. Then reservoirs will curb the winter freshets, and increase the summer and autumn flow of the rivers for irrigation. Electric power will be used to pump water which is obtainable at reasonable depth in every part of the valley. Reservoirs will mean the ending of flooding and swamp land ... the land is usable except the small portion that is alkalied and this will be fertile as soon as it is drained.

The state, said the speaker, will always have the power, as it has had in the past, to limit charges for electric power to cost and a reasonable profit, thus furnishing forever cheap fuel and water to the people.

WOULD SUPPORT MILLIONS

This valley, so developed, he said, would support millions where it now supports hundreds of thousands. It will do this through its natural advantages of power and sunlight and soil. Fresno will be as it is now, if it continues to take advantage of its natural opportunities, the center of commercial activity. The city had its first growth through this spirit of friendly co-operation. It must not now be diverted from its mission of advancement through arguing over futile matters and disagreeing about trifles. Incidentally the speaker paid a compliment to the work of the Fresno Traffic association and its manager, Mr. Hill, as an example of what can be and is being done through active self help through co-operation. Terminals rates have not been secured in the sense in which the term was once used, for Fresno's gain at the expense of the rest of Central California, but terminal rates are to be secured for all the interior, and Fresno will gain its proportionate share of the advantage.

No part of the world that he has seen, said Mr. Short, compares to the interior valley of California so much as the north of Italy, where the plains of the Po valley meet the steep sides of the Alps and from the mountains draw water for support of millions of people for centuries. Milan and Turin and Venice have been, through this economic support the home of art and learning and all that civilization means to man. California has all Italy's physical advantages, and much more in the enterprise of her people and the aid of modern invention. She will within a half century be the home of an even loftier society, with higher aims.

It is with this immediate future growth in view, said Mr. Short, that development for permanence should be asked.

After the luncheon, a meeting of the board of governors of the club was held, at which an invitation was extended to Judge Curtis Wilbur of Los Angeles, widely known as an authority on dealing with juvenile offenders, to address the club at the luncheon a week from next Saturday.

MAKE YOUR OWN HAIR TONIC

A SPECIALIST'S ADVICE

In a recent issue the New York Herald published a special article on the care of the hair, in which was given the formula for a home-made Hair Tonic, which was highly recommended for its remarkable hair-growing properties, as well as for stopping falling hair, revitalizing the hair roots, destroying the dandruff germ and restoring gray hair to its natural color. This article was of special interest to me, as the formula was one which I myself have prescribed in countless cases with most astonishing results. I remember one case in particular in which I prescribed it for a man who had been bald for many years and in less than two months after he began its use his head was completely covered with a luxuriant growth of rich, glossy hair, thus proving that hair can be made to grow on a bald head, notwithstanding the opinion of many persons to the contrary.

For the benefit of those who have not seen it before, I give the formula herewith: 6 ounces of Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavona de Composee, one-half drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and then add the Lavona de Composee; shake thoroughly and apply night and morning to the roots of the hair, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. This preparation contains no coloring matter, but restores gray hair to its natural color by its action on the hair roots. If you desire it perfumed, add one teaspoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which combines perfectly with the other ingredients and imparts a most pleasing scent.

SCHOOL BOARD IS REVISING MANUAL

Grant District School Is to the Fore With "Two Skidoo Classes."

The county board of education spent another Saturday in preliminary work on the revision of the county school manual. Incidentally it ordered that Monroe's Briefer Course in the History of Education be substituted for Quick's Educational Reformers for the examination for teachers' certificates.

Certificates to teach in the county were granted to the following named:

High school—Miss Cora E. Stager, on recommendation of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, and F. B. Gainer on special high school credentials.

Grammar—Miss Hattie Bedford on San Francisco normal diploma, and Clara G. Grant on Kalamazoo normal diploma.

Superintendent Lindsay has spent the week on visits to nearby schools to note what progress is being made and to give such helping aid as the teachers may need, a considerable number being new to the work. On Friday Mt. Campbell and Fink schools with twenty-two and thirty-five schools were visited, also Parlier.

Calls were made on Thursday on Crescent, with 30, New Hope with 22 and Grant with its "two skiddoo classes," each of twenty-three pupils. The Grant school has not been having its full quota of attendance because of a report of scarlet fever epidemic. County Health Officer Burks says, however, there is no scarlet fever prevalent.

On Wednesday, Horace Mann, with 17, Central, with 27, and Franklin with 49 pupils were visited. Horace Mann has a full attendance of white children, the parents of the negro children having withdrawn them to be sent to De Wolfe school.

The schools officially visited on Tuesday were Harrison, with 73 enrolled in two classes, Clay, with 58, and Wahtoke with 56 in single class rooms. Mr. Lindsay met again with the trustees on Thursday, and it was tacitly agreed upon to set up a partion wall in the school building to make two class rooms. The matter will be finally resolved upon two weeks hence, involving as it does the employment of an additional teacher.

ORDER BLUE STONE FOR FALL SPRAYING

KERMAN, Oct. 21—Orders for nearly a ton of blue stone, for use in fall spraying, have recently been placed by the Fruit Growers' Association. The next meeting of the organization will be held at Vinland school house on the first Friday night in November instead of on the second, as announced.

KINGS RIVER ROAD NEARER TO CANYON

Engineer Mitchell Reduces Cost of Construction Per Mile By One-Half.

Park Ranger Milo S. Decker of Gen. Grant National Park is authority for the statement that the Kings River Canyon State scenic road is according to his view of thinking the finest grade and roadbed that he has ever seen on a mountain. He knows something himself about mountain road building, having been before going to Grant Park superintendent for 7 years of roads and trail construction in Sequoia National Park.

Ranger Decker visited the canyon road on the 1st inst. with J. E. Mitchell, the engineer in charge, and inspected the work done this season. The crew this season did not average 25 men per day and never exceeded twenty-eight. Three and one-half miles of road have been opened up and finished at a cost of $10,300, and of the $12,500 appropriation for the season $1000 was spent for a working outfit, $150 on repair of winter damage, and $750 for surveying and surveying help.

"Before Engineer Mitchell took charge," says Ranger Decker, "9 miles were built and 28 miles surveyed at a cost of $62,500, or an average of $6944.4 per mile, as against 3 1-2 miles this season for $12,550, less $480 spent on repair, leaving the actual cost $12,070. As available assets there are survey and right of way for 2 miles cleared for next year and a $1000 outfit on hand. The 3 1-2 miles with these two assets would make the cost per mile this season $3448.60 per mile, or less than half the cost of the road work heretofore.

"Of the 3 1-2 miles, half of a mile will not exceed 3 1-2 and the other 3 is only one half of one per cent grade or practically a level road on a mountain side, and as whole is a beautiful piece of workmanship. This road when finished into the canyon to its terminus will undoubtedly be one of the finest mountain scenic routes in the world."

RUSSIANS NEGLECT HUNTING PRESERVES

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—Of late years hunting has counted few enthusiasts among members of the Imperial family. Though the Imperial game preserve covering 150,000 acres, and the supplementary State preserve of 337,000 acres are second to none in variety and abundance of game, the Imperial family's modest total for last year was 1,357 head of game killed, including 6 bears, 6 elks, 3 lynxs, 63 foxes, 538 rabbits, 436 pheasants. No aurochs was killed or hunted, presumably on account of the severe epidemic which depleted the only extant herd of these animals in the State preserve at Bielovlezh. The total for 1908 was greater than that of any recent year, with 1,578 head killed.

The minds of women should be clean. They change them so often.

Real Estate and Building

REPORT BIG DEMAND FOR TRACTS OF SMALL SIZE

Colonists Now in South Are Expected to Come to Valley Soon.

Local Real Estate Dealers Do Much Business During Week.

Although the expected real estate boom this fall has thus far failed to materialize, the market is in a healthy condition and almost all the local dealers report a good business for the past week. A steady demand for town lots and country property in 5- and 10-acre tracts is reported and many sales of this character were made last week.

Owners of tracts in various parts of the county and the valley say that there is no falling off in the number of inquiries being made or in the sales from week to week.

The influx of colonists from the East, which is now being felt more particularly in Los Angeles, is expected to turn toward the San Joaquin valley within the next few weeks and at that time a quickening of the market is expected.

W. W. Stanforth of the Simpson Land Company, who has just returned from Kansas City and Missouri points, said that there were twenty-two coaches on the train in which he rode to Los Angeles. Practically all of the coaches were filled with colonists. Their present destination is Los Angeles, and he said that when they got off the train there they did not know what to do. This is only one instance of the way the colonists are touring into the state from all parts of the East.

The Simpson Land Company reports that it has secured an option on an 18,000 acre stock ranch at Winnemucca, Nevada, for Buffalo, Fresno and Los Angeles men. The deal calls for an investment of $115,000. It is the purpose of the new owners to subdivide the land and sell it in 20 and 40 acre tracts. An irrigation system, to cost $20,000, is to be installed.

The Simpson Land Company also reports the sale of eight lots in the Placella Home tract and 2 lots and a house in Arlington Heights. R. G. Mowring, secretary of the company, has just returned from Chicago and Muskegon, Mich., where he sought to interest a number of people to come to California.

NEW SUBURBAN TRACT.

The Alexander Land Company has just purchased 26 acres at the corner of Ventura and Orange avenues. This property is to be subdivided and sold as suburban residence property. The tract will be known as Ventura Park. A great deal of interest has already been manifested in the land. A stringent building restriction will be placed on the property. With the planting of the Alta Vista tract of the Fresno Traction Company on the market, it is believed that interest in the upbuilding of the eastern portion of the city will be stimulated.

J. D. Helvey reports a great deal of interest in the Caruthers tract of about 5000 acres, which is on the market. About half of this tract has already been sold and development work has just started.

The San Joaquin Light & Power Company is planning to drill several water wells on this property and put pumps on each of the wells for demonstration purposes.

The J. J. Murray Company reports the sale last week of eight lots in Kearney Boulevard Heights and six lots in Fairmont addition. The recent reports about the building of a railroad out this direction to Kerman and Madera has attracted a great deal of interest in this property and many inquiries are being received. Two moderate priced houses are to be erected in the very near future in Fairmont addition.

A. M. Helms of Portland has just purchased through J. A. Stebbins & Co., two lots and a cottage at 155 Fortieamp avenue. The purchase price was $3200. Mr. Helms expects to make his future home in Fresno. Stebbins & Co. also report the sale of a ranch four miles east of Clovis to Mr. Barlow of Porterville for $12,000.

Mrs. Minnie Bissell has just purchased three lots at the corner of Lewis and Abbey streets, upon which she expects to erect a bungalow. The purchase price was $1000.

West & Clark have just taken over 400 acres of land about five miles from Merced, which they intend to subdivide and sell in 20 and 40 acre tracts. They have also taken over 15,000 acres in Tulare county near Ducor and Terra Bella, which will be sold as orange land. The soil and climate is said to be excellent for citrus growing.

The Rigsbee-Sims Co. reports the sale of a 20 acre ranch by W. S. Helladay to W. N. Hill for $7000. Mr. Halladay expects to return to his former home in Memphis, Tenn.

The Dodson-Orr Company reports a number of 20 and 40 acre sales in its big tract near Herndon. This tract is being developed for alfalfa and fruit growing and has successfully passed through a series of tests, as to its quality and quality of the water that has been developed.

BOOM CLOVIS LAND.

H. Hansen of Minneapolis, who for some time past has been interested with McCson and Kellogg, will leave soon for Minneapolis, where he hopes to interest friends and others in property near Clovis and place 800 acres on the market. It is the plan to plant the orchard to peaches and organize a company to do the work. The planting of the land will start immediately. Each fifteen shares of stock sold will entitle the holder to five acres of land, which he may care for himself or allow the company to care for and receive dividends.

The S. S. Crutcher Company reports the sale of 226 acres of land five miles east of Reedley to Los Angeles capitalists. This land is to be planted to oranges, which have proved very profitable on the tract from which Crutcher is selling. Crutcher also reports much activity in Arlington Heights lots.

The G. B. Swigart ranch of 1010 acres, located about twelve miles north of Sanger, is to be placed on the market by the J. Ed Mitchell Company in subdivisions. The land is considered exceptionally good for the production of citrus fruits and will be sold for this purpose. Pancher Creek passes through the tract.

W. E. Bush & Co. reported the sale of 270 acres in the Patterson Colony in Stanislaus county last week. The purchasers were G. W. Duncan of Oklahoma; Dr. A. S. Parker of Riverside, Cal.; G. N. Freeman of Fowler, J. R. Skinner of Fresno and M. McLaughlin of Fresno. Mrs. Hattie C. Walker of Fresno bought property in the town of Patterson.

BUILDING ACTIVITY IS RENEWED; 603 PERMITS ISSUED THIS YEAR

Value of permits issued for week ending Oct. 21	$30,961
Value of permits issued for October to date	71,975
Value of permits issued for year to date	862,783
Value of permits issued for September	79,685
Number of permits issued for week ending Oct. 21.....	20
Number of permits issued for October to date	44
Number of permits issued for year to date	603
Number of permits issued for September	65

Following the unusually dull week ending October 14, there was a big rush last week in the city engineer's office for building permits. Sixteen permits were issued for new buildings, the total value of which was $28,486, while four permits valued at $2,475, were issued for alterations.

The Mackey planing mill took out a permit yesterday to alter the front of a store building on J street, between Tulare and Kern, for L. H. Mondrik. The cost will be $800.

The biggest permit of the week was the one taken out by W. H. Ackerman, a contractor, for a residence for Mrs. E. A. Walrond, at the corner of Fresno and R streets. The estimated cost of the residence is $9,536.

T. L. Gilbaugh, as contractor, took out a permit yesterday to build a residence in Orchard Hill addition for William Brown to cost $1,000. Ferdinando Guadalajara, took out a permit to build a residence for himself on lots 25-26, block 41, city.

The permits taken out last week bring the total for the year up to $862,783. It is now believed that the value of permits will pass the million dollar mark by the first of December.

The number of permits issued for the year passed the 600 mark this week. This includes permits for new buildings and alterations.

BIG BUILDING RUSH NOW GOING ON IN FRESNO

Thousands of Dollars Being Loaned; Banks Tied Up With Raisin Crops.

Mrs. E. A. Walrond to Build $9500 Residence on Corner of Fresno and R.

That the city of Fresno is now experiencing a rush of building, practically all residences, is evident, first by the buildings themselves, and, second, by the fact that applications are pouring into local offices for the use of money with which to build. A large amount of the loan business that is now being transacted is for buildings in the near future, but this rush for money has existed for the past six weeks. One firm reported yesterday that it had loaned out more than $50,000 in the past month, and practically all of this money will be used in building homes. Other firms report a similar amount of business.

Some difficulty is being experienced in securing money, as the local banks have stepped loaning on real estate for the time being. The reason given for this is that the money is tied up in raisin crops. As a result private money is being used, and it is said that the private owners are now well loaded up.

The refusal of the banks to loan money on real estate is not an unusual thing at this time of the year, and does not indicate any particular depressing stringency in the money market. In the harvesting and buying of raisin crops, the banks are always called upon to advance hundreds of thousands of dollars and as a result very little is left to loan on real estate. This condition does not last for any great period of time, and it is expected that money conditions will be easier within a very short while.

It is estimated that there are between 200 and 300 houses now in the process of construction, or just completed, in this city. Every one of these new residences is occupied, or will be as soon as completed.

The vacant houses are the old houses which have been left for the new. These vacant houses, however, are very scarce, as they are quickly rented when the occupants move out.

An instance of the booming activity now going on in this city was presented in the building permits for the past week. Out of sixteen permits granted for new buildings, all but two or three were for residences.

Building activity in the business district is being postponed until a later date, and no plans now prepared for structures which are to grace the business section of the city are being abandoned. In some instances plans have all been completed and construction work only awaits the expiration of leases. In other cases where plans have been completed the owners are holding up the work to complete financial arrangements. Business buildings planned within the next six months will have an aggregate value of more than three-quarters of a million dollars.

A. D. Green, who is planning the erection of a business block on the corner of I and Merced, now occupied by Borello Brothers, announces that he will begin construction immediately after the first of March. The lease held by Borello Brothers does not expire until that time. The Borello building, which is to be erected on the I street between Merced and Fresno, will be started in time to be ready for occupancy by the first of March. Plans for this new building have not yet been completed.

The La Grande school trustees will receive bids on November 2nd, at 10 a. m., for the new $20,000 high school that is to be erected there. The trustees of the Reedley high school will receive on bids on November 4th at 8 p. m. for the annex to the high school building which is to be erected there at a cost of about $18,000. The plans for these buildings were drawn up by A. C. Swarts & Son, local architects.

Mrs. E. A. Walrond has just had plans prepared for a handsome two-story residence on the corner of Fresno and R streets. The contract has been let to W. H. Ackerman, formerly of Los Angeles, and the contract price is $9,536. A permit for the construction of the building was taken out yesterday.

Fresno street long ago became a street of beautiful residences, among the number being the H. H. Brix mansion and the construction of this residence at the corner of Fresno and R streets will add to the large homes that adorn that street. Construction work will start at once.

GILLETTE OF SAFETY RAZOR FAME TO BUILD

Plans Palatial Country Home on Tract of 100 Acres Near Lindsay.

The work of building up and beautifying the tract of 100 acres near Lindsay recently purchased by King C. Gillette, the safety razor magnate, as a site for a palatial country home, is soon to be started. Gillette expects to enlarge to his present holdings and make this place one of the beauty spots of California.

Henry C. Post, a cousin of the safety razor king, has been in Fresno purchasing nursery stock to be planted on the grounds and expects to improve the entire acreage.

Gillette has sent instructions to Post to place matters in such shape that construction work may start on his Lindsay ranch and it is in response to this letter that he is in Fresno. Gillette has extensive land holdings near Santa Monica in southern California, but will make his California home on his Lindsay estate. Gillette has already expended more than half a million dollars in Fresno and expects to spend much more.

MELEE IN MONTEREY, MEXICO

MONTEREY, Mex., Oct. 21.—An attempt last night by secret police to arrest a laborer who carried a knife precipitated a fight in which several shots were fired. The incident gave rise to false report that an attempt had been made on the life of General Madero.

Five additional names have been secured as signers of the articles of incorporation in the past few days. They are: L. H. Corse, of the Corse Realty Co.; L. A. Nares, of the Laguna Lands, Ltd.; H. C. R. Gill, of the Gill Real Estate Agency, and W. E. Bush of W. E. Bush & Co.

MILITARY RULE GOVERNS 91 MEN IN SOUTHERN PACIFIC STOCKADE

Laborers, Who Filled Vacancies Caused By Strike of September 30, Are Not Strikebreakers at Heart; Eat, Sleep and Play Behind Board Fence.

A board fence, 15 feet in height, [illegible] feet in length and one inch in thickness, surrounds the roundhouse, car shops and upper yards of the Southern Pacific in Fresno. Surmounting this fence are four strands of barbed wire. At night eight armed guards are constantly passing the distance around this stockade.

Within ninety-one laboring men are governed by military rule. The majority of these men never see the outside of this high board fence. They work, eat, sleep and enjoy amusements inside. The night shifts eat, sleep and play while the day men are performing their duties. During the dark hours the system is reversed. This condition has existed since October 1, the day after 3000 machinists, boilermakers, shop helpers, car inspectors and repairers had laid down their tools on the Harriman lines, extending from Chicago to New Orleans and every part of the Pacific coast.

At 10 o'clock on the morning of September 30, the strike went into effect in obedience to orders previously sent out from Chicago by President Kline of the system federation [illegible] designated by the [illegible] when, seventy-five men dropped their bread-earning instruments and walked quietly out of the Fresno yards. Twenty-four hours later [illegible] the vacancies had been filled. Within ten days all had been filled. Today there are more men working in the yards and shops than before the strike began.

MODERN EATING HOUSE.

Yesterday, ninety-one sat down at the two long tables in the dining room in the stockade. Long pine boards covered with oil cloth, groaned under the weight of good, wholesome food prepared and served by five Chinese. For breakfast, the men had hot biscuits, fresh creamery butter, ham and eggs, bacon and eggs, hotcakes with white can syrup, fried potatoes, coffee, tea and milk. At noon, part of the bill of fare was repeated with roast beef, roast pork, roast mutton, boiled potatoes, beans, macaroni with Spanish, carrots, peach pie and pear pie included. Last night they ate [illegible] instead of carrots, beefsteak instead of roast meats, with baked potatoes, salad, apple pie, [illegible] bread and rice pudding.

Before another week rolls around, two milk cows will be [illegible] within the stockade and the inmates will have fresh milk and cream instead of the canned variety. The two long tables with strong benches on each side resemble a barbecue in a great many ways. However, there is the restaurant style added with sugar bowls, catsup bottles, olive oil and vinegar for salads.

The men eat from graniteware plates, with tin cups and graniteware saucers. Steel knives and forks, with wooden handles, are provided. Tin spoons of heavy quality complete the equipment. No napkins are furnished nor are there any tablecloths to be changed for every meal.

HOUSES ARE SANITARY.

The doors and windows are covered with small-mesh screens to keep out flies and other insects. On each side of the front door appears a typewritten sheet of paper asking the employes to please remove their hats while eating and not to smoke or talk in loud tones. Under the military rule the men obey these orders to the letter. The dining room is twenty-five by thirty feet in size, the kitchen being a trifle smaller. Adjoining the kitchen is a huge refrigerator wherein ice is placed daily to keep meat and vegetables fresh. The Chinese cooks prepare their meals on a huge range, fired with [illegible] from the roundhouse.

FIVE CHINESE COOKS

The five Chinese [illegible] the men [illegible] on the job all night in another part of the stockade, one bunkhouse 25 by 40 feet, is [illegible] additional structures, each 25 by 60 feet, are now in course of construction. Among the [illegible] equipments for the men are hot and cold tub and shower baths, reading and writing tables, books, magazines, newspapers, playing cards and [illegible]. The bunkhouses are connected with the city water and sewer system, insuring sanitary quarters for the men.

Every morning and evening, the bed [illegible] are "aired" on a line which extends half way across the interior of the stockade. The length of the line may be determined by the size of the place. Five acres would be lost behind the high board fence. When all the contemplated improvements are put in there will be four houses for the accommodation of the men. Two of these will have cement floors. In the sleeping quarters the beds are arranged on the same system as a Pullman car, one berth above the other. The men get white pillow cases, clean sheets and blankets and there has been no complaint of uncleanliness.

This statement is borne out by a recent visit to the stockade by Dr. G. H. Aiken, city health officer. After a half day's investigation, Dr. Aiken found the place to be in a sanitary condition. He remarked that the kitchen showed less filth than the majority of the restaurants in the city. The health officer found the night crew sleeping between clean sheets and blankets while the bedclothes used by the day shift had been placed on the long line for an airing.

MOVING PICTURE SHOW.

Next week one end of the bunkhouses will be equipped with a moving picture screen and daily shows will be given for the amusement of the men. A moving picture machine and several reels of films will arrive here in a few days from San Francisco. At present the greater part of the men amuse themselves at night by smoking and story-telling around a huge bonfire in the center of the stockade. To hear the men "swap" yarns, draw on their corn cob pipes and cigarettes and chew tobacco, the real spirit of the men is observed.

WELL-BEHAVED MEN

They are a well-behaved lot of men and no dissension has cropped out. They go about their duties in a jovial frame of mind, singing and whistling. As the armed guard passes on one of his regular rounds of sentry duties he is greeted with a "hello" here and there. The monotony is relieved by card games, quiet reading hours and story-telling. The men are furnished with board, lodging, tobacco, reading matter and amusements free of charge. They can obtain clothes from the supply car which passes through the yards weekly.

It is interesting to study these men. None of them are strikebreakers at heart. They express sorrow in no uncertain terms for the strikers and their families. The union men who walked out at the command of their leaders are not blamed for the strike and the ninety-one men now housed in the stockade under military rule do not consider the strikers as their enemies. The blame is laid at the door of the so-called radical leaders of the system federation.

NO STRIKEBREAKERS.

There are no professional strikebreakers in Fresno. The vacancies caused by the strike of September 30th have been filled by mechanics and laborers who were out of employment when the union men deserted their posts of duty. Today the open shop exists on the Harriman lines and Fresno is no exception. At Bakersfield and Stockton the situation is handled in exactly the same manner. In each city the yards are surrounded by a high board fence, surmounted by barbed wire and guarded by armed watchmen. Within the military rule exists, but the men do not object. It is the railroad company's method of winning the strike.

Here ninety-one men are housed in the stockade. At Bakersfield there are 350 and at Sacramento the number is 1800. It is a tremendous task to feed this number of men, but the Southern Pacific seems to be doing it without any trouble. Weeks and months before the strike was called the officials of the Harriman lines were preparing for the walkout they believed to be inevitable.

PREPARED FOR STRIKE.

In Fresno, the company began by erecting a high board fence in the upper yards, thus screening from public view the roundhouse and car shops where all the important repair work is done. Next came several carloads of cots, blankets, sheets, pillows, provisions for an army of men and many thousand feet of lumber and nails. After the strike, the picket fence near the depot was used for the first time. A guard stands at each gate and no person is admitted unless the watchman believes that party has business on the private property of the road. At each street crossing two guards pace back and forth to keep out the public. During the dark hours the force of guards is doubled. In all about thirty men are employed here as guards.

LOCAL MEN IN YARDS.

The strike did two things for Fresno. It threw seventy-five union men out of employment and it gave jobs to fifty unemployed. One of these local men has not seen his family for over two weeks. He comes under the military rule, but has lodged no complaint with employers or fellow workmen, declaring he needed the money and the job.

The other forty odd were imported here from San Francisco and Portland. They are not professional strikebreakers in any sense of the word. Employment bureaus were the means of obtaining hundreds who were glad to get free transportation to cities along the Southern Pacific route and free board, lodging, tobacco and amusements after landing at their destination.

"THERE IS NO STRIKE"

To railroad officials the term "strikebreakers" is unknown. The men who are paid to enforce the military rule within the yards never apply the term to any of the new employes. The reference to them is always made as "new men" or "our boys."

GOOD CLASS OF MEN.

In looking over the class of laborers in the stockade the percentage of foreigners is about the same. Mexicans are used to clean the passenger coaches. Their predecessors were Japanese. The car inspectors, known to the public as car tappers, or car knockers, are inexperienced men who have quickly learned the ins and outs of the business. The car repairers are mechanics who have had experience in work similar to that required of them now.

At the roundhouse, the boilermakers and machinists are men who have worked in machine shops in the large cities and know just how many rivets there should be in a boiler to keep it water tight. The machinists know how to handle the lathes and other machinery in the shops. While they may not have repaired locomotives before they are familiar with engines, boilers and machinery and at the present time every bit of work that has been brought into the shops is finished. The force of new men has been able to keep up with the amount on hand at all times.

MANY ARC LIGHTS

For the first time in history, the local yards are properly lighted at nights. Since the strike, scores of arc lights have been installed in and around the roundhouse and shops there is an abundance of light. The interior of the stockade also has its share of electricity and the guards are enabled to see any approaching object for several hundred feet on all sides.

STRIKE IS 3 WEEKS OLD.

The strike is now three weeks old and the guards have become acquainted with the majority of the new men. At various times the strikers and their successors have exchanged greetings through the picket fences, but the military rule forbids this. The new men have been called "scabs" by the union pickets, but to these remarks there were few replies. Among the men the feeling prevails that the strikers are the losers because they have been led into something they did not give the stamp of approval away down in their hearts.

One of the features of the strike in Fresno will be the benefit dance to be given next Tuesday night in the new Armory hall under the auspices of the system federation of shop employes. The proceeds will be given to the seventy-five strikers. Nearly half of these are now working in the packing houses pending the outcome of the controversy with the Harriman lines.

H. KITE RELEASED FROM COUNTY JAIL

Although H. Kite, who has been held in the county jail for several days on a charge of drunkenness, showed signs of insanity, at times, the authorities are under the impression that his queer actions were brought on by the excessive use of liquor, and yesterday he was released from jail by Police Judge Briggs. Before he was released Kite wrote several letters to the arresting officer, jailer and police magistrate demanding that something be done in his behalf, and also pleading for mercy.

MOTHER CLAIMS SON DESTROYED L. A. TIMES

Mrs. James Whalen Will Be Examined as to Her Mental Condition.

Declaring that the McNamara brothers are not guilty of dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building, and that it was her son who committed the act, Mrs. James Whalen, a well educated woman of Irish descent, was arrested early yesterday morning and is being held in the insane ward pending an investigation into her sanity. Mrs. Whalen left Friday night, arriving in Fresno from Los Angeles. She was not wearing cloak or jacket or hat, and carried a small grip. She went to a lodging house on I street where she engaged a room for the night.

About 2 o'clock yesterday morning the landlady was awakened by loud talking, and tiptoeing to the room occupied by Mrs. Whalen, she heard the woman delivering a lecture on industrial strife. After being requested to wait until a more appropriate hour in which to make the speech, Mrs. Whalen continued with the lecture, and the police were called. To Patrolmen Morse and Wickstrom, Mrs. Whalen made statements regarding her past life, which she claims has been devoted to the struggle for freedom among the laboring class. Mrs. Whalen claims that she was dragged through the streets of Globe, Ariz., with a bowling mob at her heels. She also says that she was struck on the head during a labor riot in Colorado, and a long scar on her forehead bears out her statement.

Mrs. Whalen spent most of yesterday in talking about the labor situation and up to a late hour last night was still talking to the matron. She will probably be examined before a lunacy commission tomorrow.

MOVING BLACK BASS TO SOUTHERN POINTS

Patrols Are Out to See That the Limit on Duck Bags Is Lived Up to.

The activities of the district office of the state game and fish commission in the seining and saving of black bass stranded in the sloughs and water depressions with the receding of the flood waters into the river main channels will end today at Lellis on the S. P. railroad, two miles west of Laton.

The state fish car from Sissons which has had its base since June 20 at Friday was sent down to Lellis yesterday and today will be loaded up with black bass to stock southern waters. Warden Ferguson has had a carload of fish seined and deposited in a pond for the shipment today. Twenty cans will be delivered at Bakersfield and the other 100 cans at various places south of the Tehachapi dividing mountain range.

"This is the first consignment of black bass that has been sent to the Southland," remarked Warden Ferguson. "They have overlooked the black bass in the south as a food and sport giving fish. The supply in Fresno county is sufficient to supply any demand in the state for propagating purposes."

Otherwise at this time the game activities are confined to having patrol guards out since the opening of the season on the 15th to keep watchful eye that the laws are not violated in regard to the shooting of ducks. The guard is directed more especially against market hunters to hold them down to the bag limit and keep down unlawful shipments.

"There has been no occasion thus far to make any arrests," remarked the warden. "During the first few days after the opening of the duck season shipments to the market were heavy. This has fallen off because the law, while it limits the bag to 25 ducks a day, also makes the limit 50 ducks to a man in a week. The hunter is reduced therefore to two days in the week when he can shoot for market purposes."

MISSOURI JUDGE TO RENDER DECISION

Word was received yesterday by Sheriff Walter McSwain from Deputy Sheriff Buttorf, who is at Jefferson City, Mo., to the effect that briefs would be submitted in the case case of J. P. Myers, who is wanted here for embezzlement, and that the magistrate would render his decision Monday. Myers was formerly cashier of the Bank of Kerman, and he is alleged to have embezzled funds amounting to about $30,000. He was arrested in Kansas City, Mo., but it is doubtful if he will be returned here for trial as he is making a hard legal fight against his extradition. Attorney Everts is in Missouri in the interest of the Kerman people, who claim they were bounced by Myers. The bank cashier was a fugitive from justice for over two years.

WINTER SHOW OF BARNYARD BIRDS

Association Committee Has Chosen December 4-9 for the Exhibit Days.

The committee appointed by the Fresno Poultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Association at the meeting on Friday night has chosen December 4th to 9th for the winter poultry show. This will give exhibitors opportunity to exhibit in turn at Stockton, Fresno, Los Angeles, San Diego, Santa Ana and Santa Barbara, if they desire.

Meanwhile an active campaign is on for new members and another meeting will be held next Friday night in Justice Smith's courtroom at which it is believed that 25 or 30 new names will be added to the membership roll to give the association new life.

There are many new fanciers in Fresno and adjacent counties who will be glad of the opportunity to exhibit their finest birds. The show will not be confined to chickens but will include pigeons and pet stock. As an inducement to join, the initiation fee was reduced to $2.00 which will include the association dues until January 1, 1912. No show room has yet been secured but it is believed that one of the many garages about town will be available when the time comes.

A departure will be made this year in prizes with 80 per cent of all entrance money to be returned in cash prizes instead of offering articles of merchandise, etc., as has been the custom. A handsome blue ribbon will be awarded for first prize, red for second and orange for third as usual. In addition to this a gold plated leg band will be placed on each first prize winner in the show, a silver plated band on each second prize winner and a copper band on each third prize winner and these bands will be allowed to remain on the birds permanently so that the prize winners can be shown in the yards of the fanciers and easily distinguished.

PEONS LIVING IN FEARFUL SQUALOR

While out yesterday serving processes in a case coming before the juvenile court tomorrow afternoon, Probation Officer Sessions reports finding at the lower end of Kern street a condition of indescribable squalor in a small house occupied by a score or more Mexican peons. Divided as it is by a partition, the hovel is filled to suffocation with the mingled sexes. Mr. Sessions commented specially on a young woman with child at breast that lay on a pile of filthy rags and so ill or neglected as to appear partly demented.

"This poor wretch," said he, "had been given about as much attention as an animal and her condition is such that she now exhibits about as much intelligence as an animal."

The babe was a puny thing, suggesting a case of arrested development.

JAPANESE PLAYLET MAY BE PRODUCED

Miss Schaeffer Will Stage It for High School Piano Benefit Fund.

In addition to the announced attractions for the high school auditorium piano benefit fund, Principal Liddeke gives out that plans are being made by Miss Maude Schaeffer, the head of the English department, to stage a dramatic offering. Miss Schaeffer has staged as pretentious high school plays as "The Slim Princess," by George Ade, and "The School Mistress," by Pinero. Both were received with appreciation by the Fresno public, and it is thought that the school will be fortunate to have the contemplated production under such excellent supervision.

The piece that Miss Schaeffer has under consideration is a one act Japanese playlet, "The Flower of Yeddo." The story centers about the persons of "The Flower of Yeddo," who is a young noblewoman, and a gifted young poet, her lover. The charming love story which threads its way through the play is told in a semi-colloquial manner which blends the conviction of realism with the flavor of romance. Under the direction of Prof. A. G. Wahlberg, Japanese songs, written by Amy Woodford Findal, will be sung by specially selected vocalists.

The play was produced at the Greek theater in Berkeley last season, and met with such gratifying success that it will be played again this year by special request. If the piece can be staged at the high school auditorium, special scenery will be painted for a realistic setting.

THE LOCKWOOD System of DENTISTRY WITHOUT PAIN

LECTURE No. 7.

To some people the positive statements I have been making regarding MY SYSTEM of dentistry WITHOUT PAIN may appear extravagant, but that is because they have not become familiar with dentistry as practiced in my office. MY SYSTEM is such a complete departure from those of dentists generally that forcible language is necessary. People usually place little faith in the negative individual anyway. Quite recently I had a patient that told of going first to another dentist and after an examination and estimate on the work, asked if it would hurt. The dentist replied "Oh, I don't think much." The patient's mental processes were not equal to figuring out just what degree of pain and discomfort he would be compelled to submit to. He came to me, and I did his necessary dental work. He afterwards informed me that he was very glad he had engaged me as his dentist. I have worked for a large number of people here in Fresno and in different parts of this and adjacent counties. To these I can refer to substantiate my claims. From several I have received letters in which they voluntarily expressed the satisfaction and comfort they derived from engaging me as their dentist. These proofs of my ability and claims are available to any one who cares to investigate at my office.

Remember, with MY SYSTEM of dentistry WITHOUT PAIN, I FILL, CROWN, REMOVE A NERVE, do ALL the various kinds of bridgework, EXTRACT, in fact, perform ALL operations in modern dentistry ABSOLUTELY WITHOUT pain. Also bear in mind that the medicinal agents that I employ to subdue ALL sensation (in the tooth) contain no COCAINE, MORPHINE or any drug that is in the slightest degree injurious to the weaker constitution, besides being applied locally to the tooth it cannot enter the general system. I make no charge for an examination and estimate. My prices are reasonable, no more than any capable dentist would charge.

CAUSES AND PREVENTION OF ANIMAL DISEASES

Diseases [illegible] determine the character and profitableness of livestock [illegible]. [illegible] stock depends [illegible] care and attention [illegible] them in a healthy condition. Many animals are kept under conditions more or less artificial, and careful hygienic precautions must be taken for their protection if they are to be free from disease.

A successful livestock industry, and the soil fertility which [illegible] aggregations of animals, depend [illegible] the prevention and exclusion of communicable diseases rather than on their skillful treatment after animals are affected. [illegible] should be well informed as to the causes of animal diseases and the means which can be taken for their prevention, for [illegible] may thus often avoid serious trouble and loss from disease among his animals. Many of the ills and accidents to which the various farm animals are subject could easily be prevented if [illegible] in time and treated understandingly.

Every person who owns a horse or [illegible] other domestic animal should know how to care for the common, everyday ills of animals, and when to call in the advice of a veterinarian. He [illegible] know how to prevent the common diseases of sheep, swine, and [illegible] animals and how to care for animals that are sick. Few farmers can be veterinarians, but all of them [illegible] inform themselves as to the best means of caring for their animals and protecting them from disease.

The causes which disturb the normal conditions of the animal body and [illegible] disease [illegible] may be summarized as follows: (1) [illegible] of nutrition, [illegible] or improper foods or quantities of food. (2) [illegible] resulting from poor ventilation or [illegible]. (3) [illegible] disturbances due to overexertion, or [illegible] lack of the necessary amount of bodily activity. (4) Thermal influences, depending upon too high or too low temperatures. (5) Electric agencies. (6) Mechanical injuries. (7) Poisons. (8) Infection. (9) Animal parasites.

The diseased conditions produced in the animal body by malnutrition, overwork, poor hygiene and the injurious effects of electricity and thermal disturbances are known as general diseases; those due to parasites are called parasitic; and those caused by micro-organisms are known as infectious diseases.

The term infection has come to be understood to mean the entrance into the animal body, from without, of living micro-organisms (bacteria, fungi, or protozoa) capable of multiplying within the living tissues and of producing, in consequence thereof, a local or general diseased condition; and possibly the death of the animal.

The germs of disease are scattered by many agencies and may gain entrance to the healthy animal body in various ways. For example, germs of hog cholera are disseminated by means of the diseased carcasses, hog racks, stock cars, etc., and they may easily be transferred by the shoes or clothing of [illegible]. [illegible] for the disease over wide areas, and [illegible]. It is possible, also, for the germs to be scattered upon particles of dust and litter in high winds. Watering tanks, ponds, and sluggish streams or irrigation ditches are all common sources for spreading infectious diseases.

The disease germs may be introduced into the animal body with the food or water, through the digestive tract; or they may be inhaled with the air and brought into the lungs, or they may enter through wounds or abrasions of the skin of the animal. Some insects also carry the germs of certain diseases from diseased animals and introduce them into other susceptible individuals. Thus, the cattle tick carries the protozoan of Texas cattle fever, and flies are often the introducers of pathogenic bacteria, such as those of anthrax. And occasionally, though rarely, the young directly inherit a disease from the parent animals.

But though countless disease germs are thrown out by diseased animals, fortunately these germs require very favorable conditions for continued existence and for retaining disease-producing power. Many of them are destroyed by nature, by the devitalizing effect of sunlight and oxidization. If conditions are made unfavorable for them by the farmer by keeping animals properly fed and cared for, so that they have vigorous health and high germ resisting power, disease will often be avoided on a farm even when neighboring farms are suffering badly.

But to guard against the spread of infectious disease and to protect from further infection animals which are already diseased, disinfection should be practiced.

In order that this may be successful it is important to know something of the nature of the infecting germ to be guarded against and the sources from which it comes. Unfortunately, there are so many ways in which the germs of certain diseases may be spread that disinfection is frequently not reliable. To be depended upon it must be very thorough. Yards and buildings where diseased animals have been kept should be carefully disinfected. Food which may have been contaminated should ordinarily be destroyed, but in some cases such food may be given to non-susceptible animals. Drinking places should be disinfected, also currycombs, brushes and everything of the sort. Carcasses of diseased animals should be burned. Attendant for sick animals should be very careful about their clothing, particularly trousers and shoes. It is well to use special overalls and overshoes, which may be left at the infected stall or building. Dogs, rats, and any of the smaller animals which are likely to carry the disease should be guarded against.

Among the commoner disinfectants are alcohol, carbolic acid, creolin, formalin, corrosive sublimate, sulphur, fire, moist heat, and sunshine.

Alcohol is considered unreliable, not strong enough in its germ destroying properties, but useful for certain purposes, particularly as an aid in disinfecting greasy surfaces.

Carbolic acid is reliable and very commonly used. It is objectionable in being quite poisonous; but it does not destroy clothing or corrode metals like corrosive sublimate. For disinfection a 5 per cent solution is used.

Creolin is supposed to be a combination of crude carbolic acid with soap. It is a dark brown, rather thick liquid, and makes a milky emulsion with water. It, too, is used in 5 per cent solution.

Formalin is an important disinfectant, either used as a liquid or when vaporized.

Sulphur is probably not as efficient as is generally supposed, though if a large quantity of sulphur is used, under certain conditions, it is a decided germ destroying [illegible].

Corrosive sublimate is dangerously poisonous but a good [illegible], used in the proportion of [illegible] corrosive sublimate to 2000 of water.

Fire is the most reliable disinfectant and should be used [illegible] an attack [illegible]. Long exposure to sunshine will [illegible] infected clothing and other articles, or boiling for thirty [illegible] or an hour will probably destroy any disease producing germs.

Among the sources of [illegible] infection, impure air is responsible for many and serious [illegible]. Carbon dioxide is not poisonous in itself in small quantities, but it is frequently associated with poisonous inorganic impurities. When present in the air in great excess it supplants oxygen in the blood, causes paralysis of the heart and overwork and ultimate failure of the lungs. Impure air causes the rapid development and spread of diseases which, with pure air, might be [illegible] and easily controlled. The spread of tuberculosis in a stable is a good illustration of transmission of disease due to bad air conditions. With an infectious case of tuberculosis already in the herd, tuberculosis spreads much more rapidly in unventilated stables than in well-ventilated ones.

Ventilation, therefore, is important and should be thorough. It not only admits oxygen but dilutes and removes impurities. Good ventilation does not include direct draughts upon confined animals, however, but merely rapid and sufficient change of the air. Each mature cow or horse has a right to at least 1000 cubic feet of air, frequently renewed, and should preferably have more.

Disease may be directly transmitted from parent animals to their young, but this is only very rarely the case. However animals do inherit weaknesses and tendency toward disease—a lack of resisting power. Farmers, therefore, should learn to breed only from sound and vigorous stock. When they patronize unsound and inferior sires simply because the cost of service is low, they act unwisely. In many states this is partially regulated by law, registration being forbidden for animals afflicted with such troubles as cataract, roaring or whistling, bone spavin, ringbone, etc.

Food may be a factor in animal disease when excessive in amount, insufficient, too concentrated, too coarse, bulky, and innutritious for the animal that receives it; or when poor in quality, given in a poorly balanced ration or at improper intervals. It may also carry animal or vegetable parasites, or even be poisonous.

The common tendency to overfeed results in heaves, colic, etc. among horses, milk fever among cows, and favors the development of all febrile diseases. Only a certain amount of the food taken into the body can be absorbed or used, and the surplus causes only trouble.

On the other hand, an insufficiency in the food predisposes to all the diseases that are favored by a lessened vitality. Glanders and similar diseases are especially apt to occur or to increase in severity among horses that are poorly fed. Deficiency in food mineral matters predisposes toward certain diseases of the bone. Deficiency of albumin results in loss of strength and energy, and animals so fed are apt to be languid and weak.

Food of poor quality has the same objections as a deficiency in food, and also favors colic and indigestion. Too coarse or bulky f[illegible] cause troubles for animals with small stomachs, as the horse. Poorly balanced rations, having an excess of protein, may cause diarrhea, congestion of the liver, or milk fever. An excess of carbohydrates may cause an injurious deposition of fat under the skin or in the heart and liver, or into and between the fibers of the involuntary muscles.

Feeding at improper intervals interferes with digestion and the general thrift of the animal and may cause colic and other disorders. Sudden changes from poor to rich pasture are injurious, favoring anthrax, black leg, etc.

Vegetable parasites in the food, such as bunt, smut, rust, and mildew, may cause abortions, [illegible], sore throat, etc. Animal parasites in the food lessen the food value and causes skin troubles.

In addition it must be remembered that some animals can eat with impunity what others cannot. Pigs can eat acorns freely, but they are injurious to other animals. Rich cereals may cause laminitis in the horse, but not in the cow.

Water may be a factor in animal disease when excessive or deficient in amount, when containing low forms of vegetable or animal life, when very hard (containing much calcium and magnesium salts), when given at improper intervals or soon after eating, or when given in large quantities to a very hot and tired animal.

The vegetable and animal parasites which frequently contaminate water may serve as a source of transmission for germ or parasitic diseases. Sewage matter may get into the drinking water from various sources and poison the system in many ways that may result in different diseases. Hard water may cause indigestion and unthrifty conditions. Watering animals at improper intervals may also cause indigestion, as does excessive watering. Deficient water supply is injurious in still other ways.

The farmer should be on the lookout for any lack of thrift or health on the part of his animals and should take care that the kind and amount of food and water supply is properly regulated for them.

Another point concerning which the farmer should inform himself is regarding the more common and serious one of the parasites of domestic animals, for these parasites cause greater losses than is generally realized. They may be external or internal in character, affecting the body surface or the internal organs. They may be received into the digestive apparatus with food or drink, as are bacteria and other germs; or they may be breathed in with the air; or they may enter through broken skin; or there may be external infection through contact.

These parasites often live on the exudate or excretion which results from their presence. Some have a mouth and digestive organs, as for example the roundworms of the intestines. Others receive their nourishment by absorption through their surface, as does the tapeworm.

The effect of parasites on the health of the animal in or on which they are living depends upon the organs invaded, the rapidity with which the parasite multiplies, the amount of nutrition used by the parasite, and the amount of irritation caused. Intestinal parasites cause trouble by obstruction and by irritating and abstracting blood from the mucous membrane. They also use nutrition and irritate in other ways. Liver parasites cause jaundice and general unthrift. Lung and bronchial parasites cause bronchitis or pneumonia. Parasites in the blood vessels cause disease of the vessel walls; those in the muscular tissue may cause little trouble to the animal but are very serious to human health if the flesh is eaten. Parasites in the brain are more rare, and usually fatal.

Of the external parasites the most common and serious are the itch, mange, sheep scab, lice, ticks, flies, and ringworms. The most common internal parasites are roundworms, flatworms, and bots.

If everything that comes in contact with the animal body were free from parasites, parasitism would be impossible. Saddles, harness, blankets, posts and fences are the usual agents, which spread Texas itch or mange among horses; round intestinal worms generally gain entrance in the egg or immature form, with the water drank. Ponds, wells which receive surface drainage, sluggish streams and marshes, should therefore be regarded with suspicion. Sound animals should not be allowed in sheds, yards, or barns where animals diseased by external parasites, like lice or scab mites, have been, until such structures have been disinfected. Intestinal worms which appear in the manure of horses should be destroyed with boiling water—not merely crushed and thrown away. Medical treatment must be such as will destroy or remove the parasites. But it should be remembered also that many parasites can resist stronger medicines than the organs or tissues they invade—for example, bots in the horse stomach.

Constant vigilance and care is the price of health for the animals of the farm. But the farmer having valuable stock will certainly consider any time and care spent in protecting it from disease well worth the effort.

Stories of Famous Poem

"Beautiful Snow"

(By JOHN W. WATSON)

Oh! the snow, the beautiful snow,
Filling the sky and the earth below;
Over the housetops, over the street,
Over the heads of the people you meet,
Dancing, flirting, skimming along,
Beautiful snow, it can do nothing wrong;
Flying to kiss a fair lady's cheek,
Clinging to lips in a frolicksome freak;
Beautiful snow from the heavens above,
Pure as an angel and fickle as love.

Oh; the snow, the beautiful snow,
How the flakes gather and laugh as they go
Whirling about in their maddening fun,
It plays in its glee with every one—
Chasing, laughing, hurrying by,
It lights up the face and it sparkles the eye.
And even the dogs with a bark and a bound,
Snap at the crystals that eddy around—
The town is alive and its heart in a glow
To welcome the coming of the beautiful snow.

How the wild crowd goes swaying along,
Hailing each other with humor and song;
How the gay sledges like meteors flash by,
Bright for a moment, then lost to the eye!
Ringing, swinging, dashing they go
Over the crust of the beautiful snow—
Snow so pure when it falls from the sky,
To be trampled in mud by the crowd rushing by—
To be trampled and tracked by the thousands of feet,
Till it blends with the filth in the horrible street.

Once I was pure as the snow—but I fell,
Fell, like the snowflakes, from heaven to hell,
Fell, to be trampled as the filth of the street;
Fell, to be scoffed, to be spit on, and beat,
Pleading, cursing, dreading to die,
Selling my soul to whoever would buy;
Dealing in shame for a morsel of bread,
Hating the living and fearing the dead,
Merciful God! have I fallen so low?
And yet I was once like this beautiful snow!

Once I was fair as the beautiful snow,
With an eye like its crystal, a heart like its glow;
Once I was loved for my innocent grace—
Flattered and sought for the charm of my face;
Father, mother, sister and all
God, and myself, I have lost by my fall;
The veriest wretch that goes shivering by,
Will make a wide sweep lest I wander too nigh
For all that is on or above me I know
There's nothing that's pure but the beautiful snow.

How strange it should be that this beautiful snow
Should fall on a sinner with nowhere to go!
How strange it would be, when the night comes again,
If the snow and the ice struck my despondent brain!
Fainting, freezing, dying alone,
Too wicked for prayer, too weak for a moan
To be heard in the crush of a crazy town,
Gone mad in the joy of the snow coming down;
To be and to die in my terrible woe,
With a bed and a shroud of the beautiful snow.

Some years ago "The London Spectator," a most worthy and very high authority, printed the above verses and pronounced it the finest poem ever written in America. The contention as to its authorship is one of much interest, and may be said to be centered in two persons, James W. Watson and Dora Shaw, with preference for the former, chiefly in the fact that Watson has written a great many other excellent poems, and Dora Shaw has claimed the authorship to no other. In all the collections of popular poems, "The Beautiful Snow" is either printed anonymously or is credited to Watson.

The first appearance of the poem in a collection was under the title "Beautiful Snow and Other Poems," by J. W. Watson, published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, in 1869. "Beautiful Snow," finely illustrated, is the "The Dying Soldier," "Ring Down the first poem in the volume, which contains twenty-five others, including Drop—I Cannot Play," and "I Would That She Were Dead," all of which have been more or less popular, but none of them to the extent of "Beautiful Snow."

A writer in a daily newspaper under the signature of "Calnile," recently said: "From voluminous and cumulative data for many years the writer states his belief that Dora Shaw and not James W. Watson, was the real author of "Beautiful Snow." It would seem to be the plaintive wail of one, born of her own experience, and this commencing during the period of 1850 and 1860, becoming cumulative in her death, "in the early days of the war," at Cincinnati, Ohio, a pauper in an alms house.

"She was born and grew into womanhood in the Wabash Valley, Indiana, and married in 1850 F. S. Le Baum, of St. Louis, Missouri. She was divorced by him because of her entering upon a stage career under the management of Ben De Bar.

"Thomas Buchanan Read, Chester County's poet-painter-artist, learned of her death at the Cincinnati Alms House, interested himself and another Read, a publisher, in the matter, and one of both followed her remains to the cemetery. Among her effects in her own hand-writing, this poem of 'Beautiful Snow,' was found. Evidence that she had the education and talent to have written such a poem, born of her own sad experience, is ample to justify the belief that she was the author of 'Beautiful Snow.'"

The story in brief, as related of Dora Shaw, is as follows: The early part of the war one dark Saturday night, in the dead of Winter there died in the Commercial Hospital of Cincinnati a young woman over whose head only two and twenty summers had passed.

She had once been possessed of an enviable share of beauty, and had been as she herself says, "flattered and sought for the charms of her face." But alas, upon her fair brow was written that terrible word—"dissipation. Once the pride of respectable parents, her first wrong step was the small beginning of "the same old story over again," which has been the only life history of thousands.

Highly educated and with accomplished manners, she might have shown in the best society. But the evil hour that had proved her ruin was the door from childhood; and having spent a young life in disgrace and shame, the poor, friendless one cited the melancholy death of a broken-hearted outcast.

Among her personal effects was found the manuscript of "The Beautiful Snow," which was immediately carried to Enos B. Read, a gentleman of culture and literary tastes, who was, at that time editor of "The National Union."

In the columns of that paper, on the morning of the day following the girl's death, the poem appeared in print for the first time. When the paper containing the poem came out on Sunday morning, the body of the victim had not yet received burial. The attention of Thomas Buchanan Read, one of the American poets, was so taken with the stirring pathos of the lines, that he immediately followed the corpse to its last resting place.

To these facts, generally used in crediting the poem to Dora Shaw, the following has been added by a person signing himself "Research" in a recent issue of a daily paper: "At the time of the marriage of F. S. Le Baum and Dora Shaw, the former was a citizen and possessor of considerable property in St. Louis. He took his bride to the splendid city home, where she was given everything that wealth could bestow. Still she was not happy, for the marriage was rather one of her parents' choice than of her own heart.

"About this time De Bar's company was playing at a St. Louis theater, and Dora, unhappy in her home surroundings, sought an introduction to the manager, who saw in the possessions of the lady a chance to make a splendid hit. He gave her every encouragement, and offered her the opportunity of making her debut in the leading role of "Julia" in "The Hunchback." She at once commenced the study of the play, and was given ample coaching in the stage work, all of which was kept from her husband.

"One morning St. Louis was thrown into a fever by the announcement that Miss Dora Shaw would appear that night in Sheridan Knowles' great play. Le Baum and his friends were struck as if by a thunderbolt. He first enraged, then threatened his wife, and next the manager, but all to no purpose. The manager had all this passed into the street, which of course increased the sensation and strengthened the desire to attend. The consequence was that the theater was packed to the doors. The curtain rose, Dora appeared walked, stammered, blushed, and repeated her part mechanically. Still the audience was pleased, not by the acting, but by the novelty of the occasion. The next, the third, fourth and fifth nights were like the first. Finally the attendance fell off, the management refused to offer a permanent engagement, and suggested she best go to another city.

"In the meantime Le Baum sued for divorce, which was readily granted by the court. The next appearance of Dora was in New Orleans, where her former social position was unknown and where she was wholly thrown upon her merits as an actress for success. It is needless to say that she failed. The rest of the story is soon told. Abandoned by friends, home, husband, penniless, she fell and drifted on until her life-story is finished in the Cincinnati Hospital, from which, after her death was brought to light her poem 'Beautiful Snow.'

"There is little doubt but that the incidents related are true, but the fallen woman had no doubt obtained, from some source or another, the Watson verses, and as they had exactly fitted her position, she had copied them and probably read and re-read them over and over again when the thoughtful moments of her ruined life had prompted her to do so."

As to the Watson claim of incident for the inspiration of the poem, he is said to have found his subject in the columns of a New York newspaper, which told of how a poor fallen woman was found lying dead under the snow in one of the streets of that city, at the early age of two-and-twenty. She was the daughter of respectable parents, beautiful, attractive in manner, highly educated and accomplished. In an evil hour she fell through love of drink, into open sin. She abandoned her husband became an outcast from respectable society, and was soon an inmate of a penitentiary. Her husband's love however induced him to make another effort to save her, and, through his influence, she was released, but only again to desert her home and meet a tragic death.

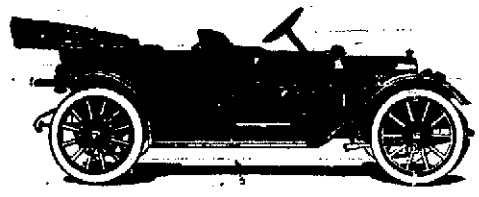
Chalmers 30



Touring 30 $1650

Some Automobile Sense

The Chalmers 30 was the first high grade car to sell on the American market for $1500.00 f. o. b. factory. When we say high grade, that is just what we mean. You can't have a high grade automobile and have a single feature which is cheapened for the sake of a selling price. The Chalmers 30 will wear as well as any car made in the world, for the simple reason that no car, regardless of price, has better bearings, better axles, better radiator, better frame, better transmission or is more carefully assembled. In other words, the car is a perfect car as a unit. Three years of work in your own neighborhood has proven this. Like other machines the Chalmers has certain talking points, but we don't ask you to buy the car on account of these. WE ASK YOU TO BUY THIS CAR BECAUSE YOU CAN'T WEAR IT OUT AND BECAUSE IT IS WORTH MORE MONEY AS AN OLD CAR IN PROPORTION TO ITS SELLING PRICE THAN ANY MACHINE ON THE AMERICAN MARKET. We ask you to buy this car because we can give the best service in regard to replacing old parts; the factory maintains in San Francisco a supply depot with $85,000.00 of extras on hand. We ask you to buy this car because of our treatment of customers. This feature you must investigate among those who have purchased CHALMERS. We claim that a past performance has a future promise beaten to death.

The BRUSH Automobile

Every man's car, because it is being used by men who make less than $1,000.00 a year, by men whose annual income is more than $2,500.00, and by companies whose annual profits are more than $1,000,000, America's merchants, physicians, contractors, corporations, salesmen, farmers, R. F. D. carriers, suburbanites, young folks—in fact, people in all walks are using the BRUSH for both business and pleasure.

THE LIBERTY BRUSH has a universal appeal for two reasons—First, it is lower in initial cost, and Second, the expense of its upkeep is less than any other motor car built.

This car is sold for $425.00 and may be seen at my salesroom.

JEALOUS HALF-BREED KILLS TWO WOMEN

Wounds Boy and in Turn Is Seriously Shot By White Man.

OROVILLE, Cal., Oct. 21—Angered by the refusal of his white sweetheart to return to him, Edward Williams, a half breed Indian, shot and killed young Inez Brooks and Mrs. Lillie A. Mullen, her friend, and seriously wounded Wm. Mullen, a boy. Williams was shot by D. J. Mullen, the head of the house, in a running duel and is now at the county jail with small chance of recovery, according to his physicians.

The half breed and the Brooks girl had been living at the mining town of Cascade. When the latter left, after a quarrel, Williams traced her to the Mullen home last evening and asked D. J. Mullen for permission to see the girl. As Mullen stepped in the door the Indian opened fire through a window, killing the girl and Mrs. Mullen and wounding the son in the leg. A fourth shot missed the father who brought the assassin down with wounds in both arms and the hip. The Indian was found in the brush early today by a sheriffs' posse, exhausted by loss of blood.

HOUSEKEEPER TOO TIDY; MURDERER MAY ESCAPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—A tidy housekeeper discovering a bundle of apparently useless papers lying on the table of one of her roomers threw them into the fire. The papers proved to be the stenographic report of the trial of George King, convicted of murder in Elbert County last July, and on the grounds that there is no record of the trial, the man sentenced to be hanged may be granted a new hearing.

Attorneys representing King filed an application for a new trial in the supreme court on the grounds that no record of the former trial now exists.

SUSTAINS VALUATION OF SPRING VALLEY

But San Francisco Loses in Fight Over Rates for City Water.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21—Judge E. E. Farrington of Nevada sitting in the United States District Court here today, sustained the city and county of San Francisco in its suit against the Spring Valley Water Company by a decision in which he judges the valuation of $25,771,934, placed by the city on the water company's plant, to be a just estimate. The contention of the water company that the rates established by the city during the years of 1903-'04-'05 were unconstitutional was sustained. The estimate of the value of the plant was offered by the city as a basis for determining just rates.

Judge Farrington held that while the valuation was fair, the rates established by the city were not high enough to provide a just earning for the capital invested.

PACIFIC DIVISION OF ESPEE EXTENDED

Jurisdiction Will Go Eastward to Ogden and Reno.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—The first news of an eastward and northward extension of the Pacific system territory of the Harriman lines was made public here today, in the first official circular issued by Wm. Sproule, new president of the Southern Pacific company. The circular announces that after November 1st, the jurisdiction of Wm. F. Herrin, E. E. Calvin and E. O. McCormick, vice presidents of the Southern Pacific railroads will extend over the lines south of Portland, Ore., west from Ogden, Utah, and west of the Rio Grande River bridge, just this side of El Paso, Texas. The present eastern and northern limits of the territory are Sparks, Nevada, and Ashland, Oregon. San Francisco will at the same time become the headquarters of all lines operated by the Southern Pacific company. It is understood that the lines in Oregon will be provided with an organization of their own.

T. A. Edwards was appointed as auditor of freight accounts. Edwards has been auditor of Morgan's Louisiana and Texas road, a subsidiary of the Southern Pacific, for a number of years, with headquarters at New Orleans.

DR. AIKEN LOOKING FOR RAT CATCHER

Surgeon Blue Informs Him That the Work Does Not Demand Expert Knowledge.

It appears that Surgeon Rupert Blue of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service does not contemplate a general rat-catching campaign in Fresno city, unless the discoveries that are made in plague-infected residents make such a warefare necessary. His present work is intended to be preliminary to ascertain whether such a general campaign is warranted.

In further correspondence with City Health Officer Aiken, Dr. Blue says in regard to the rat-trapping suggestion made by him several days ago that this work will demand no report, but the thing that is demanded is that the city be systematically covered for the detection of the presence of rats. The hospital service will furnish the shipping cans and satisfy the express charges if the city board of health will furnish the rat-catcher, bait and trap the rodents.

Dr. Aiken says the matter will be brought officially to the attention of the health board at its next stated meeting, possibly at a special session. Meanwhile the city health officer is on the lookout for a rat-catcher.

DETAILS ABOUT THESE MODELS

The Thor is the mechanically perfect motorcycle, the machine that has had every feature thoroughly and exhaustively tested before it is embodied as a part of the Thor. The new 1912 models have everything that the 1911 machines have and some added features besides further refinements of the old ones. The single cylinder models, belt drive have the Thor belt tightener. This tightens the belt without making any additional friction. In addition to this it gives all of the advantage of a free engine. It is very ingenious device, far superior to the idler and has stood every test.

The chain drive models are made with free engine that allows the motorcycle to be started in the same manner that automobiles are. This is a distinct advantage and one that is appreciated in hill climbing. Besides this it gives any speed and prevents the engine from choking down.

All Thor machines have the pneumatic front forks that have proven so easy riding, the mechanical oiler that is absolutely dependable, and a roller bearing engine that not only runs with least friction, but has the longest life. The frame is made of Vanadium steel and imported tubing. These are a few of the things that make the Thor the leading motorcycle in dependability, simplicity and strength. With the Thor you get a strong guarantee, but one that you will never use because the Thor is so well built that it is nearly perfect.

Why This Cut Was Made Quality Better Than Ever

This cut in the price of the Thor is made possible by the great improvement in the machinery used in the construction of these motorcycles. Less time is necessary and less labor. At the same time the quality has been maintained and even improved. Less cost in the manufacture of the Thor allows us to reduce the price because the price has been reduced to us. The Thor reputation for honest workmanship and careful selection of all materials will be maintained. Prices are reduced for the same reason that prices of many other kinds of machinery have been lowered. Better system in the factory, the latest and most improved machinery, and an increased output has made the individual cost of each machine much less. You are getting the benefit of this lowered manufacturing cost, at the same time you are getting a motorcycle that you either know personally to be the best made or that you know by reputation. The Thor was one of the first practical machines and it still stays the leader in tested efficiency.

Oil News from California Fields

OIL PRODUCTION OF STATE FOR 1911 WILL BE ABOUT 80,000,000 BBLS.

Gross Output Will Exceed This Figure; Net Output Slightly Under; 57,594,864 Barrels Produced to September 30.

The state of California will have a net production of 77,000,000 million barrels of oil in 1911 if the production for October, November and December is equal in proportion to the production of the past nine months, ending September 30. The production for the first six months of this year was 37,379,608 or a daily average production for the period of 206,616 barrels. The production for the year, at this rate, would have been 75,278,452 barrels.

The past three months, however, have shown a material increase in production over the first six months, the total for the period being 20,215,356 barrels, or a daily average production of 218,732 barrels. This increase caused an increase in the daily average production for the first nine months of approximately 4000 barrels, the daily average now being 210,970. If this last rate of production is kept up for the 92 days beginning October 1 and ending December 31, the total net production for the year will be 77,004,604 barrels.

The net production for the first nine months of 1911 was 57,594,864 barrels. The net production of the state for 1910 was 74,849,700 barrels.

The gross production of oil in this state for 1911 will exceed 80,000,000 barrels. It has been figured out that about 7 per cent of the gross production is consumed in the field. At this rate it is estimated that 5,796,000 barrels will be used in the field. This amount of oil, added to the net production, will make a total gross production of 82,800,000 barrels for 1911.

VALLEY PRODUCTION.

The output of the Midway field in the past three months has been the principal cause for the marked increase in daily production for this period. The daily average production of the Midway field showed an increase of 24 1-2 per cent for July, August and September, over the average daily production for the preceding six months. The daily average production of this field for the first six months of the year was 50,511 while the daily average for the past three months was 62,894.

If the Midway field keeps up its present rate of production, its production for the year will be approximately 20,000,000 barrels while that of the Coalinga will be 18,000,000 barrels.

The Santa Maria Lompoc field shows the greatest per cent of decrease in production of any field in the state. The daily average production for the first six months of the year was 18,168 barrels while the daily average production for the past three months was only 13,410 barrels, a decrease of 26 per cent.

The Fullerton field in the southern part of the state, shows the largest per cent of increase of any field in the state outside of the San Joaquin Valley. This field showed a gain of 151-2 per cent over the first six months of the year.

Every other field in the southern part of the state shows a decrease in the daily average production. In fact the fields of the San Joaquin Valley are the only fields of the state with one exception to show any gain in production.

GAIN IN MARICOPA.

While the Midway field has been the chief cause of the increase in the state production for the past quarter, the Maricopa field shows the largest per cent of gain in daily average production of any field in the state. The daily average for July, August and September in this field was 30 per cent greater than for the first six months of the year. The daily average production for the first six months was 10,418 barrels while the daily average production for the past three months was 13,575.

The only field in the valley to show a dropping off was the Kern River field, which shows a decrease of 1 per cent in the average daily production for the past three months. The McKittrick field shows an increase of 1 per cent over the production for the first half of the year while the Coalinga field shows an increase in daily production of 2 4-5 per cent.

As reports from the Lost Hills field have only been received for August and September, there is no opportunity for comparison there. The Salt Lake-Sherman field showed a falling off of 6 3-4 per cent.

The net production of oil in the San Joaquin Valley for the nine months, ending September 30, was 44,889,291 barrels. The net production of the fields in the southern part of the state was 8,135,877 barrels, while the net production of the fields in the coast region for the nine months was 4,569,596 barrels.

60,000,000 FOR VALLEY.

If the San Joaquin Valley fields keep up their present rate of production for the months of October, November and December, the total output from this section of the state for 1911 will be 60,016,759 barrels. The daily average production of the valley fields for the first nine months was 164,439 barrels. The daily average production for the first six months, ending June 30, was 158,854 barrels while the daily average for the last quarter, ending September 30, was 175,398 barrels.

The following table gives some idea of the way the fields of the state have been producing net oil for the first nine months of 1911:

Field	PRODUCTION. July 1- Sept. 30.	Jan. 1- Sept. 30.	DAILY AVERAGE. July 1- Sept. 30.	Jan. 1- Sept. 30.

ELK HILLS TERRITORY PRACTICALLY DESERTED

Lower Price of Oil and Deep Drilling Discourages Operators.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 21.—The lower price of oil, the attitude of the government toward oil claims on withdrawn land, and the demonstrated fact that the oil measures lie very deep in the Elk Hills, have combined to discourage drilling in that locality, and the district which a year and a half ago was the liveliest of all the newer districts of the West Side, is practically deserted, so far as actual drilling is concerned.

The Associated Oil Company got oil in its well on section 26, but the production, it is understood, was not sufficient to make such deep drilling as was necessary, very profitable. Other companies have shut down because of ill success, too great depth or a belief that they would not be allowed to patent their lands in case they made a discovery.

BRIEF OIL NOTES FROM BAKERSFIELD

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 21.—The San Francisco Midway on section 24, 31-22, has drilled through the oil sand and entered water sand at 2600 feet. The bottom of the hole will be plugged and the upper strata of oil perforated in.

The Baltimore Oil Company is down nearly 1200 feet on section 28, 32-24.

The K. T. & O. is drilling cut its line on the northeast quarter of section 28, 31-22. The Associated is drilling on section 30, 31-22, the United is drilling on section 24, 31-22, and the Calidon is drilling on section 19, 31-23.

The Daybreak Oil Company on section 30, 12-23, has shut off the water at 2020 feet with the 10-inch casing, and will soon substitute cable tools for the rotary and drill into the oil sand, which is expected under 3000 feet.

WORKING OUT DETAILS OF STORAGE COMPANY

Agency Committee Has Not Yet Named New Board of Directors.

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 21.—No further developments are announced in the plans for the organization of the Oil Producers' Storage Company. It is understood that the details are being worked out along the lines previously published, and the agreement of the several Agency companies to the necessary changes in the Agency contracts are being secured. No further objection to the storage company plan seems to have developed since the last directors' meeting, and it is accepted as a certainty that the scheme will be carried out with few variations from the lines discussed at the meeting.

No meeting has been held by the committee of five appointed to select the new directors of the agency under the plan for reducing the number to seventy-five. Resignations have been received from nearly all the present directors, and when the committee is called together it will accept the resignations of half the number, selecting for retention in office the men who have been most faithful in attendance upon the directors' meetings in the past or promise to be most regular in the future. Under the plan for a reduced directorate it is understood that all Agency companies will be entitled to have representatives at all directors' meetings, and that these representatives will be allowed to express opinions and present arguments as freely as the directors themselves. Official votes, however, will be by the directors only. The only reason for reducing the number of directors is to lessen the difficulty of securing a quorum.

JURY TO LISTEN TO DAMAGE SUIT

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 21.—A jury in Superior Judge Mahon's court will next Tuesday hear the damage suit for $25,420 brought by Mack W. Wirt, a miner, who is suing the Associated Oil Company for $25,420 for the loss of his right hand. Wirt alleges he was called on to aid in pulling some tubing from a well in the Kern river oil fields and his hand caught in a wire cable. He claims the company was negligent. The accident happened in September, 1910.

The Dawson Oil Company has assigned to the Title Guarantee and Trust Company from the American Sunset Oil Company, twenty acres of lease to fifty acres now leased by Julius Fried in section 6, 11-23.

NEW RULING MADE ON GYPSUM LAND

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 21.—A decision rendered in the case of the Jade Oil Company's lands on section 15, 32-23, by Register Stewart and Receiver Swain of the United States land office, recognizes the validity of mineral claims based on a discovery of gypsum of 35 per cent purity. Previous rulings of the land office were to the effect that gypsum must be about 80 per cent to be valuable, but testimony was introduced to show that the 35 per cent is good for land plaster, and is marketable for that purpose.

BOARD TO REPAIR D-STREET BRIDGE

MADERA, Oct. 21.—The city trustees held a special meeting Thursday night for the purpose of deciding upon some action to be taken in the matter of the D street bridge. That structure has been condemned for some time and recently the supervisors passed a resolution that they would accept a street over the bridge and repair the bridge, but yesterday rescinded their action, as they have not the necessary funds at present. Two of the supervisors were present at last night's meeting and they stated that the board would no doubt plan to repair the bridge in November. The trustees then decided to repair the bridge so that it would be available for travel for the present.

DUNCARDS TO BUILD.

The Church of the Brethren, commonly known as the Duncards, who have been conducting a mission at 2239 Harvey avenue, have secured three lots at the corner of Harvey and Thesta avenues, and will build in the near future.

HEATS GASOLINE; SINGES EYEBROWS

Mrs. A. W. Gearhart of 1539 M Street Slightly Injured Following Explosion.

While attempting to heat some gasoline and water in order to wash some clothing, Mrs. A. W. Gearhart of 1539 M street was slightly burned yesterday afternoon, when the mixture exploded. Her face and arms were burned and her hair and eyebrows were singed. An alarm of fire was turned in from box 63 and the fire department immediately responded. The small blaze was soon extinguished. The loss is very small.

JAPANESE WILL CARRY OUT LAST WISH OF FATHER

Constantly laboring for twelve years in order to accumulate enough money to defray the expenses of shipping his father's body to Japan, H. Okuno, a Japanese, yesterday, gave up his position on a vineyard north of the city, and will leave today for San Francisco, where he will board a steamer Wednesday bound for Japan. T. Okuno, father of the faithful son, passed away near Fresno over twelve years ago. On his death, the Japanese expressed a wish that his remains could some day be buried in the cemetery in Japan.

This fact was impressed on the mind of the then little Japanese boy and since that time he has hoarded his savings together until recently he had the necessary capital with which to defray the expenses of his passage to Japan and that of his father's body. The body was disinterred yesterday and was prepared for shipment by Stephens & Bean.

The remains of Jue Kar Nook, a Chinaman, who died in Fresno recently, were also prepared for shipment by the same undertaking firm and will be shipped to Hong Kong, China tomorrow. The deceased was a book-keeper in the employ of the Jue Due Man Company of Fresno.

RUSSIAN PERFECTS MAKING OF PEARLS

Cysters Stimulated to Produce Unattached Gems By Deposit.

Japanese Artificial Pearls Are Irregular in Form.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 20.—A perfected method of obtaining pearls has been discovered by a Russian scientist, Czesiav Khmellevsky, who is in charge of the Poneyvezh biological station of the Imperial Pisciultural Society. Fine specimens of unattached pearls, three to five millimeters in diameter, have been obtained by this method in from three to five years. No detail of the discovery has been communicated by its author to any one, but it is supposed to be based on the Japanese system of artificial irritation of the pearl mollusk by the introduction of a foreign substance.

The oyster gradually covers the nacreous or glass beads which are introduced through a perforation in the shell, with layers of pearl matter. The Japanese subject 300,000 oysters to this process yearly on the pearl banks in the Gulf of Aga. The principal fault with their product is that it is generally found attached to the valve of the shell closely ingrown or attached to the matrix by a thin stem. Such semi-globular pearls have only a limited use, for rings and pins, but not for earrings or necklaces.

Khmelevsky has solved the problem of producing perfect, unattached pearls. A group of persons interested in the exploitation of this discovery has recently commissioned a young naturalist to go to Japan and Germany to investigate the methods in use. The government has also taken an interest in the matter, through its pisciculteral establishment at Nikolsk. A serious supposition exists that brook trout harbors pearl-oyster spawn on its scales and gills. It is intended to take advantage of this fact in connection with the culture of the fresh water pearl-oyster in the north of Russia.

In the time of Peter the Great this was an important branch of state revenues, and thousands of persons gained their livelihood at the Russian fresh water pearl banks in the North and northwest.

CITY OF PARIS IMPOSES TAX ON ELECTRIC SIGNS

PARIS, Oct. 20.—The municipal government has found a fresh source of revenue in the electric light signs. A decree has been issued inflicting exemplary taxation on the thirty-three classifications of electric signs. The principle of difference in assessment is not the number of lights altogether, but the amount of discomfort they cause the eye. The winking terrors and complicated dazzlers bruising and inflaming the optic nerve must pay in proportion to the annoyance they may cause the public while the soft and beautiful lights of some varieties of out-of-door illumination are lightly assessed.

BELGIAN QUEEN WORKS FOR REVIVAL OF LACEMAKING

Industry Does Not Pay Enough to Be Attractive.

Co-operative Society Formed to Better Trade Conditions.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Queen Elizabeth of Belgium has undertaken to revive or preserve the failing Brussels lace industry. Although Brussels lace is admired and worn quite as much probably as it ever was, the industry is a fading one. The girls of Belgium prefer to do something else. The small profits, the effect on the eyesight and the long apprenticeship required to do good work drive them into other callings. The picturesque old-fashioned lace worker type has almost disappeared from Belgium, so that the making of genuine Brussels lace is becoming a lost industry.

The queen has formed a co-operative society to study how to make the lot of workers in lace more attractive, to find higher-priced markets, especially in the United States, and to encourage lace-making courses in the industrial schools. Queen Elizabeth has capitalized her company for $27,000, which has been subscribed by some of the wealthiest men of Belgium, including Count de Merode, Ernest Solvay, "the Soda King," the minister of state, Beernaert, Baron Janssen and Baron Empain. The board contains several professors of the University of Brussels and the queen's secretary, M. Ingenbleek.

DANCING MASTERS MEET TO AGREE ON STEPS

Simplicity to Be the Keynote of Future Changes.

Rythmic Stroll Will Be the Thing in Ballrooms Hereafter.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—While the diplomats of Europe are trying to maintain the peace of the world undaunted by the outbreak of hostilities between Turkey and Italy, the dancing-masters in conclave here, have been deciding what is to be danced this season. Important decisions were arrived at.

The professors were unanimously of the opinion that the dance of the ball room is tending more and more towards simplicity, and is now more a rythmic stroll than a dance. Formerly, they say, the dancers of the drawing room vied with those of the theater in "gavottes" and "sarabandes," afterwards came the more difficult kind of contredanse, but still a step in the direction of simplicity. Then the waltz, and, these latter years, the Boston and Double Boston. At the present time the Argentine dances appear to be the most in favor, both with dancers and teachers. As M. Leport, president of the Academy of Dancing says, these dances are the most appropriate for the ball room.

The three dances which are expected to be the most popular this winter are: the Modern Mazurka, a Louis XV. Waltz-Minuet and the Argentine Five-Step.

COUNTERFEITERS FLOOD PARIS WITH BAD COIN

Profits Supposed to Be Used in Aid of Anarchist Cause.

PARIS, Oct. 20—A new terror has been added to the many in store for the unwary American tourist who patronizes the establishments of Montmartre. The police have just discovered that a band of anarchist coiners has put in circulation over 30,000 francs worth of bad five-franc pieces during the past month. The leader of the syndicate is an anarchist, Maria Llopis, who was condemned to death for her complicity in the revolt in Barcelona which preceded the execution of Ferrer. The proceeds are probably for the anarchist cause.

The coins are of unusually subtle manufacture, composed of practically the same alloy as the genuine ones, and possessing such slight defects that only an expert could have discovered them; hence the facility with which they are put into circulation. They were made in Barcelona, two of the company going there every Friday, returning to Paris on Tuesday with a fresh supply, which they delivered to the other four, who hastened to change them by making small purchases. These four are now safely under lock and key, but the two who brought the goods from Spain, either received warning or stopped behind to participate in the recent outbreak, they holding anarchistic opinions like their chief.

CHINESE CONTINUE TO DESTROY MARMOTS

Violation of Agreement Constitutes Plague Menace to Asia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 20—Harbin advices declare that the Chinese government is not fulfilling faithfully its obligations under the Mukden International Plague Conference rules. Though marmot-hunting in Mongolia was prohibited, and its suppression entrusted to the Chinese, no steps to that effect have been taken by the authorities. One Russian doctor who made a reconnaissance in a Mongolian district counted 150 jerboa-hunters recently. The Russian railroad officials have had tens of thousands of marmot skins offered to them, as of last year's catch. The Chinese continue to consume marmot meat and fat unreservedly, constituting a plague menace for Manchuria and beyond.

STRANGE DISEASE DECIMATES PEOPLE OF CHINESE CITY

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 20.—A Mukden dispatch transmits a report in the Japanese official newspaper of that city regarding the appearance of a mysterious disease in the Chinese city of Chung-Chun. Its symptoms are giddiness, thrust-ache, followed by violent diarrhea. Death ensued in 10 out of 52 cases recorded during the week. Physicians have been summoned from the outside to diagnose the new disease. Japanese doctors have declared it to be a variety of Maltese fever.

PEASANTS WILL FIGHT TO PRESERVE THEIR COMMUNES

Premier Kokovtsoff Having Difficulty With Agrarian Problem.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—Premier Kokovtsoff's difficulties with the enforcement of Stolypin's policies has begun. He has been trying to deal with a deputation representing thirty-one thousand households in Bakhmut district (Yekaterinoslav Province), who refused to break up their communes and pass on to individual ownership of land.

For two years these determined communists have been resisting the counsels of the local governor to divide their land, and an area of 302,400 acres has been lying fallow. Wormwood grows on it in place of crops. The deputation declares that if the government wanted war it could have it; seventy thousand able bodied men could be mustered in support of the communes. The peasants have sold one-third of their live stock and were further prepared to suffer famine and fight to the end. This Bakhmut incident is the most striking one in the carrying out of the agrarian reform, of which millions of peasants have taken advantage, though the inert peasant mass resents it.

BIG PENSION FOR STOLYPIN'S WIDOW

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—Emperor Nicholas has granted a pension of 26,600 roubles to the widow of Premier Stolypin. This sum equals his salary as minister of the interior. As is known, Stolypin declined any supplementary salary as president of the Council of Ministers and his tenure of that post necessitated a considerable expenditure of private income.

ASCRIBE ACCIDENTS IN FRENCH NAVY TO SABOTAGE

Systematic Vandalism Popular Means of Complaint.

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Ten strange accidents have occurred in the French navy within a year, fires on shipboard, shells bursting prematurely, guns exploding while at practice, culminating in the sinking of the battleship La Liberte while at anchor. The fire on La Liberte broke out near the apparatus for flooding the forward magazine which afterward exploded so near that the flooding machinery could not be used. This circumstance has seemed odd to inquirers, and even more singular was the breaking out of fires the same morning on the Patrie and on the Suffren, two other battleships. The official inquiry will endeavor to establish the facts, but in the meantime sinister inferences are in circulation. Either there is a certain want of precaution, which is a theory rejected by admirals of the navy, or the accidents have been caused with malign purpose.

Upon the latter supposition the destructive accidents might have been incited by the communistic revolutionary propaganda carried on in the navy by civilian agitators or they may have been detached acts of embittered individuals in private rebellion against society and all authority. Scarcely a day throughout the year passes in France without acts of simple destructiveness affecting the public, such as the cutting of telegraph and telephone wires, the deranging of railway switches or the placing of obstacles on tracks. The French have a word of their own for these acts. It is "sabotage." The word is scarcely translatable, although akin to vandalism. In collective movements the first step is to complain to the government or the corporation,—the second is to "demonstrate" by procession or meeting and the next is to destroy something—the vineyards in the champagne provinces, the provision shops in Northern France or the railway stations, as has happened on the Western railway, because the suburban trains were usually behind their schedule.

Now those who know the French navy and believe thoroughly in the excellent spirit and discipline that generally pervades the service, accept the idea of coincidence in the number of violent happenings and attribute them where not purely accidental to "sabotage."

WE WILL GIVE YOU GOOD TEETH FOR EVERY MEAL

You need good teeth not alone to enjoy your food, but to have your food do you the good that nature intends. Given good food for every meal and good teeth to chew it with and you will enjoy good health. You furnish the food and we guarantee to furnish you good teeth. That is our business, correcting tooth troubles and correcting them in a manner that restores tooth efficiency. We have spent fifteen years practicing dentistry, and during this period we have been absorbing all possible knowledge concerning our profession, not alone from our own cases, but we have drawn upon the knowledge and discoveries of the foremost members of the dental profession in this country. The result of our professional efforts and labors is a thorough understanding of every dental need and an ability to execute work in the most satisfactory manner possible.

WHAT WE CAN DO FOR YOU.

It matters not what your tooth troubles are, it is posible for us to restore your tooth efficiency. If there is a cavity we will fill same with the necessary care required to do first class work, not least of which is the preparation of the cavity for filling. This must be done right if the filling is to last. In crowning equal care must be exercised in preparing the root for the crown. Our porcelain crowns are among the most successful of our dental achievements and are most satisfying to our patients, since they restore the tooth in a manner that is quite like the natural tooth and quite as durable as many natural teeth. In case you need a complete set of artificial teeth you will be supplied with the best counterpart of the natural teeth in size, color and contour that human skill can fashion. If you have two or more natural teeth in the jaw, we can restore the missing teeth by

OUR ALVEOLAR METHOD.

This is the nearest approach to a duplicate of the natural teeth known to dentistry. No plate or bridge is used, nor is any surgery or gum-cutting resorted to. Instead the teeth are anchored to the natural teeth and the result is teeth that look so natural that close observation will defy detection in a majority of cases. Alveolar teeth are comfortable and sanitary, due especially to the absence of a plate. You can cleanse them just as you do natural teeth. You cannot know just how desirable and preferable Alveolar teeth are unless you have them. Our patients, to whom we can refer you, will tell you of their advantages, and we have executed much of this work since we first introduced same in Fresno about a year ago.

CONSULT US FREE.

We are always glad to give you, free of charge, as much of our time as may be necessary to make a careful examination of your teeth. You incur no obligation by accepting this invitation and we do not expect nor ask for consideration in the execution of any needed work unless you are satisfied in advance with our charges as well as with our ability to do the work right. It is up to us to satisfy you on these points and we are confident of our ability to do so.

THINK IT OVER!

Over seventy legal reserve Fire Insurance Companies doing business in California in 1910, only three of them were California Companies. Is there room for another home company? Think It Over.

In the last ten years statistics prove that the fire insurance business in California has practically trebled.

In no sense has the introduction into this line of business kept place with its growth. Why not? Think It Over.

Statistics prove that during the year of 1910 that after paying all losses, commissions and expenses the Companies operating in California cleaned up a net profit of over five millions of dollars or enough to show an earning of over ten per cent on fifty millions of capital. Does California offer good field in which another home company may successfully and profitably operate? Think It Over.

The San Joaquin Valley contributed in premiums two millions of dollars to the fire companies in 1910. The same ratio of profit applying that govern results in the state shows that this valley alone contributed to the net profits made the enormous sum of $700,000.00.

Don't you think it would be to our adavntage to keep this money at home? THINK IT OVER.

Analize the above figures and learn that during the year of 1910 the San Joaquin Valley contributed to the profits of the Fire Insurance Companies for each individual minute approximately $1.33 for each individual hour of 1910 $80.00 and for each day of that year $1920 and for each week $13,440 and for each month in the neighborhood of $58,000. When it is within our power to stop a drain of this volume; should we do it? Think It Over.

If these figures are facts can you figure where any man in the San Joaquin Valley can consistently withhold his support from the Pacific National Fire Insurance Company now being financed in the City of Fresno? Think It Over.

Insurance Commissioner Hotchkiss of the State of New York within the last few months made the statement publicly that the "need for new fire insurance companies is more serious than the need for bread." When an authority of this high character makes such an assertion, isn't it worth our consideration? THINK IT OVER.

The Pacific National Fire Insurance Company invites your co-operation and is justified in predicting for you handsome returns for your support. A home company, financed with home money, officered and directed by home men, selected by you. Isn't it a golden opportunity and doesn't it deserve your support? THINK IT OVER.

Give it an expression of your support and consideration by cutting out and mailing in the coupon to be found herewith.

Have You Bought a Lot in the Richmond-Pullman Section Yet?

Richmond-Pullman lots the great investment today. Come and see how the Pullman section is growing.

If you have not you are delaying something that is making more money for hundreds of investors than anything else offered in realty anywhere about San Francisco Bay.

BURG BROS., Inc., are SELLING THE BEST and CHEAPEST LOTS IN THE RICHMOND AND PULLMAN DISTRICT.

Bankers, lawyers, realty men, workingmen and women, doctors, merchants are all buying the Richmond-Pullman lots we offer.

We have the location where the greatest values are. We have the land that has the combined advantages of every feature of development Richmond possesses.

The city of Richmond is sweeping southeastward. The cities of Oakland and Berkeley are sweeping northeastward. Our tracts are located exactly where the two great tides of extending population will center.

We are right next to the great Pullman works, which are to be extended until they become one of the greatest industrial plants in the world. All the car building and repairs of the West will center here.

Below is a water front that offers the finest sites for all sorts of factories with wharfage.

The great connecting streets and avenues between Richmond and the other East Bay cities enter our tract and pour their increasing tide of development here. We will be exactly in the business center of the Greater Richmond that is inevitable.

The $200,000,000 Smith Merger has announced that it will build the Key Route into Richmond. There is much guessing as to its route. There can be no guessing as far as our Richmond-Pullman townsite is concerned. The Key Route has to pass through our tract, because it must follow one of the great connecting arteries. It will have two or more of its principal stations on our tract, for here at the Pullman Works is the center of population of all this section that is building up faster than any other section about the Bay.

Already the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe have stations contiguous to our tract, with fifty passenger trains a day.

The East Shore and Suburban, the Richmond-Oakland line now being double tracked, runs directly in front of our tract.

The land we offer is high and level, rising back to the hills, and one of the most perfect home and business sites in all Richmond. It is being covered with homes and two business streets have developed that are extending rapidly.

EVERY INVESTOR IN THE LOTS WE OFFER HAS MADE FROM 100 TO 700 PER CENT PROFIT IN FROM THREE TO SIX MONTHS. THOSE WHO HAVE BUILT ON THEIR LOTS ARE RECEIVING ENOUGH INCOME TO PAY OFF ON THEIR PROPERTY. THOSE WHO HAVE ERECTED BUSINESS STRUCTURES ARE PUTTING MONEY IN THE BANK.

Residence lots are going higher in Berkeley and Oakland all the time. They are beyond the reach of the investor who wants to begin at the bottom and get the big profit. The population of Oakland and Berkeley is being forced out to our land. When the Key Route has stations here with rapid service there will be a great influx of home-seekers from those cities. This will send prices still higher.

Think all this over and then wonder why you have not already bought from us when you can still have lots for from $350 up; 10 per cent down, balance payable in 5 years at $5 or more a month, with no interest or taxes for 2 years.

By the time you have finished paying for one of the lots we sell you it will be worth five times what it is today.

Macadamized streets, cement sidewalks, curbs, gutters, water mains and other improvements have all been furnished at our expense.

You need not look anywhere else. There is no better chance for wealth in realty than we are offering you.

The terms we give puts splendid lots, growing fast in value, in the reach of everyone. Come and see what we offer.

SUGAR EXPECTED TO TAKE ANOTHER DROP

Supply Becoming Plentiful as Demand Decreases; All Prices Firm.

The local market showed no changes yesterday, prices remaining firm on fruits and vegetables particularly. It was predicted by several dealers that sugar would take another drop before this time next week. The supply is becoming more plentiful and the demand is not so great now that the canning season is about over. For this reason the price should fall to about $7 per 100-pound sack by the end of the week.

SANTA FE

TO MAKE MONEY— BUY BEFORE THE RISE

THE sure way to make money is to buy at a low price and sell at a high one. This principle applies to Calwa lots. The time to buy is when they are cheap. That is right now. The time to sell is when the price advances. That is in the not very far distant future. It is a matter of but a few months at most till there will be many families in Calwa. That means the rising of values.

The work of building a million-dollar railroad plant is rapidly nearing the point where the laying of tracks and the erection of buildings will commence. When this work is done Calwa will be the division point instead of having it at Fresno. Many men will be employed and many more will have to make their homes in Calwa.

"The New Home of the Santa Fe"

Calwa is the new home of the Santa Fe. A townsite has been laid out and lots are being sold on easy terms. There will be a great demand for these lots in a short time. Calwa will be a manufacturing town as well as a railroad town.

Send to us for more definite information, or call and find out more about Calwa.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Bear operators took an aggressive position on the market today bringing substantial reductions in prices of speculative stocks. The three leaders, Reading, Union Pacific and United States Steel—lost a point each, as did Lehigh Valley, Southern Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Rock Island, and a number of other issues.

There was considerable profit taking in the copper stocks, following yesterday's rise and Amalgamated and American Smelting lost ground.

The bears made the most of President Taft's reiteration yesterday of his views in regard to the enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The showing of the banks for the week was better than had been expected.

Trading in bonds was light. Total sales, par value, $1,065,000.

PHOTOGRAPHS IN COLORS.

Prints Now Made on Paper by a Much Cheaper Process.

Color photography has made rapid strides of late years, and at no distant date bids fair to become available for all amateur photographers, instead of remaining as now the hobby of the favored few.

The so-called three-color process has been successfully practiced for many years. But the labor entailed in it: three negatives, printing three positives, coloring these in their correct tints, and accurately adjusting them in superposition too often spells failure, besides taxing the patience to an extent which would have led Job to make colored remarks.

Four years ago the new autochrome process invented by a French firm attracted great attention. Splendid results are obtained, and the method is comparatively simple. The great bulk of amateur photographers, however, have held aloof from this process, the reason being not so much the increased cost of the plates, compared with those ordinarily in use, as the fact that pictures are obtainable only on glass. Prints on paper cannot be made by this means, and this, after all, must be the ultimate goal of any process of color photography if it is to appeal to the majority of amateurs.

Many endeavors have been made to rectify this defect and to perfect a process of printing on paper in natural colors from autochrome and similar plates.

Dr. J. H. Smith, who had been working on these lines long before the advent of the autochrome plate, redoubled his efforts after its appearance, and has now succeeded in inventing a means of printing colored photographs on paper. The new process is to be placed on the market at an early date by a French company in Paris, which has been formed for this purpose.—New York Herald.

REMINISCENCES OF UNCLE BILLY HUTCHISON

SOME EARLY FRESNO TRAGEDIES AND COMEDIES

In September, 1888, an old man 75 years of age by the name of Isaak Harris, was shot and killed by his son-in-law, Charles Slocum. The shooting occurred near the old store of Smith Norris on the north fork of the San Joaquin.

There was no eye witness to the shooting except Slocum, whose testimony was to the effect that the trouble was all over a cowbell. It seemed that the old man had given his daughter a cow and Slocum had gone after her and had started to drive her off with the bell on and when he had gone a couple of miles, Mr. Harris overtook him and was armed with a rifle, was very angry and aggressive and abusive and when found his gun was found loaded and cocked.

On Wednesday, September 26, 1888, some person or persons—good people or bad, as the matter was looked at from different standpoints—distributed during the night a lot of poisoned meat over the town of Fresno with the result that the town was fairly littered next day with dead dogs and cats.

In 1882 the citizens of Fresno City held meetings and very seriously considered the feasibility of establishing a system of cisterns to be used for fire protection. Sounds rather funny now, doesn't it?

In October, 1885, twenty-five years ago, P. H. Fanning sold to J. H. Brady, O. J. Woodward and Wm. Furrenville the land upon which now stands the First National Bank.

CAPTAIN APPLETON.

Upon Big Dry Creek there lived in the early days of Fresno county a rather remarkable old man—Captain J. N. Appleton by name. He was quite an old man when I first knew him. All told timers will remember Cap Appleton. He was correspondent for the Expositor for a long time, and would frequently break into poetry and as a rhymster wa sconsidered in those days no slouch. He was not an educated man, having followed the sea in his younger days, and I think was an Englishman by birth.

He was a veteran of the Texas and also of the Mexican war. He was a resident of Texas when that country revolted against Mexican rule and on account of having been a sailor was made a lieutenant in the navy. Not alone, however, did he enlist and espouse the cause of the young republic with personal service, but being possessed of some $10,000 in money threw that in to help along the cause. And though Texas gained her independence and Uncle Sam afterwards took her in out of the weather, Old Cap never saw any more of his ten thousand. The brave pioneers who staked their lives and fortunes for liberty, got lots of glory but nothing more substantial. When the war between Mexico and the United States was declared Cap volunteered and then received his title of captain.

On or about the first of September, 1883, two miners were drowned at Cauday's bar on the San Joaquin river—John C. Thoms and John Shimmins were their names. The tragedy as it was reported at the time occurred this way. Mr. Thoms and a Chinaman were in a rock boat floating in deep eddy water and just opposite where the rock was to be used in what was called the race from the Maxwell mine, when the boat suddenly was capsized. Both Thoms and the Chinaman were wearing heavy gum boots and they immediately filled with water and weighted the men down so that they sank. Mr. Thoms was unable to swim, and Shimmins, who was a good swimmer, plunged in to save him, when Thoms, in the last throes of drowning, seized him with a death grip and they both went down to a watery grave before any assistance could be offered.

And here is what seems the irony of fate. The Chinaman, who was no doubt an expert in the water, pulled off the rubber boots while under the water and when he came to the surface swam out as if nothing had happened.

EARLY FRUIT SHOW.

One of the nicest little fruit exhibitions and which was also among the first, was held here at the music store of Strine & Co., in the latter part of August and fore part of September, 1883. The exhibit was arranged under the superintendence of W. M. Williams, assisted by K. G. Lake, and for a county in its infancy as Fresno was at the time in the fruit business, there was a remarkable showing. Geo. E. Freeman, J. W. Hinds and Joseph Burns of Upper Kings river were chosen as a committee to award premiums. People brought fruit from all over the county and altogether the fair, although not so extensive, was a very creditable affair.

In the summer of 1883 a Bible Society was formed in Fresno which was called the Fresno, Merced and Tulare Bible Society. It was established by the then Bible agent of the state and the sum of $100 was raised to secure a supply of books that were to be sold at cost or given away as the need might arise. Application was then made to the parent society of New York for recognition as one of his auxiliaries.

In due time word was received that the recognition was accorded and that a supplementary grant of $150 had been made to help the good work along. The books were distributed from the then new store of H. C. Warner.

SUFFERING ON PLAINS

People who cross the plains today in automobiles from White's bridge to the Coast range have little idea of the suffering and tragedies that have occurred on that road to pioneers. In early days people were frequently found dead from heat and thirst. Others were barely saved by being found in time. Two instances of death narrowly escaped on that road come to my personal knowledge. A young man, J. R. Shaffer, my brother-in-law, started to walk from Panoche. He had a little water which soon gave out, when the heat and thirst rendered him crazy. But in some miraculous way he kept the road until he sighted the Slough, when he made straight for it, and coming to a Mexican camp a short distance from the Slough, he saw a wash basin with some water in it, and some women who were in the camp and saw his condition were unable to get the pan of dirty water away from him, and as soon as he had drank he laid down right there and went to sleep. It was weeks before he fully recovered from that experience.

The other case was Owen Holmes, a son of ex-Judge S. A. Holmes. He was employed to teach a school at New Idria and left Borden one morning on horseback and struck the plains in the heat of the day without preparing himself with water, and the result was that before he reached the foothills his horse gave out and he started to walk, when he was overcome by heat and thirst and got lost, and when accidently found was going around in a circle—he did not know where.

SAVING HIS BOY.

Some years ago John H. Byrd, who has quite a lot of land in Kings river bottom and always stock on it, and is every few days driving or riding through it, was driving one day and had one of his little boys in the buggy with him. Coming to a slough that he thought he knew all about that had a shaky bridge over it, for some cause or other endeavored to cross above the bridge, but since he had crossed it before a hole had washed out there, and when he drove in the horse went straight down, taking the buggy along.

The jump-off was so abrupt and the hole so deep that John was pitched into the water and the horse swam out with the buggy.

Mr. Byrd, who was an expert swimmer, started to swim out when he thought of his boy and saw him going down towards the bridge where the water was almost up to the bridge bottom and he knew that if the boy got to the bridge where there was quite a suction, he was a goner; but being, as I said, a fine swimmer, by an almost superhuman effort he caught the boy just as he got to the edge of the bridge. In relating the circumstance later, John said that he shook like a man with ague all of that day. He is not a man whose nerves are easily shaken, but a thing like that would shake the most of us.

ONE BEAR STORY.

My old friend Levi Goodell has just returned from a hunting trip to Siskiyou county, where they were on the Salmon river five weeks, hunting and fishing, and report fine sport, and as proof of it they brought back the skins of three bears and two deer. The skins can be seen at Normart's on Fresno street. And Levi, whom I have long known as a truthful man, has assured me privately that they did not buy those skins but did actually kill the beasts to which they originally belonged. The bear skins are of two small bears and one large one. There were three men in the party—Levi and his son and a young man by name of Nichols, who killed the large bear. I know that they got the deer for I got a piece of the meat.

Their account of the trip brought back old times to me, when I used to go hunting and fishing myself—not exactly for bear, I always felt a great respect for a bear, thought he understood his own business and was willing to let him attend to it if he let me alone.

And that reminds me of a story a young friend of mine told me away back in the fifties in Eldorado county. He said he was in the mountains prospecting and every day when they left camp and returned at night they found that a bear had been there and had torn things up in great shape. It got monotonous after a while, and one morning he told his partners to go ahead with their prospecting, that he was going to look for that bear. Then he said he had a big navy six shooter which he strapped on, and had an old style Henry rifle that would shoot clear across the county and never hit any thing unless you aimed it in another direction, and sallied out to find Mister Bruin.

In due time he found him and when he did they were in such close quarters that he got rattled and instead of shooting he dropped the gun and took to a tree. The bear, after taking a sniff of the gun, very leisurely began to climb the tree after him. He said he cautioned the bear to stop, but he paid no attention and finally reached the limb that he was on, and when he started out on that, he says, "Go back, you d—d fool; this limb will break and we'll both be killed."

But the bear kept coming, so he said he got his navy ready and when the bear got within three or four feet of him he fired and accidently shot him in the eye, and the bear fell to the ground, and he was so scared that he came near going too, and did drop the pistol, and sat in that tree for four hours until he was found by his partners and assured that old Bruin was dead.

He said that there was a curious thing about that bear. When he was alive he was as big as a cow and after he was dead he was not bigger than a sucking calf.

In the very early days there was a German settler below Visalia near what was known as the Swamp. A few years after he was telling some friends some of his experiences when they were having a social glass of beer, and he did it in this wise:

Said he: "When I come by Vizalia I settled me down by de Schwamp un, und I don't mooch English spreken, und dhere vas lots of dooks and geese dhere, und one day I says to mine vife, I dink petter I go to Vizalia und pay a gun und ve git some of dem dook and geese und she says, I dink petter you do. Vell, I goes me to Vizalia und I go py Jacob, who keep a store dhere, und he say he have yust der best gun what you can py in de town for forty tollar. Und so I py me dot gun and some powder and shot und go home, und in der morning I say to mine vife, you make der breakfast und I go und get some of dem dooks und geese. Und I go me down to de Schwamp, und I walk on my sthomach through de doolys und de vater, und de dooks und geese dey been de dousant, und de dousant und de tam gun he makes Schmap, und makes Schmap, und ven he goes loose he makes nothing owed—yust kiks me over in de vater."

He returned the gun and demanded his forty dollars.

FASHION AND DIVORCE

Women Must Start Reform in Dress to Save the Home

Denouncing the extravagances and unhealthy fashions in women's attire as offensive in the sight of heaven, the Rev. Myra C. Hoyt, pastor of the Wales Avenue Free Baptist Church of Brockton, implores womankind everywhere to ignore fashion, which, she declares, wrecks more homes than all other things combined.

"Fashion is the greatest wrecker of the home," she said. "It is a foe to Christianity. Women who labor in the shops here neglect their homes, their family and church for dress. I have not had occasion to hear many of their stories. They say their husbands left. I asked why. The answer, because he can't support them. 'Can't he give you the necessities and comforts of life?' I ask. Invariably they answer: 'Yes, but he can't give me what other women have.' He can't dress me.'

"A man must earn not less than $50 a week to satisfy the desires of his wife in the matter of dress. I am speaking of the common people. I do not mean those who are millionaires and go to the extremes.

"Christian people would do well to start a reform in dress. I wish we could convince women how foolish it is to wear tight corsets, false hair, and high heels, and persuade them to dress instead for the glory of their Maker."—Boston Dispatch to New York Tribune.

THE CHAMBERMAID'S "ROLL."

When the occupant of a room in a hotel telephones downstairs for the manager at midnight, it is a sure sign in the office that the kick that is coming is going to be life-sized. So when the room clerk at the Gotham, who happened to be the highest in authority at that hour, started upstairs to receive what was coming he was prepared for the worst.

Instead the man who had telephoned greeted him with a smile.

"Say," he remarked, "I expected to get my bill today, but I hardly expected to find a lot of money on my floor. Look at it."

The floor was covered with silver and small bills. The clerk counted the money, and found there was $97 of it. The only clew he had as to the owner was a little bag. Next morning bright and early one of the chambermaids reported she had lost her roll, which she had been in the habit of carrying in a little bag in her stocking, and as she named the sum correctly she received the money that had been found the night before.—From the New York Sun.

I ASK.

My happy lane is gold with flowers;
All day the courting breezes blow
On love's wings, and the wild bees beat
The drums of summer; gay the hours
Fly past. * * * A woman in the heat,
Poor soul, lies dying down below!

I lay between the rose-sea bed
Receiving Heaven. * * * And, in view,
There in the road, a calf was dead,
Whose brightless velvet eye looked up
At that same burning summer blue!

* * * * * * *

Behind the fairest masks of life,
It seems, lies this pale constant death
What, can philosophers, to-day
Shall we keep wistful breath to wife?
We had to image deep away.
And, working, draw forgetful breath?

Lots Selling Rapidly

Here Are A Few of the Points of Superiority

1—It is on Ventura Avenue

2—It Is Near Recreation Park

3—It Is Near the Fair Grounds

4—It Has Two Car Lines

5—Values Are Increasing Rapidly

The Demand For These Lots Is Growing

There has been a steadily increasing demand for these lots lately, despite the fact that they have received but little publicity. The delightful location immediately appeals to all who see these lots. The nearness to a car line with frequent service and the close proximity of a beautiful park—Recreation—are two powerful arguments in favor of Boyd's Addition. The County Fair Grounds are also near, and Ventura avenue, one of the most popular drives in Fresno county, passes along one side of this suburb.

Build Your Home In Boyd's Addition

In Two Years Your Property Will Be Worth ½ More

When you build a home in Boyd's Addition you are making a home that will be prettily situated. More than that, it will continually increase in value: so that in addition to having a nice home you also have a profitable investment. The rate of increase in values amounts to about 25 per cent a year. This is an advance that means a good gain if you should ever want to sell.

Wonderful Marseille

(By MARGUERITE THOMPSON)

Anne had already been to Marseille. Our supply of paints had gotten low and such luxuries not being procurable in Martigues, one of us had to go in to Marseille on a shopping tour. Anne insisted that being the elder it was her duty—the truth was that she had never gone into a great and strange city alone and was wild for the experience and since it involved rising at 4 o'clock in the morning to take the train, I did not raise any objections.

Consequently when we said farewell to Martigues and started for Marseille I had all the sensations of a personally conducted tour with Anne as conductor. It was a proud and happy Anne that led me through the customs and down onto the Cannebiere the street which is a little dearer to every Marseillese heart than any other spot on earth. Anne had pictured Marseille to me as a treeless desert, where the light blinded your eyes and the heat made your head reel and where everything was up hill. I saw nothing but great shady avenues there were trees everywhere, I didn't notice any hills to speak of. But then it was a cold and rainy day; Anne had seen it on a hot and sunny one.

Marseille is a big, big, big city; the only big city in Europe, the only citified city in Europe. London, Paris, Berlin are mere country towns beside it—of course I know statistics put Marseille way down on the list but you can't look at Marseille and believe statistics. Entering the city you ride through miles of manufacturing sections, it is all Marseille, yet always you can look off and see Marseille, enormous Marseille filling the hollows, between the hills, pushing up the steep sides of the hills and crowding them with churches; crowding in a great circle around the Mediterranean, even crowding out the Mediterranean with her ships. There is the mast dotted surface of the old port with its great forts guarding the entrance and the barren island fortress of Chateau d' If in the circle of the hills. It is wonderful, stunning! There is nothing to even approach it in Europe. There is only one city more wonderful, New York; there again there is no comparison. Beside Marseille, Paris is a country village. Even the trees are big in Marseille, they fill the narrow streets from house to house and make the boulevards cool woods. But it is not the white dazzling city Charles Dickens, or someone else had led us to expect; it is all gray and dark, and dirty, yet beautiful. It is close and compact; yet still a city of immense distances. It attracts one; why I don't know. It has all the excitement of a big city, all the life and spirit of the South. It is alive from its great white rocky hills to the blue shores. It has more people than I ever saw before in my life or ever expect to see again, the streets are one solid mass of humanity, not poor, starved and miserable as in London, or sad and cynical as in Paris but all alive and prosperous. Anne said they were a more depraved lot than the Parisians but then Anne's experiences at Marseille weren't all happy ones. One could scarcely go out on the street in the evening even before supper; and there were two of us together, if either of us had been alone it would have been impossible. The Paris Boulevards at night are nothing compared to Marseille; in fact after the Marseillaises, the Parisians looked highly proper and respectable.

MARSEILLE—ALLEES DE MEILHAN.

ALL TIGHT SKIRTED.

The people of Marseille are wonderful. It would take two Parisians to make one Marseillais. No wonder the city seems crowded. All Paris looked thin and pale after the south. The women are huge, most of them, and coarse-looking and in the present style of tight skirts, looked too funny. And the skirts certainly were tight in Marseille; not hobble-skirts gathered in at the bottom but skin tight, fitting like a glove all the way up and down and with never a petticoat; I can't understand yet how they could walk. And the little girls of ten to sixteen were dressed exactly the same except that their skirts ended below the knees. With their big hats, tight dresses and high heels they were like little women. There was no trace of the child left in their faces or in their hearts, I'm afraid. I saw so many little things not a day over twelve, with painted lips and cheeks and bleached hair.

But it is the foreigners more than the natives that make Marseille crowds so fascinating. All manner of strange ships come into the great harbor and all manner of strange people come with them. There are funny creatures with queer capes and big trousers that are yards wide around the waist and taper off close to fit tight around the ankle, there are many Greeks, there are Turks and Hindus all in their national dress and Arabs in their white robes and turbans walking with the grace and dignity that only an Arab has and making all the rest of the men on the Cannebiere look like ungainly buzzing insects. We used to sit out of an evening at one of the big cafes on the Cannebiere—the cafes of the Cannebiere are the most famous cafes in the world—and eat ice cream just to be able to gaze upon these wonderful creatures. But they did not come by in throngs; you only saw ten or twelve in an evening. It was a little like eating loaves and loaves of nutsy bread for the sake of a few luscious raisins [illegible]

I remember especially one stout French couple from some Pacific Island, with a baby and a retinue of many negro servants. You knew that man owned a plantation just to look at him. It cried out all over him. They were simple, kindly people with that indolent, carefree air that people acquire in the tropics; while the colored servants were "delicious" they were so quaint. Just to look at them was to see South Sea Islands, long palms, and languid, waving fans. They carried their island with them even in the busy streets of Marseille.

PICTURESQUE PORT

But the most wonderful place in this wonderful city is the Vieux Port; that is a gem. Only small and consequently picturesque boats are allowed here; all the tiny pleasure boats and fishing craft with gaily colored sails, hundreds lashed together into a solid mass, up to beautiful three mast sailing vessels mostly from the Italian ports. Oranges and fruit bobbed up and down on the water and little boys in clumsy boats paddled around after them. The quais on either side were all the usual litter of a port, barrels and sacks and oranges stacked in great piles like corded wood. Sturdy, tousled headed Italian girls such as one sees in Genoa and Naples shouted uncomplimentary things at us in loud harsh voices. The quais of Marseille are considered dangerous. I have heard of people taking guides and guards to visit them. I have heard it was not even safe to go alone. We went alone, not once but a dozen times, we even poked about in the cracks of alleys between the tenements and we were far less molested and felt far safer than on the boulevards. The tenement buildings that line the quais are some of the most wonderful things in the world. They are the oldest part of the city, long narrow houses with rooms so tiny that the buildings seem all windows and crowded so tightly together that the thin slits of streets can scarcely squeeze in between them. They are extraordinary streets where one sees far, far above between tier upon tier of washings, a slender strip of blue sky, streets crowded with the poor and miserable, swarming with babies and resounding with the coarse hard voices of women, streets that climb up hill on filthy stone stairs and turn into alleys, too vile and dirty and yet too fascinating for words. From the water these tenements are more wonderful still. They seem a city in themselves, one feels that in them millions of people live and try to live. They are beautiful in color, tawny yellow and deep rich colors with reddish purple roofs and forests of black chimneys and red chimney pots. Usually I fly from slums as from the plague, here I haunted them fascinated. But one time we took a "pleasure ride" to St. Antoine; not because we had any idea what or where St. Antoine was but because we liked the looks of the nice white tram cars that went there. St. Antoine was a poor and sordid quarter where factory hands and the lowest class of French workmen live. I never spent a more miserable three hours in my life. It was poverty in all that is worse and most degrading, naked of all romance and picturesqueness. It was horrible; we dared not leave our car because all the returning cars were overflowing. We could have found no place and we could never have waited in those awful streets. We were afraid to. We preferred the dangerous alleys around the Vieux Port. There are slums and slums.

CHATEAU D' IF.

One day we went out to the island Fortress of the Chateau d' If. Of course we selected a bright and beautiful day with a stiff breeze and a heavy sea. It was all right in the harbor in fact we were having a glorious time until we passed between the solemn brown ports into the Mediterranean. The little fishing boats were standing first on one end and then the other. Anne turned pale when she saw them, Anne is not a good sailor; I am nothing to boast of but it takes at least eight hours to send me below, it is merely a question of time with me, the conditions of the sea has nothing to do with it; it only takes two hours to go to the Chateau d' If so I felt very safe and superior. Soon our boat began to follow the example of the fishing boats. I am densely ignorant of the ocean, its ways and the ships that sail thereon, if there was danger I probably would not know it while a little rough sea might seem a deadly thing. Anne and the other six people on board were frightened to death, they hugged the railings with their eyes shut. One couldn't sit on the seats even when one hung on, the waves dashed over the lower deck and often wet us above. It seemed to me that half the time we were buried in the sea and the other half sailing through the air like an airship but I don't know to

Right In The Path of Progress

The New Normal

The state appropriated a large sum of money for the purpose of establishing a Normal School. When it came time to choose a site, there were all sorts of offers made. The committee sifted them down carefully, weighing the advantages and the disadvantages of all of them. They finally decided to locate it near the Alhambra and Wilson tracts. This shows what disinterested persons think of this section of the city. It is in this direction that Fresno is growing most rapidly, and it is in this section that values are bound to advance with greatest strides. These are some of the reasons why the Wilson and Alhambra tracts are the most desirable suburbs in which to build.

The Exclusive Section

The section of any city that is most exclusive is the section in which building lots are most coveted. That in part accounts for the demand for lots in these desirable tracts. Naturally these lots will be worth more in a year from now than they are now and the values will continue to advance. Every house that is built enhances the value of adjacent property. There has been a great deal of building in these tracts and there will be much more this winter. There are restrictions on the style of buildings that are allowed to be erected and there are restrictions on the kind of people who can acquire lots.

Frequent Car Service

Another important feature, one that is of prime importance to all who must be in the business part of town during the day time, is the frequent car service. Every ten minutes there is a car leaving for the business section of Fresno. These cars go to the very center of the Wilson and Alhambra tracts, so that all lots are near the car line. The locating of the Normal School in this portion of the city has caused a largely increased demand for these lots and will be the cause of their selling rapidly, as it will also stimulate the growth of this section. The best class of people is being attracted to these tracts. When you live in the Wilson or Alhambra tracts you are sure of good neighbors.

All Modern Improvements

In order to make these suburbs as pleasant and up-to-date as possible, all modern improvements have been put in and are free to buyers of lots. The streets are all graded and they are to be curbed and concrete sidewalks put in soon. Sewers are already laid and gas pipe and water mains are down and ready to be connected up as soon as houses are built. Telephone lines extend out into these suburbs and electric lights are another convenience that residents can enjoy. These improvements make it possible for the people who build in the Wilson and Alhambra tracts to enjoy all the conveniences that are possible in the older portions of the city.

Many men in older districts have grown wealthy in this way, and they have done so on a very little capital. They had foresight, energy and grit. The same combination will win again at Wahtoke. Can YOU Qualify?

Sales Are Being Made Rapidly, and to the very best of people. This fact is very gratifing to us, and of great importance to you. We print below a list of recent sales. Read it carefully. It includes some of the best-posted and most practical fruit and business men in the state. They bought only after the most careful investigation. They know land, they know the fruit business, they know comparative values. Our proposition was good enough for them; it should be good enough for YOU.

RECENT SALES

Joseph H. Hunt,	President of Hunt Bros. Company, one of the largest fruit canning concerns on the coast, with canneries at Haywards, Los Gatos and Gridley. Mr. Hunt was at one time a Southern California orange buyer and shipper. He is at present also largely interested in the Hawaiian Pineapple Company.
A. C. Baumgartner,	Vice President of Hunt Bros. Company and of the Hawaiian Pineapple Company.
F. A. Dixon,	Head fruit buyer for Hunt Bros. Company.
E. E. Morford,	A Sonoma County orchardist of many years experience.
A. M. Brown,	Of the firm of Edward Brown & Sons, one of the largest general agencies of fire insurance companies on the coast.
W. Irving,	General Agent for several large Eastern fire insurance companies doing a big business on the Pacific Coast.
Reginald Norris,	Of the International Banking Corporation of San Francisco.
H. H. Baker,	Proprietor of the Clovis Nursery. Mr. Baker will engage extensively in the growing of citrus nursery stock on the land purchased from us.
Mrs. L. E. Minor,	Of Richmond, a sister-in-law of Mr. H. H. Baker. Purchase made on his recommendation.
Miss M. Loewi,	A teacher in the San Francisco public schools, who believes in an orange grove as a provision for the "rainy day."

THESE PURCHASERS have bought to plant and improve. Some planting has been done already, and the groves are looking very fine. Inquiries are pouring in. It is certain the entire acreage will be sold very soon. The opportunity is for those only who act at once. Large profits were made from the development of the orange lands of Lindsay and Porterville, but most of those profits went to outsiders. "Home Folks" were skeptical, they waited to be "shown." Now that Fresno County's orange lands are being developed, will Fresno's "Home Folks" hang back until the "outsiders" have shown them how, and skimmed the cream of the profits? What will YOU do about it?

Wahtoke Land Company,
Fresno, California.

Gentlemen:

In reply to your request for an expression of my opinion regarding your land in Clarke's Valley, wish to say that I have been over the land thoroughly, and consider it first-class in every respect. I am extremely reticent about giving you this letter, as I feel that all purchasers of land should make a careful investigation for themselves, and be guided by their own judgment, or the judgment of some one with whom they are acquainted, and in whom they have absolute confidence, rather than promiscuous endorsement of this character. However, I believe there is a great future for the citrus fruit industry along the foothills of Fresno County, and heretofore we have laid too little stress on our possibilities in that line.

Believing that the proposition you are promoting will not only prove a good one for you and your clients, but also will mean a great deal to the prosperity of the County of which we are all so proud, I have decided to grant this letter at your request.

Yours very truly,
Wylie M. Giffen

Note.—Mr. Giffen is president of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce, a thoroughly practical and successful orchardist and vineyardist, the owner of the famous Butler vineyard of about 640 acres.

YOUR ESPECIAL ATTENTION

Is called to the letters from Mr. Wylie M. Giffen and Mr. A. G. Schulz, printed herewith. We are proud of these letters. They were given after thorough examination of our property. They are from practical land men, men of the highest standing in their respective communities. These gentlemen have no money interest whatever in our lands. The opinions given are unbiased. Why not profit by the facts set before you in these letters and elsewhere in this advertisement? Why not at least investigate. In the face of such endorsements, when the best posted of fruit men are coming in from the outside and buying this land for the sake of growing oranges on it, you can do no less than let us show you, as we have shown them. Our autos will take you there in an hour.

OUR BOOKLET, "ORANGE PROFITS," is full of valuable information and goes into more detail concerning our proposition than can be done here. Ask for it.

TO SUCCEED, you must advance to meet Opportunity. Delays are fatal. Investigate. Then act.

Mr. Calvin Pearson,

Dear Sir:-

I have carefully inspected the Wahtoke Thermal Tract with a view as to its adaptability as an Orange or Lemon Proposition, and can unhesitatingly recommend it as such.

Its location, and the slope is certainly ideal, and should prove it almost frost proof.

The soil is of the same character as that on which all of our successful Orange and Lemon Orchards are planted in the Central California Citrus Belt, and which is certainly a guarantee that it is all right for this purpose. It is a very strong soil requiring less fertilizer than the granite or sediment soils.

Summing up the tract as a whole, I certainly think it is one of the best unplanted (or for that matter taking in planted sections also) that there is in this whole belt, and cannot see how anyone looking for a location for an orange or lemon orchard could find a more desirable location.

Very truly yours,
A. G. Schulz

Dear Sir:

Enclosed find a statement in regard to the Wahtoke Tract. I certainly can conscientiously subscribe to this. Wish that I were able to own a forty there myself.

Very truly yours,

this day whether it was a dangerous trip or just an ordinary one. At least we reached the Chateau d' If, a great barren rock built into a fortress, but we couldn't come near the landing. A little black row boat came out after us and we fearfully crawled into it. I haven't been scared before but I certainly felt uneasy in that clumsy little boat with two half broaken oars that bent double with every stroke. Also the oar locks were two wooden pegs that slipped up and had to be hammered in all the time. I watched them fascinated. It had been difficult to get into the row boat, it was impossible to get out, indeed I had little hope of ever getting out. In spite of an anchor and many ropes the boat men could not land. We would be dashed upon the rocks one minute with a force that would have left only a few splinters of our boat and had both boat and rocks been protected with steel bars and padding. Then the sailors would drop the oars and shake their fists in each others faces and swear vociferously while those on the shore danced up and down and yelled with excitement. However we did eventually land and the visitors on the island departed as we had some hearing us were thankful to be on something solid even if it was a black and barren rock with a prospect of spending the rest of our life there. Aline collapsed on the steps and could go no further and as she showed no desire for company I left her to recuperate in the sunshine and went to look at the Chateau d' If. The Chateau d' If is a single dazzling white rock in the midst of the bluest ocean. It was one of the favorite prison houses of France during many long ages. It seemed as if most all the notable personages of France at one time or other in their lives enjoyed a sojourn at the Chateau d' If. During the French revolution, important and secret meetings were held in one of the upper chambers to decide just who should go first to the guillotine. Mirabeau has a little cell there with his name over the door and so have many others I have forgotten. The walls are yards thick and the cells dark and gloomy. Through the tiny, barred windows that seem lost at the end of long black passages, Marseilles and the outside world blazes with a white brilliancy beyond anything you can imagine. But while the prisoners weren't over-burdened with light and air still they weren't so badly off. They had gorgeous big fire places and all the comforts of home. We did not take up a permanent residence at the Chateau d' If after all, for after many hours during which the cafes—there are cafes even among the barrenness of the rocks in the harbor of Marseille—tried to tempt us in with promises of everything from soda water to champagne, we saw our boat tossing among the waves and once more entrusted our lives to the little black row boat with the broken oars. The boat made no more trips that day. It was too rough, even the three passengers who had come out were too miserable to land and went back with us. We had one thrilling moment on the way back. The captain lost control of the ship and no matter how he turned the wheel, the boat steered straight for the light house rocks. The sailors were in wild excitement, the engines were stopped and the rocks were so close that almost any minute we expected to find ourselves on them. Then a fat sailor rushed up from some lower region, grabbed the wheel and knocked over the captain and in a few minutes we were steering straight for Marseille. Of course there was a dreadful row as soon as the danger was passed and everybody swore and shook angry fists at everybody else's nose. It ended by a mock real fearful captain guiding us in under the threatening eye of the fat sailor. I took Aline home to the hotel and put her to bed and there she stayed for four days under the delusion that she was still rocking on the briny deep.

ZOO A DISAPPOINTMENT

Those were a sad and lonely four days with absolutely nothing to do, and one soon becomes hopelessly bored wandering around alone trying to see things. I went out along the sea, but the winds were so fierce one could scarcely stand and the streets were wet with spray for blocks, not a ship ventured in or out of the Port. I climbed the great white hills that give Marseille so beautiful a setting and found them very big and wild and beautiful and covered with sweet wild pinks. One day I visited the zoo. I had always harbored the idea, gathered I don't know where, that Marseille was the proud possessor of one of the finest zoos in the world. It was an extremely interesting and instructive zoo. As near as I could make out it consisted of one hundred cafes and a few dozen ducks in a setting of beautiful lawns and trees. However, I was glad I went for I made the acquaintance of two of the handsomest and most magnificent tigers I ever laid my eyes upon and if there is anything I adore it is a tiger. I clung to the bars for hours and feasted my eyes upon them in worshipful adoration.

Also I visited the famous Palais du Longchamp, partly because it is one of the things one is supposed to "do" and partly because it was decorated by Puvis de Chavannes and Francis Aubertin, one of my professors in Paris. The Palais is extremely French with lions and columns, bulls and tritons stuck around every where. But the grounds were very badly kept for France; all weeds and lawns that resembled hayfields before harvest. The art gallery was a failure. Marseille is evidently where the French government sends the "works of art" that it buys at the salons in a state of enthusiasm and bitterly repents afterwards. The frescoes by the two masters named above were the only redeeming features. Some Japanese from a cruiser in the harbor came in while I was there and I suddenly realized that here were we actually holding up this as our idea of art to a country with the marvelous art of Japan. Everything around me was so cheap, so inane so lacking in any true understanding or appreciation of either art or beauty that I felt ashamed to stay there. The poor Japs doubtless merely thought it all very strange and incomprehensible and therefore wonderful if one were educated up to it.

CONSTIPATION THE GREAT TROUBLE OF AMERICAN PEOPLE

Do you realize that if you suffer from constipation that you are only one of many? A conservative estimate by physicians shows that over one-half of the people in the United States suffer untold misery from constipation, and these people are constantly trying one remedy and another to correct their trouble.

Big pills, little pills, round pills and square pills, pills of all sorts have been tried without success, and many are going back to first principles for relief. Figs have been known and used for generations with good results, and it has remained for a San Francisco man to put up Phigandy, which tastes like fig syrup acts like a mild laxative and which is sold in all drug stores at 25 cents per box. Don't take drugs—just try Phigandy.

IMMIGRANTS FROM JUNGLE.

Whole Shipload of Queer Folk Arrive From South America.

The trip the Royal Mail Liner Atrato has just ended here from Southampton by way of Colon and the West Indies was enlivened by a few storms, one waterspout, and the lashings of the tails of eight caymans, or South American crocodiles, the biggest of which has a longer tail than any that ever came here attached to any other reptile, if serpents don't count as tails. The Atrato got the crocodiles, or caymans, or alligators, at Colon. They were shipped thither from the interior of Colombia by one of the greatest of tropical animal hunters, J. D. Schmidt, who says that the big cayman is more than 15 feet long and weighs 800 pounds.

Among his jungle shipmates are two pumas, much like our own mountain lions, six capybaras, which are the tallest of aquatic rodents, these six being loftier than any ever imported, being not less, Mr. Schmidt says, than 3 feet high; a marvelous coil of anacondas mostly mere infants of 10 or 12 feet, which may grow larger on the show bills of the circuses; three big bears, hundreds of tropical birds, mostly of the parrot family, and the biggest iguana, which is an arboreal lizard, good to eat if you like lizard, that ever poked its sluggish nose into America. This iguana is, according to its importer, Louis Ruhe, the animal dealer, 8 feet long, which is a few fet bigger than the encyclopedia iguanas.

The waterspout that interested the passengers of the Atrato was seen off Watling's Island, about half a mile from the ship. Capt. Hayes says that the base of the spout was about 35 feet in diameter, and that the hour glass waist of it was about 20 feet long. The total height, seemed to be pretty close to 500 feet. Everybody viewed it from the ship's rail without apprehension, as Capt. Hayes declared that no modern liner had anything to fear from a spout. He told about the habit of firing guns into wat raspouts to break them down, and so, i that he had never heard or read of a case where any spout had done much damage by hitting even a sailing ship. The swift liner could easily dodge a spout, as she could travel faster on her course than the spout could on its course. The passengers thanked the skipper for his course, and said they preferred to see a spout half a mile off. The skipper said he would much prefer to encounter a waterspout at sea than the shore-going variety, the tornado.—New York Sun.

Four Homes Have Already Been Built In Dean's Addition

MANY MORE TO FOLLOW

Although the California Bond and Realty Association has been in existence but a few months, it has already built four homes, a number of others are in course of construction, and plans drawn for more. This is just the beginning of a work that will help materially to make Fresno a city of beautiful and tasteful homes, and assist hundreds of families to purchase homes that they would otherwise be unable to do. It is just the beginning of a work that will make Dean Park, with its naturally superior location, one of the really desirable parts of Fresno, the one where homes will be most coveted.

Now Is the Time to Buy Stock

Now is the time to buy stock in this enterprise. It is wonderfully profitable business, this one of buying tracts of land, cutting it up into lots and improving, erecting modern houses and selling on easy installments. It is a business with a marvelous future and one that is not overdone.

In the three months that the California Bond and Realty Association has been in existence, it has declared a 5 per cent dividend. This is at the rate of 20 per cent a year. The stock is advancing in value all of the time. It now sells at $1.50 a share and is to be advanced in a few weeks. Buy now.

A Home Building Association Whose Success Is Assured

The success of the California Bond and Realty Association is assured. The three months that it has been in operation are the worst ones in the year for real estate business. Yet the success during this period has been phenomenal. Stock is selling above par, dividends have been declared, houses have been built, the finest tract of land adjacent to Fresno has been secured as a suburb, large tracts of farming lands will be purchased and subdivided into small farms and sold on easy installments. This is an enviable record for so short a time and one that speaks volumes for the future of the association.

This proposition is not a new or untried one. True, it is new in Fresno, but it has been in operation in other cities for years and has been successful and profitable beyond the enthusiastic dreams of the most optimistic. The 20 per cent dividends that we confidently expect are very conservative estimates when compared with the actual profits that have been derived from similar institutions in other cities.

If you were told that as high as 40 per cent and even more has been a single year's dividends you might scoff at it. Yet this amount has been paid in many cities. The investment is absolutely safe. Your money is not only protected by the integrity of the officers of the California Bond and Realty Association, but it also protected further by the by-laws of the association.

Glance over this list and see how many of these men you either personally know or know by reputation. They are all progressive and alert men, well known for their business acumen and sterling honesty. You can safely intrust your savings to them and be certain of realizing large dividends.

There is an immense field in this part of California. Fresno is destined to be by far the largest city in Central California and will stand well to the head of the list of California cities. It has a wonderful country all about it and a marvelous growth will be witnessed in the next few years. If you want to help in the greater development of this section, there is no better way than to link your capital with the capital of others.

This Stock is Within Your Reach As it is Sold On Easy Payments

We are placing this stock within your easy reach. We are making it possible for you to put your savings to work as you save. Buy stock and pay for it on easy installments. It is rapidly advancing in value as any stock is bound to do that pays such large dividends. It is almost impossible for you to profitably invest your savings if they are small. It is by joining with others and pooling your capital that a large fund is raised that is capable of accomplishing wonderful work.

Now is the time to buy as an advance will take place about the first of November. Stock that you can buy now at $1.50 will sell then at more than that. You can buy now by paying 10 per cent down and 5 per cent a month. Long before your stock is paid for it will be worth much more than the purchase price. And dividends are declared every three months; this stock is already earning a larger interest by far than capital ordinarily earns. Wouldn't you like to participate in the division of these earnings?

TRADITIONS IN MARRIAGE

Novelist's Wife Writes Her Ideas on the Divorce Problem.

Children are far more sensitive to the attitudes of their elders than the latter often realize, and a discordant marriage must in the end influence the child perniciously, even though the immediate result is not always evident. So those uncongenial couples who remain together merely for the sake of their children are accomplishing a very uncertain result, and those who feel that it is society that they are serving thereby will usually find that they are very deficient in services rendered either to society or to themselves.

Having duly listened to the hue and cry that is always raised when any established institution is attacked, one wonders if, perhaps, the hubbub is not an attempt to drown the wee small voice of truth and to distract attention from those who suffer through the inadequacies of the old regime, so that the lazy and complacent ones may continue undisturbed in their established positions. One also wonders if it is really the altruistic impulse after all that causes us to uphold traditions that no longer apply to the existent facts and to close our eyes to the actual conditions growing out of those facts.

We talk a lot about individual initiative, the family, and social service, and yet do we make any effort to find out what is our real duty to ourselves, our children, and society—according to the growing need as it actually exists, and not according to the precedent which no longer applies to the need? Are we not more dominated by the fear of what society will do to us than by the desire to do something for the benefit of society? And so we are continually trying to fit our impulses and our ideals into the forms already established, forgetful of the fact that human nature is in a continual state of flux and evolutionary development and that institutions were made for society and not society for institutions. If we continue to tolerate this attitude of expediency, we will resemble somewhat the Maori of the south seas, who finding in their possession an assortment of shoes, cut off their toes to fit them, instead of seeking out the sizes that might be adapted to their feet.—Meta Fuller Sinclair, in the World Today.

PAYS ALIMONY IN PENNIES.

"If I've got to pay my wife money for not living with me," vowed Adolph Radloski, "I'll make her earn the alimony counting it. I'll pay her every cent in coppers, and won't turn the money over to any one but her."

True to his promise, Radloski has been bringing 500 cents once every week to the office of his wife's lawyers and handing over the bag to his wife. Before he handed her the cash he insisted upon counting it twice himself, and then watching his wife count the coppers.

Mrs. Radloski recently became ill, and for five weeks she did not appear to get her alimony. Her husband came each week, but demanded his wife's presence. At the end of the fifth week he carried a satchel with the 2500 coppers in it. Mrs. Radloski was on hand that day. Her husband, after the triple count, insisted upon a receipt.

"That's the only fun I get out of this sort of taxation without representation," the husband said.—New York American.

Kearney Boulevard Heights Has Come Into Its Own

Many Beautiful Homes Now Completed and Occupied by Happy Contented Families

..ONE OF THE FINEST SUBURBS IN CALIFORNIA..

DURING the last ten years agricultural lands have soared in values, the increases amounting to several hundred per cent in many cases. They will continue to increase for many years to come, but the greatest increase will be in city property. The wonderful growth of the country has just begun to result in a corresponding increase in values and demand for city property. The most rapidly growing city in the interior of California (the part of the state that is going to receive the largest increases of population) is Fresno. It has everything to make it grow and its recent advance is only the beginning of what the future holds in store. No city is more advantageously situated and none is attracting more general attention owing to this very fact and the alertness of its citizens.

The demand for residence lots has grown steadily. In order to supply this demand and to give buyers the best, the James J. Murray, Incorporated, has placed on the market Kearney Boulevard Heights, a tract that has been the subject of more discussion than any real estate venture that was ever made in this city. It is a modern and model residence suburb, desirable in every way and superior to any other in Fresno. It is the only one that is really fitted to be a restricted district. It is not only large enough but it has the natural situation.

Kearney Boulevard Heights is all that the most fastidious could desire. It is situated on an eminence, which gives it the benefit of every passing breeze and insures perfect drainage. In making it a restricted district upwards of $60,000 has already been spent and the work is still far from finished. It has every modern convenience and it has them all substantially made. For instance, the sidewalks are made of a very good grade of concrete and are wider than are usual in purely residence sections.

The streets are all curbed and graded. A certain section has been set aside as a business district. This is along Fresno street which is to be paved in the near future, the contract already having been let. A store is now in course of construction. The car line extends out Fresno street right through Kearney Boulevard Heights.

The natural beauty of this situation is further heightened by beautiful Kearney avenue. This drive is of state-wide fame. It bisects Kearney Boulevard Heights and the State Highway Commission has been petitioned to give favorable consideration to this drive as a part of the new system of State highways, which will no doubt be done.

ALL FIRST CLASS IMPROVEMENTS.

Determined to make Kearney Boulevard Heights a model suburb as well as a modern one has caused the expenditure of immense sums of money for merely adding to the beauty of this suburb. About fifty varieties of trees have been planted along the streets between the sidewalk and the curb. Different varieties on every street gives each street a pleasing individuality. The method adopted is to alternate different varieties which gives a very pleasing aspect to the street. Interspersed among the trees are rose bushes, the blossoms of which will fill the air with their fragrance.

The streets are well graded and curbed. There are sewers already laid so that it will not be necessary to dig the streets up for the purpose of laying sewers. The same is true of water and gas mains. Persons who live in Kearney Boulevard Heights will be able to equip their homes in the most modern manner. Telephone and electric lights will also be among the improvements that may be enjoyed by residents of Kearney Boulevard Heights.

Many houses have been built. They are beautiful houses, well and tastefully built because that is the only kind that may be erected in Kearney Boulevard Heights. The restrictions on building require that no house may be erected costing less than $1500. In addition to this it must stand back a distance of 25 feet from the front of the lot. These restrictions insure harmonious surroundings for the house that you may build when you buy in Kearney Boulevard Heights.

You are also assured of having the kind of neighbors you like. No undesirable people can acquire lots in Kearney Boulevard Heights. No Chinese, Japanese, Negroes, Mexicans, or other people with whom you do not like to associate will live in Kearney Boulevard Heights.

Families are moving into the houses as soon as they are completed. Material for new houses is arriving every day and families are waiting for houses to be built so that they may move in. Kearney Boulevard Heights is at last coming into its own and this winter will see great advances made. It is destined to be the really exclusive suburb of Fresno. In a few years the lots that we are selling now will be coveted by persons who are indifferent now.

When you buy in Kearney Boulevard Heights you are buying where values will advance, where you will have the best of neighbors, where you can enjoy every modern improvement, where there is good car service, where there is a beautiful natural situation.

We are offering hundreds, even thousands of bargains in real estate of every description. The prices on every single piece of land we are offering will advance from 10 to 50 per cent every year. We have pointed out the way for others to make money and we are pointing it out to you. We can show you every kind of property — orchards in bearing, orchards just planted, vineyards of all kinds, grazing lands, grain lands, alfalfa lands; in fact, every kind of property and at all prices.

We Can Interest You In The "Land of Kerman"

The Man Seeking a Profit Paying Ranch Should Not Fail to Investigate the Merits of This Wonderful Land of Opportunities

The Land of Kerman is the agricultural tract that we are handling. It has every point of superiority that you have ever heard of that is urged in favor of California lands. It has every desirable feature and it has no undesirable ones. It is not even a land where you need take the word of a single person. You need not believe a word we tell you because you can prove every assertion that we make and you can prove it in the most satisfactory way in the world. This is how you can verify our statements: We began selling this land five years ago. We have sold thousands of acres in what we have called the first section. This land is in bearing now and you can see exactly what has been done in five years and what you may reasonably expect to do. Could you ask for anything fairer than that?

You can see what crops are being raised by the happy and prosperous farmers who are well started on the road to wealth in the "Land of Kerman." It is a pleasant place to live because it has everything to make it so. It is modern in every way. There are a number of pretty and well built school houses wherein the children are educated according to the high standards that is maintained in all of the Fresno county schools. There are churches of many denominations. The progressive people of the "Land of Kerman" have seen that the roads are put in good condition and kept so.

They also enjoy rural delivery. There are telephones in the majority of the homes of these up-to-date farmers and there are power lines through the "Land of Kerman."

This tract is situated along the Southern Pacific railroad which insures good transportation and means that the people of the "Land of Kerman" can reach Fresno at almost any time. Besides this it is very probable that an electric railroad will be built in the very near future. Powerful capitalists are behind the project and have had men reporting on the practicability of certain routes. These reports have included statements regarding probable profits and it is pretty well assured that work will begin very soon.

PLENTY OF WATER IN THE "LAND OF KERMAN."

In order to farm in the "Land of Kerman" it is necessary to have plenty of water. With plenty of water for irrigation, crops are assured; there is no danger of drouth preventing a full crop. Water for irrigation is taken from Kings River. This water comes from the Sierra Nevada mountains, the highest in the United States. The eternal snows [illegible] letting the water down as [illegible]. It is an unfailing and dependable supply. Every acre of land in the "Land of Kerman" has first water rights. The climate is [illegible] healthful. Sickness is [illegible] in the "Land of Kerman," and invalids are [illegible] this healthful climate. The "Land of Kerman" has [illegible] been called the land of health, wealth and happiness.

The "Land of Kerman" is only 45 minutes from Fresno by automobile over a good county road. There are many reasons why this land is the place for the man of small means. The people who live there are the kind of people you will like to associate with and have as neighbors. They are shrewd, industrious, careful farmers who have come to the "Land of Kerman" because they have seen the opportunities that it offers to the man who is willing to work. Their industry has been rewarded as yours will be if you follow their lead. These people are the kind who are willing to help you with advice and information [illegible] experience. As a Moderate Priced Suburb Fairmont Is Unequaled

It Offers Big Opportunities for the Home Builder As Well As Investors

...MANY LOTS HAVE ALREADY BEEN SOLD...

FAIRMONT is another suburb being placed on the market by the James J. Murray, Incorporated. It is designed to fill the demand for moderate priced lots in a suburb of moderate restrictions. Although it has been on the market but a short time it has been received with popular acclaim and approval. A large number of lots have already been sold and the demand is growing. It is admirably situated and has all of the features that are demanded by those whom it is intended to interest. The restrictions are such as will make it impossible for undesirable persons to reside in Fairmont and such as will insure the erection of houses that will be handsome, yet will not be beyond the means of the salaried man and the small business man. There is a real demand for a suburb of this character and we believe that Fairmont fills this demand.

The rapid growth that Fresno has made in the last few years has caused wonderful increases in land values which can be taken as a reliable and dependable forecast of what will take place in the next few years. The immense numbers of homeseekers who are flocking to California every year in greater and greater numbers is the cause of this steady increase. This is the assurance of the continued increase in values and means that lots bought in Fairmont today at a low price and on the easiest of installments will sell in a very few years for double what is paid for them.

Fairmont is situated in the western part of Fresno at an elevation of several feet above the rest of the city. This is an important feature as it assures perfect drainage. Water can not stand on this tract to cause sickness. [illegible] In addition to this it gets the cool mountain breeze [illegible] to comfort in the summer time. These are two things that are well worth considering when you are buying a residence lot.

Fairmont is only 12 blocks from the court house and is near a car line. This is another important consideration and one that is essential to those whose work takes them to other portions of the city.

Fairmont has modern improvements. The streets are all well graded and are curbed. Sewers and water pipes are already laid. This affords [illegible] all modern conveniences.

A beautiful clubhouse has been built for the exclusive use of the residents of Fairmont. It provides a place where the citizens of Fairmont can congregate for social and educational [illegible] purposes. [illegible] a place to spend Sundays.

Roeding Park, the property of the city of Fresno, is also near at hand and adds materially to the attractiveness of Fairmont.

Fairmont is a restricted district both in character of buildings that can be erected and the kind of people [illegible] neighbors. The [illegible] No undesirable [illegible]. There [illegible].

All of the improvements that have been made in Fairmont are free to purchasers of lots. No interest nor taxes need be paid for two years. This gives buyers a chance to have [illegible] their property before it becomes necessary to pay [illegible] for as [illegible] per cent down [illegible]. This means [illegible] at this [illegible] suburbs. When you invest your money

IT MEANS OPPORTUNITY FOR THE MAN OF SMALL MEANS.

[illegible] Fairmont means opportunity [illegible] because it [illegible]. The price is $[illegible] down and [illegible] per cent a month. This means that you only have to pay [illegible] down and only $[illegible] a month. Did you ever hear of easier terms than these? It gives the man of small capital a chance to get ahead. Ten acres in the "Land of Kerman" means independence; 20 acres or more means wealth. There are many families already well started on the road to wealth and many more that will take advantage of these easy terms to acquire a farm of their own. The success that is being made by purchasers of farms in the first tract is going to be the strongest reason in the world why the second section will sell rapidly.

[illegible] richness of the soil, the exhibit of products at the Fresno Fair took first prize, although there was hot competition. This [illegible] when it is remembered that the colony is only five years old. The town of Kerman, located on this tract, is a flourishing little place, having a number of stores, hotels, [illegible] and an [illegible]. It also has a modern creamery [illegible] alfalfa raised in the "Land of Kerman" [illegible].

Send [illegible] for more information about this wonderful section [illegible] the vast opportunities it offers

In Fairmont lots you are doing better than putting it in the bank. You are putting it where you get highest rates of interest. When you make your initial payment you virtually begin to draw interest on the full amount of the price of the lot. You reap the full benefit of the increase in value. When you sell you make the entire profit no matter whether you have paid up in full or have only paid one-half or a fourth.

Send for beautifully illustrated little booklet telling about Fairmont. It is free for the asking.

JOE THOMAS SHOWS HE IS STILL IN FIGHT GAME

Ex-Champion Gives Vic Hanson Worst Beating in His Ring Career.

(Special to the Republican.)

COALINGA, Oct. 21. When the bell tapped for the opening of the fourteenth round here tonight Vic Hanson, the Pride of Coalinga, announced that he could not see across the ring out of either eye. His closed eye lids and bleeding and bruised face bore out his statement and as his seconds tossed a sponge into the center of the roped arena Referee Eddie Hanlon raised the ring of Joe Thomas and the fight was over.

It was a great fight, the greatest in the history of the Coalinga ring. Hanson was outboxed, outsmarted and outgeneraled but not outgamed or disgraced. The middleweight from the oil wells put up a great defense, but he was a beaten man after the fourth round. Joe Thomas, the San Francisco middleweight, who lost the world's title to the late Stanley Ketchel after three hard ring battles, "came back."

Thomas was in fine condition and showed his old form. That tells the story. The ex-champion proved that he can "come back" against a young, inexperienced but game fighter. The word fighter explains it. Hanson did not run away and no time did he display any of the yellow stuff which his enemies declare he possesses. One round—the fourth—was given to Hanson. In all the others, Thomas beat Hanson to a frazzle. The thirteenth round was fatal to the Coalinga boy, as Thomas closed his left eye. His right optic had been closed in the sixth.

In the last round, Hanson stood in the center of the ring and did his best. He did not step back one inch and Thomas found him the gamest boy he ever tackled. Hanson entered the ring weighing 163 pounds, Thomas weighed about 170, refusing to get on the scales.

The ten-round preliminary between Young Dempsey and Whitey Garver was a farce, Garver quitting cold in the middle of the seventh.

McCredie Tries Out Busher and Playing Is Listless to Fans.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21—San Francisco and Portland split even on a doubleheader today, the Northerners winning the first struggle, 9 to 7, while San Francisco blanked the Ducks in the second session, 5 to 0. It appeared to be "bush day" with both teams, McCredie and Long working out several recruits from lesser leagues. Reuther, a San Franciscan, was tried out by Portland in the second game, and gave seven hits. Suter was knocked off the mound in the first game, and Noyes met the same fate. Henley finished the game for the locals. Fanning held Portland to four hits in the second game. Score:

FRESNO HI PLAYS ITS FIRST GAME SATURDAY

Challenge From Dinuba Hi Rugby Team Accepted By Mgr. Collins.

The Purple and Gold Rugby squad of the local high school will journey to Dinuba on Saturday, October 28th, to clash with the southern school in the initial gridiron battle of the year. Manager Collins received a challenge from Manager Morrow of the Dinuba fifteen yesterday. Fresno will take twenty men, whose expenses will be paid by the challenging school. A meeting of the students affairs committee will be called tomorrow, and there is no doubt that the game will be sanctioned. Collins will accept the challenge at once.

Though Coach Drew of the Fresno team will have only one week in which to put his men in trim, he thinks that a little rough work at the start will do the fellow goods good. Dinuba has had some experience on the Rugby field, but has played no games this season, so conditions will be fairly equal.

Practice will be carried on incessantly this week, and the candidates for positions on the squad will naturally have to buckle down to hard work. Drew has distributed printed sheets, which bear the important rules of the game, and the boys can learn a good deal about the theory on their own account.

ARE BOXING AND PRIZE FIGHTING THE SAME?

Interesting Comparison Is Made; Present Day Game Is Plain Boxing.

"No matter where glove contests are permitted in this country, the question arises, 'What is the difference between boxing and prize fighting?' Several attempts have been made to draw the line in the courts and in some instances promoters have secured decisions in their favor. The most recent champion of scientific boxing is Tommy Ryan of Syracuse, who held the middleweight title after Bob Fitzsimmons relinquished it. Ryan is a close student of fistiana and is able to give an intelligent argument in his favor. In the Buffalo Express the other day he was quoted in this manner:

"'The question has often been put to me, "What is a prize fight if it isn't brutal?" Other persons want to know why the boxers pull and haul, hit in the clinches, and so forth, or why a man will strike his opponent when the latter apparently is only half off the floor. Still others want to know why the boxers shake hands at the start and at the end of a bout, and what is the sensation when a man is floored or knocked out.

"'First of all, I would say that there is now no such thing as a prize fighter. That word is a misnomer. Thirty or forty years ago it was different, for in those days men fought with the bare knuckles and the sport was brutal, but the name "prize fight" has stuck to the present day, and what some people persist in calling a "prize fight" is nothing more or less than a scientific exhibition of the art of attack and self-defense, and of the same nature as any other exhibition of sport which is won by endurance and skill. The exhibitions are not brutal.

"'Boxers pull, haul and hit in clinches because some of them have become accustomed to what is known as "infighting," and they are a great deal better when boxing close to their opponents than in sparring at a range. They try to tire out their opponents by the pulling and hauling, which is quite scientific in a way, and by no means as rough as it appears. It is often the style of some boxers to win this way. Sometimes accidents will happen in infighting, as they will in any sport.

FIGHTERS MAKE MISTAKES

"On the other hand the clever and length boxer... that is his style and it is at that kind of boxing that he is at his best.

"'The reason why one boxer will strike his opponent when the latter is apparently half off the floor is that the Queensbury rules, which govern nearly all boxing bouts of the present day, call a man up when he has both feet on the floor and his head is above his knees. Under the rules a man crouching is just as much up as the man who is erect with his hands in position.

"'Boxers seldom have any personal spite, and they show this by shaking hands. It is purely a matter of business with them. It is very seldom that two good boxers face each other in the ring with spite against each other. Mind you, I am not claiming that every boxer is a good one, for of all the professions in the world there is a smaller percentage of good men in the ring than in any other business.

"'People who don't see many boxing bouts may occasionally see a poor one, and become prejudiced against the sport. They simply judge all by one poor exhibition; probably put up by two men who are not really scientific boxers. The same mistake may occur in any line of sport.

"SLEEP BELOW" IS "PLEASANT."

"'I have often been asked why a man can be knocked down, get up, and continue the bout, and then claim that he has not been hurt at all. In the first place, a boxer or any man who has ever been knocked down with a boxing blow will agree with me that he couldn't tell where he was hit or anything about what took place after he was hit and until he came to, if he temporarily lost his senses. There is something about a knockdown or knockout that seems to rob it of all feeling. It is much like a man going into a pleasant dream.

"'Nowadays, after a man has been through a hard boxing bout and the papers have told of the many heavy blows struck and received, people expect the boxer to be all scarred and marked, and are much surprised when they find him much the same as ever, and bearing no mementos of a severe battle.

"'A boxer to be a boxer has to be in the very best of physical condition, and blows have little or no effect upon him. But if you took a man who had not been through all the hard training and sent him into the ring, every blow would raise a lump or cut him.'"

FRANK CHANCE TO HAVE ALL NEW PITCHERS

Fifteen Men Signed Up; Walter Nagle Is One of the New Cubs.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21. The Chicago National League club management has already started in to rebuild its pitching staff for 1912. It is understood that left handed twirlers will be in greater favor next season with the Cubs and following up this idea, Manager Chance yesterday purchased Walter Nagle, a big left hander, from the Newark Eastern League club.

In addition to Nagle who is the first "south paw" signed since the banishment of Jack Pfeister, the Cubs have added Jake Northrup of the Reading Tri-State club, a big right hander, said to be one of the real "finds" of the year. All told the pitching staff as now assembled consists of fifteen men and others may be signed before the team embarks next spring for the training camp.

BOWLING NOTES

The 1911-12 bowling season in Fresno was formally opened last night at the Brunswick alleys and many of the old faces were seen facing the foul lines. No ten pins were played, but duck pins came in for their share of the patronage. The bowling season will be opened in earnest next Wednesday, when new balls arrive from San Francisco. The alleys were brilliantly lighted last night for the first time in several years. Many improvements have been made by the new management, and a successful season is predicted.

Crucial Game in City League Is Due Today

CITY LEAGUE FLAG DEPENDS ON BIG GAME TODAY

Bittels Will Try to Beat Tigers and Capture Spalding Trophy.

The crucial game of the 1911 baseball season in Fresno will be pulled off this afternoon at Recreation park between the Tigers and Bittels, who are tied for first place in the City League. Each manager will send his prize flinger and a battle royal is sure to result.

Cuyler Leonard, who made his reputation with the State League Tigers, will start the game in the box for Rogers Ford's pennant chasers. In case Leonard weakens, Southpaw Smith will climb the hill. Guy Preston will work behind the bat, with his brother, Karl, on first base; Ned Smith at second, Doc Wagner at third and Al Klein on short. Scott Ford, Grover Brandt and one of the pitchers will perform in the outfield. This combination gives Manager Ford a strong line up.

Southpaw Musson, considered by many fans to be the best leaver in the City League, will do the gunning for Bill Budge's Bittels. Girtz or Oleander will catch, while the infield will be composed of Stanley Cartwright, Earl Hemphill, George Smith and Walter Cartwright, late of the Spokane Northwestern League club. Dad Reuter, West and Pegger Lewis will cavort in the outfield. If the Bittels beat the Tigers today, the season will be over and the handsome Spalding silver cup will be taken from the Tigers. If Ford's men win, a post-season series of three games will follow.

Charley Klein and Charley Burleigh will do the umpiring and the diamond struggle will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

WINNERS IN NATIONAL.

Former National League pitchers are few and far between in the American League when those that jumped to the younger organization nine years ago are excluded, but former American League flingers are rather numerous in the National. And several of them are going very well, at that.

Bob Keefe, for instance, once a Yanker, leads the Cincinnati pitchers with eleven wins and nine defeats. Elmer Steele, tried by the Red Sox for two or three seasons, is one of the mainstays in the box for the Pirates just now. Suggs, the former Tiger, has won ten and lost the same number for the Reds, while Frank Smith, the burly graduate from the Comisky and Taylor camps, has won ten and lost fourteen for Griffith's aggregation.

Bill Burns, once with Washington and Chicago, and later with Cincinnati, has won five and lost nine for the Phillies. Barger, tried by the Yankees a few years ago, has won seven and lost thirteen with Brooklyn, not a bad record for a hearer with a second division team.

Cy Young, Pat Flaherty and Jack Ryan, other American League graduates, are each credited with few defeats.

SMUGGLED OPIUM FOUND AFTER BEING HIDDEN TWENTY YEARS

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 21—A relic of pioneer opium smuggling days came to light today when E. Olsen was clearing land between Port Townsend and Port Discovery and unearthed a cache of opium valued at $1500.

The opium was encased in several sheet iron boxes. The boxes were found in a stump and were so badly rusted that they fell to pieces when handled and the five tael tins dropped out. The find was reported to the customs officials, who took charge of the opium.

The opium is believed to have been cached more than twenty years ago, when a fleet of sloops were operated between the sound and Victoria, bringing in contraband from British Columbia, making the run at night.

YALE VARSITY IS DEFEATED BY WEST POINT

Cadets Score Second Victory, 6 to 0, on Field Covered With Mud.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 21.—In an aquatic struggle, in which both sides had sometimes fairly to swim for the ball, the West Point Cadets, by the superior charging and ability to hold on to the pigskin, won from Yale today, for the second consecutive year, by 6 to 0. The army touchdown came in the first three minutes of play, when Dean captured the ball on a Yale fumble on the Blues' 30-yard line, circled Yale's right end for a 27-yard run to the three yard line and in two rushes was pushed over for the first score against the Blue this season. A minute later he kicked goal, and the score stood 6 to 0, where it remained, although both elevens had a fierce struggle to the finish.

The Army outplayed Yale at every point and continually threw the Blue back for losses. With their hands well roshned, the Cadet back field only fumbled two of Yale's twenty-six punts, while the Army forwards go the jump on the Yale line at every down. Yale stood once on the Army's 20-yard-line, but was never nearer the Cadets' goal. On the other hand, Gillespie, the brilliant Army end, grabbed a muffed ball by Philbin in the center of the field and slipped along to the one yard line before a Yale player overhauled him. A score seemed inevitable, but on the first rush in which Yale held the Cadets were sent back 15 yards for holding. There an effort was made for a placement goal, but Yale easily blocked the kick.

In the last period the Army was within eighteen yards of the Yale goal, where another placement kick was blocked.

It was a kicking game throughout. Yale rushed but eighteen times for a net gain of 48 yards, while the Army made 46 yards in eleven rushes, including Dean's long run. Few football battles have been fought under such severe conditions. The gridiron was a swamp, and it rained throughout the game, so that time was frequently called to allow the players to sponge their faces.

Six thousand persons stood in the downpour to watch the contest.

SNODGRASS SPIKED BAKER IN EFFORT TO DO INJURY

Capt. Davis Blames Hugh Jennings for Plot to Hurt Athletics.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—Harry Davis, the Athletic's first baseman and captain, charges Hughey Jennings, the Detroit manager, with being the ringleader of a plot to disable Baker and brands him as a traitor to the American League.

Davis claims that Jennings, knowing the weak spots of the Athletics, pointed them out to McGraw, and one of these was the fact that Baker, who is said to be crude in the art of tagging a runner, could be intimidated by rough work on bases. Davis further claims that Snodgrass had this in mind when he tore from first into Baker in both Saturday and Tuesday's game.

The Athletics captain even goes further, and states that he has positive evidence that Snodgrass was given a new pair of shoes before the series, and had them decorated with extra long spikes.

Hal Chase, the Highlander manager, also rises to state that Snodgrass' attempt appeared deliberate, while on the other hand, "Red" Doolin of the Phillies takes the stand that if a baseman is unable to get out of the way of a base runner he should suffer the consequences.

World's series activities were held in check again today. Despite the fact that Philadelphia enjoyed a good customary sleep during the downpour there seemed to be enough to stir the ordinary community.

Chief among the thrills which next to the charges against Jennings, which Snodgrass, the Giant's center fielder, caused a bit of scurrying among certain parties was the report that Fred Snodgrass, the Giant's center fielder, had been shot. This proved unfounded. Connie Mack then launched a tirade against this same Snodgrass for his alleged attempts to spike Frank Baker in both games at New York, and the Athletic leader made known his feelings in the affair by terming it a "dirty malicious trick." Mack later denied this.

Another thing which furnished a thrill was the story of Arthur Wilson, the Giant's catcher, being recognized as the person who was taken into custody by the police here on Monday with a block of 500 seats for Tuesday's game at the Polo grounds. Just about the time the National Commission hinted that something might be stirred up, it was found out that Wilson was not the man.

That some work in connection with the ticket sale has been going on, not strictly according to form, is made certain by the stand of B. B. Johnson, president of the American League and member of the National Committee.

Aroused over the action of the scalpers, Johnson is reported to have said that upon a formal complaint he would start an investigation. On the other hand Garry Herrmann of the Reds, and President Lynch of the National League, say there will be nothing of the kind, and the owner of the Giants, John Brush, takes the same attitude.

It seems that the spiking episode has aroused every baseball enthusiast in the East. For one thing, Fred Snodgrass denies that he ever entertained the thought of putting Baker out of the game by such tactics. Baker, who is said to be suffering from poisoning as the result of the gashes received from the Giant's spikes, but who, nevertheless, is about, and awaiting the call for battle, refuses to give his view of the affair.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 21.—The Navy and Princeton played a scoreless tie here today. Although neither goal was at any time endangered, the game was a stirring one from the viewpoint of the spectators.

The work of the Tigers was the more consistent. Their speed and aggression in attack kept the sailors on the go most of the time, but this advantage was offset by the midshipmen captain Dalton's advantage over Wewitt at punting.

Each team made a try for a field goal. Princeton's effort was made early in the first period, but it was not until the end of the game that Navy tried the play. After a good return run on an exchange of punts and a line plunge followed by a five-yard penalty that put the pigskin inside the 30-yard mark, the sailors made a last effort to score from the field. But the Tiger line got through and blocked the attempt.

WORLD'S SERIES IS PUT ON SHELF BY RAIN

Water Continues to Pour Down and Eastern Fans Are Restless.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21—It may seem far fetched, but baseball fans in this city, are anxious tonight over the prospects of the fourth game of the world's baseball series between the Philadelphia Americans and the New York Nationals.

After the postponement today, Connie Mack, manager of the Americans, said the weather must clear soon or there would be doubts about a game on Monday.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The fourth game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the New York Giants for the baseball championship of the world, which was scheduled to be played here last Wednesday, was postponed today for the fourth time and under the rules will be played on Monday or the first clear day.

Rain fell heavier than at any time since the present weather set in last Tuesday night. Umpires Klem and Dineen under instructions from the National Commission went to Shibe Park at 7:30 o'clock this morning to make an early decision so that an announcement could be made in New York and other eastern cities within reach of Philadelphia. The umpires agreed before they left their hotel that there could be no game.

Connie Mack was not at the ball grounds when the umpires made their decision but when he arrived and took a look at the wretched conditions of the field he said it appeared to him that it was doubtful if a game would be played Monday, unless the rain soon ceased.

Among the telegrams received by Manager Mack was an invitation to play one of the games in Tacoma, Wash. The members of the Philadelphia team reported at the grounds as usual today and were excused until Monday morning at 10 o'clock when they will try to get some needed practice.

As soon as the game was officially postponed, Manager McGraw of the New York team released the members of his team until Monday morning and they scattered in all directions. Most of them left New York at 11 o'clock.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 21.—The Colorado tigers failed to divulge much ferocity of attack against Wisconsin today, Wisconsin winning, 25 to 0.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

COALINGA, Oct 21—The Associated Jeffs, an aggregation of ball tossers, who were shut out by a score of 13 to 0 by the K. T. & O. Mutts last week, have made known their determination to defeat their victors on the local diamond tomorrow morning. Both teams have been doing considerable practicing and the Mutts say that the Jeffs never did have a look in. The dispute will be settled tomorrow if the Mutts succeed in winning the second game. If however, they lose, the rubber will have to be played off at a later date. Harry Gill of the Mutts, is the authority for the boast that the Mutt and Jeff series will make the world's championship series look like a game of Ping Pong in a Chinese laundry.

The lineup for the K. T. & O. Mutts is Hagerty, c; Rush, p; Gill 1b; Geiger, 2b; Lake, 3b; Marton, ss; Willbanks, lf; Shannon, cf; Harrod, rf; Stewart, utility.

The lineup for the Associated Oil Company's Jeffs is Porterfield, c; Strong, p; Hutchinson, 1b; Strong, 2b; Collins, 3b; Wise, ss; Smith, lf; Boone, cf; Carlton, rf.

The crack baseball team from Heald's College slipped one over on Fowler Hi to the tune of 9 to 1, yesterday. Lefty Bagle was in fine form, striking out sixteen men, allowing but four hits and one walk.

The feature of the game was a home run by Franchi with one man on base. Heald's would like to land games with Clovis, Sanger and Selma Highs. Write A. S. Frisch, care Heald's.

The grammar school Athletics beat the All Stars yesterday afternoon in an exciting nine inning game to the tune of 12 to 10.

STANFORD VARSITY BEATS U. S. C. AFTER RUB

Southerners Fight Hard and Cardinals Are Lucky to Win, 6-0.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21.—In what was declared to be the best game of Rugby ever played in Southern California, Stanford Varsity today defeated the University of Southern California, 6 to 0.

U. S. C. supporters were jubilant tonight, as they regarded the outcome of the game more of a victory than a defeat, and declared it marked an epoch in football lore of the south.

"We were out for the first time," said one of the trainers, "while Stanford is a team of veterans. The game clearly places U. S. C. in a class with Stanford and Berkeley."

WARREN CAR TAKES SECOND PLACE IN ENDURANCE

Hobson Gets Silver Cup; Will Go After Fresno Record Today.

(Special to the Republican.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 21.—Columbus Hobson's Warren-Detroit car will leave here at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning for a record run to Fresno. W. W. Sargent will accompany Hobson. The present record is seven hours and seventeen minutes, but Hobby expects to negotiate the 206 miles in six hours or less. New tires were placed on the Warren car today by Hobson and Sargent. Leaving here at 5 o'clock, the Warren will be due at the Elmore garage, Fresno, about 11 o'clock.

Today it was announced that Hobson's Warren had won one of the silver cups in the recent San Francisco to Los Angeles and return endurance test. The Warren car was given second place by the officials of the A. A. A. The run was conducted under the auspices of the Good Roads club of Northern California.

Hobson drove the car from here to Los Angeles and thence to Fresno, where W. W. Sargent took the wheel and brought the machine to the finishing point. Local auto men believe the Warren made a great showing over exceptionally rough roads and it is predicted that the car will break the record from here to Fresno tomorrow morning.

Tom O'Rourke, who looks after the interests of Al Palzer, wants the sporting world to know that he has the only white hope who hasn't been thrown into the discard, and is eager to match him with either Jim Flynn or Al Kaufman. Here's what O'Rourke says:

"We have had the white hopes. They have all come and gone, and the only one that has proved his worth is Al Palzer. He has shown the boxing public that he is not a newspaper-made fighter, and is still anxious to show all other white men like Jim Flynn and Al Kaufman, who claim to be the only white hopes, that he wants to mingle with one of them. Palzer has done all that has been asked of him, having whipped everybody he has met to the public's satisfaction."

OFFERINGS FROM THE THEATERS

"MY HUSBAND'S CHILDREN," IMMENSE FARCE COMEDY, STARTS AT THE EMPIRE TOMORROW NIGHT

Miss Ella Houghton, ingenue at Empire, whose cleverness has made her a popular favorite among Fresno theater-goers.

"My Husband's Children" has been chosen by the Thorne company to be the attraction at the cozy family theater next week beginning tomorrow night. This play is a farce comedy that has kept eastern audiences laughing for the past two seasons and its presentation at the Empire next week will probably be the first time it has been produced in California. It should prove to the liking of Fresno show-goers not only because of its merits as one of the best written of recent comedies but also because it will be variety from this week's show, which is of a more deep nature.

In "My Husband's Children" next week Miss Ella Houghton will be seen in one of her charming "maid" characterizations. It is in such parts as these that the chic little ingenue of the Empire Stock players has endeared herself to the patrons of the theater. Not by her cleverness alone has this talented little actress won her way into the favor of Fresnans, however. She possesses charm in her work, great talent and above all, a personality that adapts itself to whatever character she portrays and makes that character stand out distinctly and compellingly, no matter how unimportant.

A matinee this afternoon and the performance tonight will close the week's run of "The Amateur Cracksman," one of the most interesting and absorbing plays of the season. The story of the blind chase, the capture and final escape of a wealthy, educated cracksman who steals for the lust of excitement, is one of the most interesting tales ever enacted and it is proving the means of displaying the talent of the very clever company of players.

"THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST," PLAY OF EARLY CALIFORNIA MINING DAYS

HEADING THE CAST OF BELASCO'S MASTERPIECE, 'THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST," AT THE BARTON NEXT TUESDAY EVENING.

No stronger guarantee of the merit of an attraction could be given theater-goers of this city than the fact that they are to be offered an opportunity of witnessing a Belasco production of a Belasco play under Belasco direction.

This is true of "The Girl of the Golden West," David Belasco's stirring play of early California life, which will be presented in this city at the Barton Tuesday evening, by Evelyn Vaughn and Bertram Lytell, supported by the Alcazar Theater company of San Francisco, under the personal direction of Mr. Frederic Belasco, brother of the famous playwright. The coming of this play is especially opportune because Puccini has set the story to music and the combined efforts of composer and playwright have given to America its first and only recognized successful grand opera, and that coming under the direction of Mr. Belasco given them opportunity of witnessing the orginal scenery and efferts.

Bret Harte never wrote a more thrilling or interesting story than did David Belasco in "The Girl of the Golden West."

The orginal scenery and properties used in the premiere have been loaned by David Belasco, and a picturesque production is promised.

Alias Jimmy Valentine

The attraction at the Barton on Monday evening, October 30th, will be H. B. Warner, in the famous detective-thief play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine," which comes here with the unusual record of a two-years' run in New York. All the completeness which distinguished the New York engagement will be in evidence when the star is seen in Fresno. Liebler & Co., under whose management Mr. Warner appears, have a reputation for the carefulness with which their productions are made, rather added to, by the manner in which the story of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" has been embellished by proper staging in every respect. Even more important is the consideration this management has given Mr. Warner's cast. Frank Monroe has made a decided hit as the detective and has been one of the favorites of the company in New York and wherever the play has since been seen. The capability of the company is further indicated by the presence of Phyllis Sherwood, as "the right sore of a girl," who helps Jimmy to a better life.

How "Alias Jimmy Valentine" happened to come into being is an interesting little incident. O. Henry, whose death took away one of the best known and most capable of American short story writers, wrote "A Retrieved Reformation," George C. Tyler, managing director of the firm of Liebler & Co., thought he saw dramatic material in the story. Paul Armstrong agreed with Mr. Tyler and founded his play, "Alias Jimmy Valentine" on Mr. Henry's story, writing the play in five days. Mr. Warner created the role of the bank burglar pardoned from Sing Sing and put in a respectable position in a bank. "Jimmy's" own development and the redemption of some of his "pals," interwoven with a love story makes the play of absorbing and human interest. The safe-breaking scene is one of the most thrilling stage pictures in years.

The seat sale will open Wednesday, October 25th.

BATTLE OF TRAFALGAR, ARTISTIC TRIUMPH.

For the first time since the invention of the moving picture, Fresno last night witnessed an ideal interpretation of superior Photo Plays.

"Playing the Pictures" was a revelation to those who never have had the pleasure of attending a performance such as was given at the Fresno Photo Theater yesterday. The new management is earnest in its endeavors to present to motion picture lovers not only the best pictures, but also beautiful music. If last evening's performance is a sample of what we are always to expect, then, indeed, the millenium in photo plays has arrived, and the new management is to be congratulated upon their up-to-date methods.

The Battle of Trafalgar is a wonderfully acted production, and is absolutely historically correct in every detail. Lord Nelson is shown leaving the Almiralty room, where he makes his famous speech, and then he is introduced with his captains giving the details of that wonderful plan of attack that was carried out to the letter at Trafalgar, the inspirations of the captains and their enthusiastic toast.

We are then carried along to the day before the battle, when the men are writing their last letters home. Here a beautiful scenic and photograph effect is introduced as the vision of the sweetheart of one of the lieutenants fades into view. This gives an opportunity to introduce that famous episode of the letter in which Lord Nelson called back the mail ship for a single message, and which is endeared to the hearts of all those who sail the sea.

Then comes the morning of October 21st, 1805, when the fleet of the enemy is sighted. The decks are cleared for action and the hoisting of the colors portrayed with all the solemnity of the occasion before entering the battle. The correct incident of the hoisting of the famous signal, "England expects every man to do his duty" is splendidly portrayed and carried out in every detail, and we note the pathetic touch in Nelson's life in bidding farewell to his captains, having at the time a presentment of his own death.

We now get to the little human touch in his life and learn the true character of the man; for, in his last entry in his diary before the battle, he makes peace with his Maker. And now we come to that wonderful spectacular picture of the real battle of Trafalgar. We see the ships in action, the firing of the guns, the ships caught on fire, and then the camera switches to a close view of the deck of the Victory, where human life is sacrificed by the hundreds, the fighting top of the Redoubtable, the fatal shot and Nelson's fall. We then see that wonderful character in his death, the solemnity, the beauty and the pathos of it all being carried out by the Edison players in all its grandeur; his farewell to Captain Hardy, the last kiss, the news of the victory and finally his death.

We can only say that it is the most beautiful picture that has ever been presented in Fresno; the lighting effects, the music and general atmosphere being a marvel of good taste.

Lambardi Opera Company

Reviewing the opening performances of the Lambardi Grand Opera company, that superb body of Italian artists now on it's sixth tour of the United States, and which will be heard in this city at the Barton on the dates of Tuesday, October 31st, and Wednesday, November 1st, the San Francisco Chronicle printes the following:

"The return of the Lombardi Grand Opera company yesterday afternoon was greeted with a warmth that left no doubt as to the delight of the music-going public over the opportunity of hearing real grand opera. The theater was tested to its capacity, and as each familiar personality came to view, he was received with enthusiastic remembrance. The greatest storm of applause however, was reserved for Sig. Angelo Antola, whose voice and talents have left an indelible mark.

"Keen interest also awaited the appearance of the remarkable young Spanish singer, Senor Manuel Salazar, who has been classified as the "Spanish Caruso.' Salazar proved a most valuable acquisition to the company and immediately established himself with the audience as an artist of the highest rank.

"A chorus in excellent training upheld the principals; the concerted work was even, while the singers showed themselves familiar with all the requirements ,brought about by long experience.

"The season opened with 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' in which two new voices were introduced, Salazar making his initial American bow as Turridu. He leaves little to be wished for in the artist who interpretated the music, by the way, is a wonderful psychologist, and is really quite half the show.

The Pathe Weekly is another innovation that has carried the motion picture public by storm. It is a real live newspaper and illustrates all the important events of international interest in America and all other countries of the world, such as inaugurations, coronations, fires, earthquakes, sporting events ,labor troubles, military and naval operations and so on indefinitely.

Next Monday and Tuesday the Fresno theater will present Hal Chase's Home Run, a delightful comedy drama, in which the famous captain of the New York American baseball ball team is shown playing his position of first base, later in the day winning the pennant by a home run in the last of the ninth, bringing joy to the ardent fans, and happiness to the two lovers whose fate depends upon Hal's prowess with the bat. Hal is a good actor, too, he being the first baseball player to pose before the films on a real stage.

"Our Navy" will also be played on Monday and Tuesday next. This is the first complete picture ever filmed of Uncle Sam's bluejackets at work. It is intensely interesting and shows the navy at work and at play.

The launching of the dreadnought "Florida" is a feature included in this film.

"THE KING OF GAZZOKS" WILL BE NEW MUSICAL SHOW AT TEAL'S THEATER

Drew Avery, who plays juvenile character leads at Teal's theater.

"The Land of Manana' this week's show at Teal's has been one distinct hit and many novelties introduced during the action of the show has met with the hearty approval of the playgoers that have nightly thronged the Theater. "I'm Looking for a Nice Young Fellow" a novelty electrical number sung by petite Margaret Davis and the Teal Ducklings simply takes the house by storm "Yankee Doodle Boy," "Rustiano Rag," "Honey I Will Long for You" are all good numbers. Raymond Teal as Gen. Campos is a riot of fun and his three song numbers are all good and take encore after encore. Today's Matinee and tonight's show will see the last of this offering and starting with Monday night Mr. Teal will present for the first time here, "The King Gazzoks" from the pen of Mr. Fritz Fields. It is an original musical production with clever comedy and high class musical numbers. Complete special scenery is used for the show and the entire Teal acting force will be seen in the production. Wednesday night, 'Chorus girls' contest night will be a gala one as every one of the Teal Ducklings will compete for prizes at this contest.

histrionic line, giving a capable and forceful delineation of the scornful and indifferent lover. His personality is impressive and his voice lyric in quality, possessing most dramatic emphasis. Enjoyable as Tirridu, Salazar found a still better outlet for his vocal powers as Canio, in the second opera 'Pagliacci.'

"Mme. Elvira Bosetti, found a 'welcome home' awaiting her and could not resist showing her pleasure. She sings a virile Santuzu, having dramatic depth both in voice and action, with the same resonance which characterized her former engagement here. In the desperation of her role, Bosetti gains unqualified admiration for her intensity, sustaining at all times, her full power.

"Sneeces attended the first opera, but the vast audience awaited impatiently the rise of the curtain on 'Pagliacci' that it might offer its greeting to Sig. Angelo Antola ,and he found no cordiality wanting. As the clown ,disturber of peace, prankish and revengeful, Antola is hard to duplicate. Simultaneously his voice is something to enjoy and to remember, and the close of the prologue evoked such a storm of applause that Antola lost little time in repeating his work.

"As Canio, Salazar reached his height giving a very fine rendition of the tragedy in the life of the strolling player. His despair over the unfaithfulness of Nedda bringing him loud acclaim of the house. Mme. Lucia Cecchetti appeared for the first time as Harlequin, sing-

"The production, as a whole, may be described as impressive, the orchestra being splendidly directed by Sig. Luigi Cecchetti, who is a masterful and enthusiastic maestro.

Gertrude Hoffmann

Gertrude Hoffman and her wonderful company of Russian artists in "La Saison des Ballets Russes" comes to the Barton opera house Monday evening, November 6th. The American public has seen nothing more sensational and beautiful than the entertainment provided by this ingenious and daring woman, who has carried dance and choregraphic mimodrama a la Russe to new triumphs. It is, indeed, due to Miss Hoffman that America is actually ahead of European centers in this branch of amusement life. The Russian dance is a craze abroad, but is has never been exhibited in the old world upon a scale equaling the Hoffman representation, either in magnitude or splendor. Miss Hoffman that America is actually the spectacle consists in theimpersonation of Marc Antony's queen in "Cleopatre," the first ballet, and of "Zobeide" the favorite of the harem in the final ballet, a disclosure of a portion of the Arabian Nights called "Sheherezade." Mlle. Lydia Lopoukowa, Ballerina, Imperial theater, St. Petersburg, Mlle. Maria Baldina, ballerina, imperial theater, Moscow, Theodore Kosloff, premier danseur, Imperial theater, St. Petersburg, and Alexander Volinine, premier danseur, Imperial theater, Moscow, contribute marvelous solo dances. The seat sale opens Thursday, November 2d. Manager Barton is now accepting mail orders, when accompanied by check or money order. The price scale will be as follows: Entire lower floor, $2.00; balcony, first three rows, $2.00; next four rows, $1.50; balance rows, $1; boxes and logeseats $2.50, and gallery, not reserved, 50c.

THE MIRROR-SELF.

When nothing, outside, the child could do,
There still remained one weirdest play,
Which I played till I shivered through and through!

Two pieces of mirror, and I between—
There was the self that smiled as I smiled;
Beyond, a second—a third—was seen,
And last, oh, last, was an Elfin child!

Each face in the mirror (mirrored, too)
Gazed at its image—and all at me;
But each reflection less like me grew—
And I shut my eyes, that I might not see!

* * *

Those broken shards they were cast away,
Dropped, with so many a childish game,
Yet, still, at the mirror charm I play—
With no glass at all, it is just the same.

For thought, now, serves me mirror wise;
And, whenever within I list to gaze,
There, frankly looking me in the eyes,
Is the wonted self, of my current days!

But, back of that wonted self of mine
(Just as it looked so long ago),
Are the other selves, and, last in the line,
Is the mocking one I do not know.
—Edith M. Thomas, in Scribner's

IT WASN'T AN ONION

Mrs. Jackson, wife of the Rev. Henry E. Jackson, pastor of the Christian Congregational church of Montclair, and her two children are recovering from the effects of eating a poisoned flower which the Jackson cook used in mistake for an onion in preparing a dish for dinner.

Mrs. Jackson and the children were made violently ill after dinner. The peculiar taste of the concoction was such that none ate much of it. The cook's explanation is that, desiring an onion to flavor the dinner, she went to the garden and pulled a bulb which she supposed to be the vegetable she desired.—New York American.

CLOVIS PEOPLE PROTEST AGAINST ACTION ON HIGHWAY ROUTE

Ask Local Organizations to Withdraw Resolutions Favoring Kearney.

Many Arguments Presented to Show Why Road Should Be Along R. R.

A delegation from the Clovis Chamber of Commerce met with the directors of the Fresno County Chamber of Commerce and the directors of the Fresno Merchant's Association yesterday morning to present arguments why the state highway should not come into Fresno by way of Kearney avenue and to ask the directors of the local organizations to rescind the actions taken by them in separate sessions, recommending the Kearney avenue route.

It was decided that the directors of the two organizations would again consider the routes proposed, in separate session, at some date in the near future, but that the people of Kerman, who, it is claimed, will received greater benefits, will have an opportunity to present their side of the matter.

The Clovis people were represented by T. B. McKelvy, president of the Clovis Chamber of Commerce, A. B. Turpey and H. D. Carver. Wylie M. Giffen presided at the meeting.

The Clovis people want the road to come down the main line of the Southern Pacific into Fresno and announced yesterday that they would build up the roads leading from this highway into the Clovis district. They argued that Clovis pays much more taxes than Kerman and should be entitled to more recognition and they said further that the Clovis district would bear the greater proportion of the cost of the road because of the greater taxes. For that reason they asked consideration in the mapping of the route. Scores of letters were presented asking that the road come by way of the main line of the Southern Pacific.

Wylie Giffen said that the question of taxes had not entered into the discussion as far as he was concerned and that the Chamber of Commerce had considered only a route that would be of the greatest benefit to the county. The proximity of Kerman to the road was not considered, he asserted.

D. L. Newman, a member of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce, replying to the statement made about taxes, said that the Coalinga district pays more taxes into the county than Clovis and still the road will not come anywhere near that town. He said he could not see any argument there.

The Fresno men said they had not taken the action that has caused such criticism from Clovis without careful consideration and that in recommending the route they had done so with the idea of having the road come into Fresno through the best part of the country. They argued that it would be a detriment to the city and county to have the road come in by way of the main line of the Southern Pacific.

McKelvy declared that the Fresno organizations had no right to make any recommendations in this matter. H. E. Wilkinson, president of the Merchants' Association, replied to this by saying that one of the purposes of their organization was to consider and pass on public matters.

The meeting waxed very warm at times but the turbulent periods were of short duration and made no impression on the session.

It is expected that this matter will come up at the regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, but it will not be taken up by the Merchants' Association for a week at least, according to a statement made by H. E. Wilkinson.

BANKER SNODGRASS NOT WITH TIDEWATER

Editor Republican—Your paper of this morning's issue mentions my name as one of the directors of the Tide Water and Southern Railroad Company. The announcement of my name as a member of the board of directors of this company is a mistake, which I wish to correct in your columns.

The Tide Water and Southern railroad people seem to be building an electric railroad with every appearance of success and I would not in any way discourage their efforts, but previous engagements prevent my accepting a position on any new boards.

D. S. SNODGRASS.

MEXICANS ARRESTED FOR GRAND LARCENY

Many Stolen Watches Are Found in Possession of Prisoners.

Charges of grand larceny were late yesterday afternoon lodged against Jesus Ramarez and Pedra Juarez, Mexicans, who were arrested yesterday noon by Patrolman Enos and Davis. The officers allege that the two Mexicans stole several watches and various other articles out of a jewelry store in Chinatown. Ramarez was first arrested and lodged in jail. He was charged with vagrancy.

When accosted by the officer he was attempting to sell a silver watch. He was searched and several other watches were found in his possession. Ramarez declared that the watches had been given to him by another Mexican. He gave the description of the other Mexican to the officers and they later arrested Juarez. The men failed to recognize each other at the county jail, but the officers are certain that they are the men that robbed the jewelry store.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK OFFICIALLY OPENED IN FRESNO

Private Secretary to Postmaster Makes First Deposit of $1.

Two Hundred and Fifty-one Dollars Placed in Bank First Day.

With deposits amounting to $251 the Postal Savings bank in the Fresno post office was officially opened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock with Frank Cardwell in charge of the department. The opening of the savings bank was not marked by anything out of the usual excepting one Fresnan refused to deposit any money in the bank because he was not allowed to deposit $800 on the first day. It is against the rules for any person to deposit more than $100 during a calendar month.

The window to the savings bank is located in the same part of the post office as the money order department. The first deposit was made yesterday by John W. Baldwin, private secretary to Postmaster John Short, who placed $1 in the bank. The largest deposite for the day was $85.

The bank will open between the hours of 9 in the morning and 5 o'clock in the evening excepting on legal holidays and Sundays. After any one person has deposited $500 in the bank they are credited with postal bonds and they are then entitled to start another account. The money draws 2 per cent interest which is of course less than the interest paid by the other banks. The inducement to deposit in the savings bank is that a person's money is secure and there is no danger of the bank failing.

The Postal Savings bank deposits its money with one of Fresno banks which is required to put up a certain bond before any of the postal money is placed in the vaults. The Postal bank does not do a checking business and the depositor can only secure his money by appearing at the bank in person or by making a deposition on a form issued by the bank.

Any person of the age of 10 years or more may become a depositor in the bank. The account of a married woman will be free from control or interference by her husband. An account cannot be opened for less than $1 and fractions of a dollar cannot be deposited.

Cardwell stated last evening that he was not discouraged by the small deposits on the first day—and that he expected to be exceptionally busy this week issuing postal certificates to new depositors.

BRICKMASONS OUT WITH CONTRACTORS OVER NEW WAGE SCALE

Journeymen Cannot Work for Carpenters for Less Than $8 Per Day.

H. A. Hansen Threatens to Join Master Brickmasons If Permitted.

Trouble is brewing in Fresno between the carpenter contractors, brickmasons and master brickmasons. The controversy started on the brick building at K and Kern streets, where H. Graff & Co. is erecting its new store.

H. A. Hansen, a carpenter has the contract. Under the rules of the brickmasons' union of Fresno none of its members can work for a carpenter contractor for less than $8 for an eight hour working day. However, the same union brickmasons may work for a brick contractor for $7 per day. All foremen are to receive $8 per day if working under a brick contractor and $9 for a carpenter contractor. Hansen refuses to pay $8 per day to his brickmasons and says he will join the master brickmasons before he will accede to the demands of the brickmasons' union.

Hansen's statement is causing the controversy to become heated. The carpenter contractor is a member of the carpenters' union and is said to be a mechanic in this line. However, he also lays claim to being a brickmason, having laid bricks in his native country Denmark. A committee from the brickmasons' union yesterday called on Hansen and issued its ultimatum. This committee informed the carpenter contractor that he cannot join the master brickmasons because he is no brickmason.

A curious state of affairs exists in the controversy because of the fact that members of the master brickmasons are also members of the brickmason's union, this organization recognizing the master mechanics as journeymen. Moreover, the master brickmasons must be kept in the journeymen's union or they would not have sufficient members to form a quorum. In other words, the membership of the master brickmasons is larger than that of the journeymen's organization, which is the oldest union in Fresno, and number one in California.

Pending the outcome of the controversy, Contractor Hansen is employing union bricklayers imported from San Francisco. Local brickmasons refuse to work on the Graff building because Hansen, the contractor, is not a member of the master brickmasons. However, if Hansen agreed to pay his men $8 per day instead of $7, the regular wage scale there would be plenty of union men to lay bricks for him.

The purpose of the new scale adopted by the bricklayers is to force the carpenter contractors of Fresno to sublet the brick work to members of the master brickmasons. This organization is a part of the journeymen's union.

Hansen still maintains he is a bricklayer and therefore entitled to become a member of the master bricklayers union in order that he may pay $7 per day instead of $8 as demanded at the present time. Unless an adjustment is brought about this week, Contractor Hansen will finish the brick work on the Graff building with union men brought here from other cities, where no union of master brickmasons exists.

COMEDIAN TO RE-WED HIS PRESENT WIFE

Former Husband of Maude Lillian Berri Not Sure He Is Really Married.

NEW YORK, October 21—Frank Moulan, the comedian, is wondering just where he stands.

"Am I married or am I not?" he has been soliloquizing.

The answer did not seem easy, and as some of his friends assured him he was, while others were equally certain he was not, he determined to settle the whole business Sunday by again leading Miss Beatrice Mershon, an actress, before a Justice of the Peace or a dominie.

The mix-up is a result of the divorce laws of California, where Moulan's former matrimonial tangles were straightened out. The question is, was he a single man a year ago, or did he become so only last Tuesday, when the final decree was signed in San Francisco giving Miss Maude Lillian Berri, also a comic opera singer, her freedom?

The comedian was secretly married to Miss Mershon, an understudy in "The Siren," in which Moulan is playing, nearly a year ago.

Miss Berri got her interlocutory decree against Moulan a year ago, and Moulan says that after the interlocutory decree was granted he was free to remarry in any state he liked except California, and that, as a matter of fact, he and Miss Mershon were married last December in Canada.

RUNAWAY HORSES COLLIDE WITH CAR

A runaway team last night collided with a street car at the corner of Belmont and Blackstone avenues and one of the horses was so badly injured that the animal will likely have to be killed. The owner of the team is not known. Motorman Townsend and Conductor Phelps were in charge of the street car. The car had just crossed Belmont avenue and was continuing toward Zapp's Park when the team came running down the road and ran into the car.

One horse escaped with a few cuts while the other animal was probably fatally injured. The injured horse is under the care of Dr. Langley. Patrolman McKee and Pickens investigated the affair and traveled out Blackstone avenue for about two miles but were unable to locate the owner of the team.

CRUISERS AT SAN DIEGO.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 21—Four big cruisers of the Pacific fleet are anchored in San Diego Bay today. The flagship of the fleet, the California, entered the harbor unexpectedly late yesterday at a speed of 16 knots an hour and thus broke the theoretical blockade of the ports established by the torpedo fleet. This is the fastest time ever entering or leaving San Diego Bay.

PRE-CAMPAIGN RALLY IS HELD AT Y. M. C. A.

Water Sports and Basketball Contest Mark "Joy-fest."

The last of the pre-campaign rally meetings was held at the Y. M. C. A. last night and a fairly good sized attendance was present to enjoy the games and sports of the evening. The boys of the green and orange publicity teams, under the leadership of Captains Chandler and Prior respectively, supervised the arrangement and carrying out of the scheduled events, and made it their personal task to see that all the visitors enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Water sports were held in the plunge, and the pool tables and chess boards were seldom unoccupied.

The special, and most entertaining event of the "joy-fest," was an excellent and hardly contested basketball game, which was played on the gymnasium floor. "Hackenschmidt's World Beaters" defeated the "Buy Orator Has Beens" by a final score of 12 to 11, after a warmly fought battle, which was well sustained by both the opposing forces.

At the end of the first half, the score stood 8 to 10, with the "World Beaters" on the top side. The "World Beaters" were favored with an extra point during the first part of the second half. At the end of the second half the "Has Beens" gained four more points. When the final score was announced a cheer was given for "Buy Orator" Chandler and his band of clever warriors.

The gala celebration of the campaign week will be given on Tuesday evening, Oct. 24th. Captains Gede and Hunter, with their followers of the black and white ribbon, respectively, will have charge of the program, and a long schedule of good, live, interesting events is promised.

DETECTIVE IS SENT TO BAKERSFIELD YARDS BY ESPEE

J. H. Farley Is Conducting Strike Investigation for Railroad Company.

Local Strikers Will Give Big Benefit Ball for Seventy-five Men.

J. H. Farley, representing a San Francisco detective agency, who came to Fresno last Wednesday to conduct an investigation into the strike for the Southern Pacific, left yesterday morning for Bakersfield. Farley will look over the strike situation in the oil town before continuing to Los Angeles. While here, he represented the railroad at the conference between city officials and local Espee men. Farley is an experienced officer and has been in the employ of the Harriman lines since September 20, when the present strike began. Before locating in San Francisco, he was chief of police at Denver for ten years.

With the departure of Detective Farley and J. Scheleberge, who has charge of the new men in the yards and shops at Bakersfield, the local situation was left in the hands of Assistant Superintendent Dodds and Officers Ady and Beck of the state railroad police. There was little or no change yesterday. Railroad officials reported that a great deal of freight is being handled in the Fresno yards and as a result box cars are at a premium.

All passenger trains were moving on time yesterday afternoon but last night No. 50 was forty minutes late. No. 26, known to the public as the Owl, pulled in about three minutes ahead of time. A report to Dodds over the railroad telephone wire last night from Superintendent Worthington was to the effect that everything is quiet in the Bakersfield yards and shops. About 350 new men are at work there. Since the strike was called, these new men have turned out four engines. Three of these have been sent to Fresno and are now in use on the San Joaquin valley division.

Local strikers are planning to celebrate their expected victory with a grand ball at the new Armory Hall on North I street. The dance will be given under the auspices of the system federation and the proceeds will go to the seventy-five strikers. Hundreds of tickets have been sold about the city by the union men.

Yesterday the strikers were jubilant because of the action taken by the Fresno Labor Council, which unanimously endorsed the walkout of the system federation members on the Harriman lines. The strikers were never more confident and the leaders expressed the belief yesterday that the Southern Pacific officials would accede to the demands of the system federation within thirty days.
